

Blackmailing God

This book was written for the purposes of prompting God to return to Earth and fix the problems that he started. The blackmail premise was for $50 million and me going to Heaven. Everything that is talked about in this book may have occurred to the best of my understanding. Any people mentioned are thought to be involved by both direct and indirect information. The premise of this book is that God would prevent me from writing this book by paying me off. There is a lot of information in this book that I do not think God would want out. Over the passing years, since October 2018, the following events have transpired. I have chosen to write this under a pen name so that my career will not be destroyed. I am also going to publish it as fiction to cover my ass. It just so happened that coronavirus thrived, and I had the free time to get to know God—and write about my experience. This is how it transpired.

In the fall of 2018, my life was floating in the crapper. I was getting harassed by the United States Navy for being an alcoholic. The Navy even placed me in an outpatient alcohol rehabilitation program. When a person gets nailed for alcohol abuse in the Navy, the Navy relentlessly tortures a person through their entire contract. Unlike “drinking school” where a person goes to a week-long alcohol education program, the Navy tends to put these people through the Substance Abuse Rehabilitation Program (SARP). I was stuck in SARP with no means of escape. I had just under four years left in the Navy at that point. My life was falling apart because I had relied on alcohol to keep my life glued together for years leading up to my four-year, active duty pay back for medical school. In hindsight, alcohol was about as effective as Elmer’s Liquid School Glue holding a tent together during a hurricane. In combination with the stress of daily life, it’s a miracle my tent held together for as long as it did. The Navy had just the right set of tools to tear my tent down to the stakes.

I was sober at the time I first accessed what I will call the “universe.” I was free from alcohol but decided to try Elysium-19 to get a beer buzz. A cheap, legal high that was undetectable by drug tests because I was getting tested for alcohol by the Navy. I strongly recommend never trying Elysium-19. Again, never try Elysium-19. I am not responsible for those who do because it is extremely dangerous and can have lasting side effects and consequences. When I first used Elysium-19, I fought the ability of the drug to alter my reality. As I became more and more comfortable, I allowed for the drug to alter my perception of reality...and my life will never be the same again. I had always thought that my life was cursed but did not know how or why. Now I know.

I first started using Elysium-19 in October of 2018. I experimented with watching YouTube music videos of Whitney Houston’s “I Wanna Dance with Somebody,” Elton John’s “Sad Songs,” Annie Lennox’s “No More I Love You’s,” and Tiffany’s “I Think We’re Alone Now.” The web browser seemed to pop out and started looking like the buttons were too big. During Whitney Houston's "I Wanna Dance with Somebody," I often got caught in a daze where I'd be connected to the song, but sometimes would see evil devil eyes where Ms. Houston's eyes were. In Elton John's "Sad Songs," I would see demonic eyes where car headlights were shining. Tiffany's "I Think We're Alone Now" was where the universe started to open up. Literally, my head would morph into the shape of a box. Then the sides would be pulled off and a loud popping noise would sound, and I would realize that I was alone. I think that song took on a different meaning for me in that humanity is alone. In my experience, the universe told me that if I did not use my talents and position for good, I was nothing more than vomit. At that point, I hallucinated vomiting cold vomit onto my chest. I could feel the cold, viscous vomit running down my chest.

In my readings as a kid and listening to older folks talking, I heard about people hallucinating or tripping on drugs. They talked about "contacting the universe." This was that universe! I never realized that it was so patterned and repetitive. It seemed tailored to my own capacities. Yes, I tried roughly one hundred times to access the universe. One hundred trips to the universe. What I experienced confirmed what I had heard, but I found that most of the anecdotes lacked creative description—because it was something that was difficult to describe in common language. I think that is why people use the phrase "a spiritual" experience to describe tripping on drugs like LSD, ketamine, and nitrous oxide. They do not do it often, and a lot of times some have a bad trip that wards them off from ever trying it again. Like, could you imagine tripping for six hours in a disoriented nightmare? That would be enough to scare a person away from ever exploring the universe again. Elysium-19 gave me the ability to kind of dive in and then surface rapidly. Like a quick trip, if the experience was bad, I had the reassurance of a quick return to normal. However, if I was enjoying the adventure, I would simply take more E-19—similar to scuba diving and being able to surface at will—so I was never stuck under too long or sinking deeper into the unknown. I really think that a person could be psychologically altered if they had to be stuck in some of those bad trips for too long. Elysium-19 was the perfect drug for that reason.

From then on, I started experimenting with dimming the lights in the room and then using the Elysium-19 to access the universe with my eyes closed. It was like seeing without using my eyes, seeing full pictures in real life while my eyes were closed. Visiting places that seemed far, far away while staying in my studio apartment. Then, there was a white marble table that came into view. That was the entrance to the universe. I was in the room with that table, and there were arrangements/objects like a bouquet of flowers, a gourd cornucopia, a vase, and placemats arranged on the place settings of the table. At that point, I knew that there was something deeper than just hallucinations. There appeared to be a formula or program within each expedition into the universe. I will refer to these as riddles. Each riddle was a test.

Blackmailing God

Within my small studio apartment, I progressed through test to subsequent test. These tests were designed to test logic, and if you used logic, you could get past them and level up to something more. At this point, I will describe a few of the riddles that I had to solve or experience.

I will also emphasize here that things were digital in form. There were not many real-life pictures. Mostly what was seen was in a blotchy digital format. The universe is constantly being updated, so since I have not accessed it in some time, the riddles may be different, and the imagery may have changed. For all I know, the universe may be closed off to access. I even had a neighbor friend try Elysium-19—that was before he turned me into the Navy for using E-19. He described being taken back to a childhood incident of him being hit on the head, where he received a head wound. That was a traumatic life event for him. After the experience, he said he was going to need at least a week to think about it, but then promptly reported me to the Navy. I want to say here that I thought I was doing God's work during this process, so I was trying extra hard.

Man in the Box: The man in the box was one of the more confusing riddles. After accessing the universe, I could see myself as if I were staring down at myself in an empty room with just a table. I was a wooden man, like those wooden figures that tailors use to fit clothing onto. I was sitting at the table. The test was designed to test one's senses—as in to learn not to rely on my own senses because they would deceive me. The test was designed so that in order to beat the test, I had to move away from the stimulus, whether it was sight, sound, touch, temperature, etc. In a way, it was like running away from the stimulus. I had to figure out which sense was lying to me and then use other senses to move away from the stimulus. Like temperature—if you felt cold, you would move away from the cold. You could use touch to feel around the room to guide you. The position of the stimulus would change over time, and sometimes rapidly, which necessitated quick direction/movement changes, otherwise the test could not be passed. I was moving around my studio apartment with my eyes closed during it. It took many times to figure out because it took some time to progress through each stage of the test, and the Elysium-19 had to stay in my body long enough. I was often sick and nauseous from the Elysium-19, which was unpleasant. At the final point, I was sitting at the desk, and I put my forehead down on the table, then turned my head to the right so as to look up at my right ear. That was when the universe opened up. At the end of it, the universe told me that I was vain and had me hit my head against a tile floor. That was not an enjoyable experience.

The Judge: At a certain point, I finished with the Man in the Box riddle and moved to a dark, enormous room devoid of anything except a large, black sinister mechanoid that I will refer to as “the Judge.” The Judge asked me what my profession was, and I said physician. This response gave me a positive response from the Judge because being a physician was looked at as being altruistic. I do not remember what happened at the end of that experience because the Elysium-19 wore off. The Judge stared down at me and moved its gigantic robotic arms as if the Judge was going to grab me with them and rip me apart. Whatever was happening, I was being judged for something.

Man In the Box Part 2: I was in a cube with one side opened up that was overlooking a great dark cavernous room—a room of epic proportions. I was stuck in a time warp in the experience. What was only like thirty seconds seemed like thirty minutes. I did not know if I was ever going to get back to reality. At that point, the Universe showed me a picture of a blonde-haired woman and asked me, “Is this the woman you love?” I replied, “No, the woman I love has brown hair and wears glasses.” I was describing my girlfriend to the universe. After some further describing my girlfriend, the universe took the picture of the blonde-haired woman away and left me for what felt like an eternity. A horrible feeling of tremendous sadness overcame me. After some time, the universe spoke. “The man who thinks about himself the least is often alone.” That concluded the riddle.

Turtle Philosopher: In this experience, a digital image of a turtle with a pointed, conical hat appeared. “There are many reasons to use substances, such as to celebrate and to socialize, but if you are using substances to escape,” the great philosopher Nandhou stated, “it will just lead you to a deep dark hole.” At that point, there was a picture of a dark brown hole in the ground. That was the first sign that the universe was actually trying to help me. It felt like some seriously positive news from the universe, and it was not a scary situation. I think the universe was trying to tell me about my alcohol problem.

There were deities I met along the way. I kept telling them how horrible Earth and society were. One of the first deities I came across wanted my body but had nothing to exchange for it. At first, they were friendly. There was a deity named Karma who was in charge of the whole karma process. She was female. She was later on God’s shit list because of how mismanaged everything was. I think she went away to prison for a bit. Basically, I was told that God placed deities in charge of Earth while God was away dealing with his own problems. There was also a deity named Lady of Wisdom and Justice of Truth, or something like that, and a deity that sprinkled a substance on me that was like digital glitter. I think this was a gesture of goodwill. The deities would pass through to me, and each would cast their own specific ritual onto me. There was a problem though, because later on, I would find out that those deities were not doing their jobs correctly (a double lie later to be found out) and those deities would later be punished (a show but did not really happen to my understanding). Karma was punished by God, and other deities were punished too for being derelict of duty. This did not sit well with me because I was given shit for it by the deities, especially Karma. There was fear that I was stirring things up a bit. The deities preferred the status quo of not having to do too much work and just parasitically live off of humanity (humans are the colloquial worker bees). One deity actually came at me and verbally attacked me because I was in the realm of the universe, where a human was not supposed to be.

There was one point when the universe and the deities blessed me with a bunch of energy, and then I made a Facebook post, and it was as if all of the energy was released into the internet. At a later date, I was told that “six million kilojoules” were released to Facebook. That was a mistake by me because I thought that the deities wanted me to talk about this with all other people via social media. I was wrong. I was not supposed to release that energy. Things in the universe seemed to be all about energy. That was the first time that I made the connection that we are living in a simulation.

I was sent to a silver, metallic, outdoor cleaning station, where it was like a large car wash bay. I was told that I had something filthy on me that needed to be washed off. The substance was like a pink jelly in the vision. I went through this process multiple times—not just the washing, but from arriving to the washing station and being told that I had stuff on me that needed to be washed off because it was toxic. It was like the vision replayed multiple times. I do not know what the stuff was, but it was made to seem that having the stuff not washed off was incompatible with the universe. Like maybe the stuff was evil or hate or something like that. Whatever it was, living on Earth had me covered with it. I needed to be cleansed of it before I could move on to the next part of the process. I was told “that gunk gets on everything,” and it was some “nasty stuff.”

There was a deity named Kim, and I only met her once. She told me that, basically, the way I was being treated was unethical, and she had tried to stop it. She was presented as a female cartoon character with short brown hair. Kim apparently spoke out against God’s mistreatment of me and thus was only heard of once. I think that God removed Kim from the universe or banned Kim from ever contacting me again. That was the first inkling I had that the system was against me. Kim seemed very empathetic and basically told me she was sorry that I was being treated so poorly on Earth.

The universe is digital. Repeat, the universe is digital. We are in a simulation. The simulation is extremely detailed down to the sub-particle, nano level. All the components like dirt, water, and air were made at a super-small scale. This world (Earth) is incredibly dusty and dirty—very unlike a virtual world. Think Higgs Boson and remember that all particles are made of subatomic elements. The individual subunits of matter are just incredibly small and incredibly large in number, and it is all really digital in the making. It makes reality appear as if we are not in a digital simulation, and also, we are told that reality is reality from birth. We do not know any different. Reality is all part of a computer process, and drugs like E-19 link the mind/consciousness to the computer that is the universe. Really, everything is made up and coded for, such that an “eyeball” is coded to see what it is looking at, but because the eyeball is really a coded construct, it does not really exist as it appears to exist. The same goes with earth, wind, water, and space. All made up by God.

I first discovered the digital reality of everything because all of the images that were presented to me in the universe had a digital quality to them—repetition of digital subunits. For example, the walls had a consistent repeating pattern on them that was noticeably contrasting to the floor and the ceiling or sky. So, surprise, we are really in a simulation that is made to look as if it is not a simulation. Some of the imagery was so realistic that it was as if I was looking at real life, but most of it was obviously digital. I do not know to what extent that the Earth is real or fake. Like, the Earth could really be a big, giant rock drifting in space, or everything—including all matter—could be in the simulation, made up from a seemingly infinite number of coded subunits. The mind, in my opinion, is just a computer that is coded—whether it be digital or through DNA. The only real truth is that there is a creator: God.

At that point, I realized how God could create things that to humans were seemingly impossible, such as the sun and the moon, humans, and life. It is all just code in a computer program. It is not magic. God did create these things, but the way he did it was less impressive than the way we think that he would have had to do it. God did not actually have to “create.” He just coded. God just computer coded for it. And that, in a way, makes God the ultimate computer programmer. Another way to look at it would be that the code for an eye could look at the code for a sunset. The code for a hand could feel the code of water flowing over it. I think it is important to delve a little bit into things here in the beginning because it takes some time to wrap one’s mind around these concepts, and these concepts repeat over and over throughout this book. In a way, one has to look at God and reality for all of the small parts that make it up in order to see the organized whole picture.

I felt the universe was welcoming me. I was shown a vision of a sun rising on the horizon. It seemed that I was getting a lot of support. I came to the universe to find a solution to the problems on Earth and to the problems in my life. At some point, a portal opened up, and a purple deity yelled, “You can come here, but we cannot go there.” That was yelled multiple times. There seemed to be electromagnetic interference. I was told that there was so much evil energy in this world (Earth) that we were cut off from the rest of the universe, which makes sense because we have not been contacted by “extraterrestrial” beings to my understanding. No one is helping us. The universe offered me a severance package at that point, or I was offered a different course that would be difficult but would have a much greater reward. The universe promised me riches beyond my wildest imagination if I took the different course. I did not know what that different course was, but I took it.

Later, a deity came and said that they had someone who could benefit from my talking to them. I saw a vision of a bunch of thug-like kids sitting on a graffitied loading dock. A voice said, “You mean God? He’s a good buddy of mine. He’s a good guy.” That was the first mention of “God.” God is God’s name. Like god but with a capital g. I was told that God stands for “gets things done and pays in cash.” Whatever that means. God with a lowercase g, “god,” stands for other gods and deities. I met at least twenty different deities during my time in the universe. Who really believed that the real secret to the universe could be found from within (which is in accordance with many statements that have been made before)?

I was placed in contact with God (yes, God), and he first inquired about him seeing a psychiatrist by saying, “I heard that there are, um, some good psychiatrists on Earth.” Also, when God first met me, he said, “So, by now, you’ve found out that this is a simulation or something like that.” At that point, I made small talk with God, and God started to describe God’s problems. God told me, “You should never drink again.” Legitimately, I think that God needed psychiatric help, and the deities in the universe put me in contact with him to do so. I am a physician, and I think that when the Judge found out that I was a physician, it notified God. Communication with God was originally non-verbal but then became verbal by thinking of talking in one’s head, such as thinking the words. Kind of like telepathy. God originally wanted to play dumb to see how I would react. Communicating by talking in my head was a little tricky at first but with practice became natural. As I continued to experience the universe, things became more verbal. At first, it was just pictures and sensations, but then it became sounds and even movies.

God showed me a vision of a poolside area that was attended to by a bunch of beautiful people. God expressed that the people that he was just letting bum around with him had no real substance to them—as if they were boring and fake. God desired to have more “real” people in his life. At that point, God made the threat to get rid of all of the “fake” people by the pool and seemed to insinuate that he desired to hang out with the “real” people of Earth. God told me that he was going to spend a lot more time on Earth in the future. I took it as God warming up to the idea of reestablishing contact with humanity here on Earth.

Blackmailing God

God had me agree to a thing called a “neuralink,” which links one’s consciousness with God so thoughts are easily communicated. I think I was dealing with Miss God Senior during that experience, which I will explain her later on. God showed the process to me in a vision where God, with really long flowing hair that was all over the place obscuring God’s face, put a circular device on God’s head. I think I had to motion like I was putting on the device as well. The neuralink was established, and God refuses to get rid of it to this day. It is really annoying, and in hindsight, I wish that I had not done it. Also, because God’s face was obscured, I do not know who I am linked to technically.

I started to complain about Earth’s problems to God. I addressed issues like poverty, crime, war, famine, and pollution. I even complained about nuclear weapons. It was as if I was trying to communicate with a god that was a light year away. I felt like I was informing God of these problems for the first time because I assumed that God had been lost and was now back to Earth. I guess in hindsight, a diarrhea of problems on God was not a good formal way to meet God. I did not know much about the universe at that time, so I just thought that God was gone for a long time and had finally come back to hopefully help fix some of the problems on Earth.

God acted as if me coming to visit the universe was supposed to happen, albeit two years earlier than God expected. I doubted it when God told me that it was planned. God proclaimed that it was all “damned good code.” As in, God had coded for me to exist exactly where I was, and God coded for me to eventually come to the universe. I think that God planned for my soul to be recycled and born again in 1988 along with my body, but I have doubts that everything was planned as God stated it was.

God told me that I had lived my life as close to Jesus Christ as possible. God showed this with a vision of me looking up toward a whitish-blue cross on the top of a white flowing veil that drifted down with white glowing light. God told me that God wanted to make me a god. However, it seemed like God really just wanted to torture me. God did this thing where he would put these heated metal frogs in my throat, and they burned me. Like, I could feel the pain not just in the vision of this happening but in my body. I do not know the significance of this, but it seemed like God was seriously torturing the hell out of me.

At that time, God started to make some jokes. Like, I had at this point openly been using E-19. God threatened to call the cops on me and get me into trouble with the Navy. There was a point where God said that he had enough information on me to openly embarrass me in front of my entire planet. God had been recording the conversations that we had for evidence. At one point, God made me yell, “God lives!” off the balcony of my condo. Because I believed that it was truly God, I never really asked for God to vet

Godself. In hindsight, I probably should have vetted God extremely hard. I once asked to see God's resume, but God never produced one.

Nothing was straightforward. Everything was always uncertain. God made it out to be as if God was gone from the universe and far away from Earth. There was a situation where God said that he was going to break up the cluster of planets that Earth belonged to with a giant laser beam cannon soon, so it was fortuitous that I contacted God so that the demolition was cancelled. God played it out like it was going to take an entire year for God to get back to Earth from the other side of the universe. At that point, God showed me a very altered map of the world with a flat Earth. I mentioned to God that maybe God should check on all the small little planets to see if they had life on them, as in go back and try to rediscover and help forgotten life in the universe. God made it sound like he was so far away and that communication was difficult using a system called "sub-space." There was a top-to-bottom, bottom-to-top approach to it. I was at the bottom, and God was at the top, and God was looking down on Earth from a command center far away. At first, he did not admit that he knew much about our situation on Earth. There was a time that God even allowed me to explore the more sinister parts of the universe, but I declined.

Talks with God were originally cordial but then became more and more dark and sinister. It was as if God wanted me to fight God. Like God was waiting for me to come and oppose God. God had a story about how he was depressed and psychologically messed up. The verbal sounds were very low volume. God made some jokes about his lack of energy and it leading to God's inability to transmit signals far distances, which he used to explain why the volume was so low. We were using a communication method called "sub-space," which was a system that God designed into all life whereby if stressed, it would send a signal to God. I was stressed, but that did not explain how God did not know about the Holocaust or other horrible, stressful disasters that have occurred to humanity in the past. As time passed, God became more verbal. God originally tried to play it off as if he/she/it was not able to speak and used images to communicate. I later found out it was a total lie, and God had excellent verbal communication skills the entire time. God always deceives and plays tricks. Nothing is straightforward, and most often, anything God says is a lie.

We started talking about problems, and God never seemed to be very concerned about Earth problems. God was mainly focused on God's problems. There was a comment that God made about God going through a dark period for a very long time and having to leave the solar system to deal with his own problems. I later found out that was a total lie, and God had been hanging out in Hollywood the entire time. At that point God mentioned that during this dark period, God made individuals stare into darkness, which was depicted by an image of human-shaped beings staring into darkness. That was an example of God's psychological state affecting his leadership. God admitted that he was a bad leader, and we were not cut out for this type of gig. Yes, God said "we" to include me in his example. Like, God tried to play it off like God was meant to create but not to lead and that the leadership role was kind of flung onto him as a secondary consequence of creativity.

At that point, God became extremely sexual. There was an image of a woman with a three-headed penis having anal sex with a man. God also admitted to masturbating into the Milky Way to put stars in it saying, "How else do you think I put stars in it?" During that time, I heard God often say, "I'm not the problem. You're the problem. Problem." That would be repeated over and over again like a broken record. God was indeed in denial that any of his problems existed, but God could feel the pain and suffering of his mental illnesses. Likely, he was not competent to lead the universe.

God would do many mean things to me during these interactions. One time, God threatened to dump a toxic goop of condensed hate and anger onto humanity. I had God dump it on me instead. He did it multiple times, and it was like God wanting to stir the pot. The goop made me feel horrible, and I thought that it was for some benefit, but later on I found out that it was God just torturing me.

God had a wound that would not heal, and God would make me stare at it, and it would make me feel awful. God tried to play it off like me staring at it would help the wound heal, but instead God was just inflicting pain on me. In addition, God would have me look at him, and it would burn my face and make it tingle to a painful extreme. That was God just being mean to me.

I tried to get God to come back to Earth. I even tried to bribe God with good pussy from Michigan State University. God had this boner that was going to hit a switch, and me describing all of the coeds at MSU's campus made God's boner erect and within distance of pushing the button that would bring God back to Earth. I seriously thought at that point that God could actually help humanity, and I tried from every angle to convince God to come back and retake Earth.

There was a vision that had a depiction of a potbellied man who was bulging, ripping at the seams of his abdomen, revealing the guts below. There were sutures trying to close the open wound, but the guts were still falling out. There was something said, like, "This stuff really messes you up. This stuff really stays with you over time." That was how God said that God feels every day. I take that vision as the first opening up by God that God had problems and needed to get help.

Blackmailing God

I found out that God had cursed me from day one of my life because I supposedly did some really bad things in a past life. God had made everything harder for me to obtain in life—a solid family, educational goals, and finances, for example. I was cursed the moment I slid out of my mom. I then understood why my life had been so difficult but still had a bunch to figure out. Like, God showed me a vision of me when I was fourteen years old yelling at God and being very angry at God. God took that event as me breaking up with God, so God then cursed my life even worse. That sounds insane because I wasn't even an adult then, and God was basically excommunicating me for being upset and yelling at God. I remember when I was fourteen, when I did it. I did not think that anyone was listening. Well, God was listening, and God's plan of action was to curse me again and make my life even worse, and shortly after, I came down with meningitis. God also mentioned that I arrived two years earlier than God had planned. I was on Earth, sentenced to one hundred years hard labor.

Things got very weird from there. God seemed to switch gears and started threatening Earth. God did not directly threaten me at that time but was threatening Earth directly. God threatened to destroy the electrical grid by stripping it of copper. God then made fun of how stupid humans were for having solid core wire because the charge flows on the outside of the wire, so the core is not necessary. God emphasized that point with a vision of him holding a piece of copper wire and pointing to it as he jokingly spoke. Apparently, God has a giant copper ball that he collects copper for. I do not know the whereabouts of this copper ball, but I offered God a giant pile of scrap copper that my electrician father had hoarded. At that point, another god chimed in and said that they were going to strip Earth of all of its copper too.

God was trying to portray Godself as being down and out but then would say things like “God stands for ‘Gets Things Done’” and “God Pays Cash.” God even talked about being the “caffeinated” God of the 1990's that was always working on something and never stopped going. God portrayed Godself as a has-been who had lots of enemies. At one point, he made me negotiate with other gods who wanted to destroy Earth (which I now think was pretend to test me and to test logic) and hurt God. During one of those negotiations, I declared Earth a hospital planet and thus was off limits to destruction by other gods seeking to attack God. God was seeking refuge and psychological help at that point, and I told him that he could seek refuge on Earth. I told God that I would be his therapist.

Things would often get very angry. God started to complain about “blue energy,” which was the energy color that God gave to human-made technologies like smart phones, Bluetooth, and social media. God was jealous of blue energy displacing his energy, which was shown by the color yellow. Like, humans do not pay attention to God anymore, but they pay close attention to their own technology as if it were a false idol. God showed a map of the solar system, and Earth had a little blue bulge on it representing the blue energy that made Earth look like an eyesore amongst the surrounding yellow energy. God tried to make it out that he was upset that the blue bulge was there, and that was why God wanted to destroy the electrical grid, but I knew that it was because God was jealous and felt abandoned by humans because of their technologies. At a later date, a different deity got pretty irate when she/he found out that I knew about blue energy and the threat that it was to God.

There was a fascination about social media and things going viral, which was depicted by God as a snowstorm of particles whizzing around a circle, enlarging, shrinking, and then enlarging again. It was at that point that God threatened to destroy the Earth (again). I had to plead with God not to destroy Earth. I used the flood story as evidence that God would regret doing it, because God seemed to show shame and guilt for causing the flood to destroy mankind. I did not know then, but God was not going to destroy the Earth. Instead, God was joking around and testing me.

God is actually a group of individuals. Yes, there is a God Senior and a Miss God Senior (marriage is forbidden in the universe). When God is mentioned, I am referring to the group (plural), but when needed, I use “him” to denote God Senior and “her” to denote Miss God Senior. I made first contact with him—as in God Senior—then later was introduced to the other members of God. There was also mention of God having children, and he said that he made them autistic-level, savant-smart to the point that their communication skills were severely degraded. There was also mention that God’s children disowned God and do not talk to God because God was a “very bad daddy.” The story was that Scorpio had a baby with God’s daughter, and Scorpio made her eat the baby when God was off somewhere else in the universe doing something. That did not sit well with the siblings, and they disowned their father because of it. Basically, God was not a good father and really was absent doing other things when he should have been being a dad. Later on, God denied having children, so I am not sure what the real story is. There are multiple gods within God and each of them have their own problems. God mentioned that he considered me his child.

During therapy, there was a lot of talk of guilt, shame, and depression, and God exhibited hypersexuality. God tried to portray Godself as the victim and refused to talk about his childhood. God always seemed to portray Godself as the victim, which was a role that God was very used to playing even though he was the cause of God’s own problems and everyone else’s for that matter.

Blackmailing God

There was, at one point, a deletion of both my memories and God's memories. God deleted painful memories of an ex-girlfriend of mine that were bothering me, and in exchange, I authorized the deletion of the files from God's memory storage drives one and two—those were God's memories from his very early years. That deleted God's earliest memories, which were painful to God. Over a year later, God actually opened up conversation about God's early years, which was extremely surprising because God never talked about God's early years. God has told me hundreds of times that my therapy sucked.

God doesn't know what love is but actually has the messed up opinion that God having sex with someone or something is love. I thought I was talking to someone disconnected because God's misunderstanding was so awkwardly wrong. Also, yes, God has sex with you in your dreams. He stated that he has had sex with Barack Obama and Donald Trump. This sex is not the usual sex, but it happens when you are sleeping and your being is somewhere else in the universe. There are multiple overlays to reality, and in dreams, he can access a person and do with them what God wants. God stated that he tries to have sex with every species once a day, which he augmented with a vision of God bouncing around and having sex with a zoo of animals.

I kept on experimenting with E-19 until one day I literally squeaked my brain. I had a vision of a bright green surface slowly eroding to reveal a gray microchip beneath it, and at that point, a squeaking sound occurred. God said something along the lines of, "If you keep on looking that hard, you might not be able to come back. And once you do, there's no coming back from that." I took it as meaning I had learned what I could of the universe, so I stopped. Then a few months later, I decided to access the universe, but the lights were dim, and I was told that they did not want me coming around anymore. It was like I could visit but could not stay. It made total sense because E-19 is dangerous, unhealthy, and can mess your brain up. The universe actually told me to stop.

The rest of this book was written to emphasize highlights. It was so hard to organize this, so it was all just entered as I remembered the details. Some of the highlights go together and some do not. It is probably best to reread this book so as to get a better gestalt picture of God. God spoke to me through visions and dreams. I highlighted the senses that were emphasized.

Hallucinogenic Drugs: These drugs were designed by God to give humans access to the universe and to God. They are like a backdoor to the universe through one's own senses.

Blackmailing God

Dreams and Visions: God communicated via both dreams and visions during this debacle. God also would speak, use sounds, and would inflict pain on me to my head (sharp, defined headaches).

Head In Chain: In this vision, my head was being pushed through a wide band of roller-chain link. The chain was impacting my forehead, and I could feel the vibration and the force that was being pushed on my head. God mentioned that “this must be how you are feeling right now.” That was one of the first visions that I experienced after meeting God.

Wood Monument Made of Wood: In this vision, humans had cut down all the trees. God took me to a monument built to revere wood that was made from wood. The irony was hilarious because people covet things that are in short supply like precious jewels that have no intrinsic value. The monument was used as a wedding venue/conference center. There was also a weird museum to myself that had relics from my life like a gas tank that I strapped to my motorcycle to carry spare fuel.

Crown Royal: Some of the images in the universe were photographs, drawings, scenes, digital images, etc. One of them had a purple fabric in it that was cut, I think, as a doll’s clothes. I recognized the purple fabric as coming from a Crown Royal bottle bag. God admitted that it was indeed from a Crown Royal bag, and that was one of the first times that God admitted to having a drinking problem.

Prison: I told God that God needed to go to prison for crimes against humanity. God kind of agreed and then said that he was excited to go to prison because while there he could get caught up on writing. God seriously believed that he would be allowed a typewriter so that he could type up his works and then broadcast them to the universe—from prison.

Snake, Trumpet, and Gas Heads: In this dream, there was a comedic skit of God being chased by a stuffed animal snake. In one scene, the snake went through a trumpet, and the valves were pressed to confuse the snake. The snake got out of the trumpet bell and had to run an obstacle course. At the end of the obstacle course, there was a DMV line with a “take a ticket” thingy. The snake had to wait in line, waiting to be called to the front of the line. The emotions in this dream were programmed to be severely hilarious. Thinking of it now, I probably would not have laughed if my parameters were not manipulated. There was also a thing about the “gas heads,” or people who used drugs like Elysium-19 who were now billionaires. They were depicted as three nerdy boys walking tall, knowing that they knew something other people didn’t.

Digital Images: God told me that there is a game in the universe where one acquires points when a human takes a picture. God made it out to be that he owns every picture that is taken by humanity. Pictures are worth a certain number of points, and videos are worth more than pictures. This was one of the situations that confirmed the digital origin of the reality that we live in.

Earth as Vegas of the Universe: Earth is kind of a trashy, free-for-all kind of world. God makes money off of charging admission to Earth. Gods and deities come here and do all sorts of debauchery. God described Earth as the “Vegas of the Universe” and one of God’s most profitable worlds. After it was discovered that humans were being trafficked from Earth in large numbers, God said that he shut down tourism to Earth, but it was never confirmed that he indeed shut down tourism (if there is one thing God loves, it’s money, and zero tourism brings in zero dollars). God admitted that fifty thousand humans per year are abducted from Earth. This might be a humanitarian effort by other gods and deities (Earth might have inhumane conditions), or it might be sex trafficking or slavery. Gods act cruelly to humans, so likely, this trafficking is not beneficial.

Most humans were being trafficked from large events like the Super Bowl where there were so many gods and deities jumping (I’ll get to jumping later) to and from, it was impossible to monitor to see if humans were being jump trafficked as well. This brings up a different topic here, and that is that there is a counter-group in the universe that is causing trouble for God by participating in shady, illegal activities. To my understanding, places like Earth are not politically correct anymore in the universe, such as in there may be a public outcry in the universe against places like Earth existing because they are so horrible.

Other Worlds: There are roughly two hundred worlds that one can visit if they have the clearance. Humans cannot visit other worlds because we have “particle” bodies that cannot be separated from us. The reptilian planet is one of them. The reptilians don’t have the problems that the human planet Earth has. There are actually multiple worlds that have different animals as the dominant species. Earth was not the first world nor the last. There is nothing special about Earth, but God chooses to spend a lot of time here. That is because this is where he works from, and it is kind of shady like Godself. God said that Earth was some of his finest work, but he has a problem with humans.

Virtual versus Terrestrial World: There are two types of worlds that I know about. Terrestrial worlds are more three-dimensional worlds like Earth where there is a globe. Virtual worlds are four dimensional, and it is known that you are in a virtual world because the resolution is not as good. God somehow built

Godself into the very framework of the virtual worlds. There is a mechanism built in where the entire world can be “shocked,” which kills every bad individual. The problem with terrestrial worlds like Earth is that you would have to send a flood or pandemic, and that would kill the good individuals too.

Particle versus Non-Particle Energy Beings: There are two types of beings in the universe that I know of: particle energy beings and non-particle energy beings. Humans are particle energy beings, and a god would be considered a non-particle energy being. The division is that particle energy beings cannot be separated from their particles—such as a body. A human cannot separate the body from energy without dying. There is a machine that was shown to me, via a vision, that can separate a body from energy, but it looks like a jet engine combined with a food processor. I think it was a joke.

Duality of Possibilities: God created everything so that two possibilities are likely, but humans must choose one or the other. The first possibility is that God created everything. The second possibility is that we indeed have evolved on this planet, and the origin of the universe is still unknown. It is like there are two polar opposite conclusions, and they are mutually exclusive. I believe the true answer lies in the shade of gray between the two extremes of this dilemma. Such as, the Earth may have been present in some early state, but God terraformed it into its original state before the eventual introduction of species. In this scenario, evolution was designed into life by God. Or Earth could be entirely simulated and, with that being, God created everything.

Evolution: Because of God’s digital/electronic origin, it can be surmised that humans will seek out a digital/electronic goal. This can be seen with today’s people being reliant on electronics. The next stage of evolution would be for humans to evolve into digital/electronic beings. To my understanding, reliance on and melding of technology is a major step before humans actually become one with technology. God also designed evolution into life to kind of throw a red herring so that the possibility of evolution from pond scum to human could be realistically possible.

Self: I was able to look into a mirror in the universe once, and I looked like a shriveled up, brown elf that had cracked skin and looked awful. I think that my exterior appearance was showing how I internally felt. I was all messed up psychologically, and I think that this chaos manifested externally as my reflection in the mirror. This is interesting because here on Earth, one cannot tell a person’s psychological state that well from their outward appearance, especially if that person has a good poker face.

Blackmailing God

Guardian Angel: In a dream, my guardian angel poked his head through the veil that was surrounding me and said, “Hi. My name is Clyde.” Clyde is one of two guardian angels that I was told I have. The other one is a deity named Brianna, I think. Clyde is an Ahayumba, which is like a small elf-like creature with a beard. Clyde speaks English and a language called Umbo. Clyde was surprised that I remembered everything because he thought that I would have had seizures or a memory lapse from the Elysium-19. No one in the universe thought that I would remember anything from my experiences, but I did. I also did not start writing everything down until one and half years into this debacle. Actually, the idea to make a book out of this did not come until a year and a half into this. I think that is why God kept talking about so much, and also, God and I were on better terms at that point.

And/Or: There was a god who I communicated with who was called And/Or. Like an and/or gate in logic circuits. The answers to questions from this god were unreliable and did not really mean anything.

Job: God was offering me the job of being God’s groundskeeper for Earth. I do not know what that entailed, but I was sure hoping that it was a paid position unlike God’s disciples. After relations went south, I never heard of this offer again.

Humans: God created humans. Even though we are all in a simulation, God said that “there’s a lot of important anatomy in there.” So even human anatomy is simulated down to the finest details—all in an attempt to disguise that we are, in fact, in a simulation. We are all just digital code. The name that God actually uses for humans is “earthlings.” God does not really like it when humans are called humans. In fact, it really pisses God off. The design is not perfect, and humans were only designed to live for a short time and not have to work so hard in life. God admitted that there is no real easy way to kill a human—God did not design humans with a “kill switch.” That is why God tends to kill off humans via heart attacks, strokes, brain aneurysms, and cancer. God has threatened to give me lung cancer as a way to kill me off. God originally planned for humans to sleep with their eyes open but then later changed that. God’s least favorite group of humans are white trash. God has this complex where because he created humans, he thinks he owns all of the bodies as if they are God’s property. God also tries to force humans to commit suicide to eliminate them.

Animals: God did not create all of the animals. Other gods created the animals too. For example, Scorpio created the scorpion. There was initially a problem with the ocean creatures because the oceans were divided and ruled by different gods. The oceans weren’t absolutely demarcated, so when each god placed their respective creatures into their oceans, the creatures did not stay within the boundaries. The creatures migrated. So, it turned into a situation where the gods were trying to claim their respective creatures, but the creatures had moved to other gods' oceans. This was a serious problem for the gods at first, but then was kind of laughed away in the end. God told me that all animals were told to defecate in the most beautiful places they could.

God originally planned for all of the animals on Earth to be vegetarian. There was a vision of a larger sea animal sucking the algae off of bottom-dwelling, turtle-like creatures. I do not know why there was deviation from the original plan. One thing is true though—God said that everyone was going to have to switch to a vegetarian diet when God “comes back” to Earth. God’s early work was cold-blooded, and God’s later work was warm-blooded. I think that God started with cold-blooded because God was used to a cold, harsh environment where warmth was absent. God went away from the cold, harsh theme when God created warm-blooded animals.

Plants: God doesn’t seem to have many problems with plants. To my knowledge, they aren’t sentient, and thus, they don’t have opposing opinions. In one argument with God, I told God that he should stick to plants because of all the problems that have come with creating humans.

Migration: God did not plan for humans to migrate. That came later, and God said that God had to add to the world so that humans wouldn’t get to the edge and fall off or realize that it was a simulation when they saw the edge. I think that this is when God expanded and curved the flat map into a connected sphere. There is a possibility the earth is hollow. Terrestrial planets are usually spherical, to my understanding. I think God even added to the heavens so that celestial objects were not just simulated but “real” so that they could be explored, not just looked at. God said that he caught one of the Voyager space probes in a giant Dyson sphere-like contraption that encircles Earth, and he said that the probe was “a piece of junk.” I tried to get God to send me the golden records off of the probe.

The Old System: The way the old system worked was that one could pray for wealth or power and the universe would grant it based upon the opinions of the overseeing deities. In that system, people that had families were more likely to get blessings from the universe than, say, a single man. The system failed because the deities that ran it got lazy and didn’t do their jobs correctly. They’d rather be in Hollywood acting.

The New System: The new system runs on a point system where you start afterlife in the next world beyond with a certain number of points—I think 150,000 points. An individual can use these points to purchase goods and services. There are also ways to gain points through good behavior and to lose points through bad behavior. To my understanding, most domiciles are shared or free.

Thespian Roots: God told me that gods were originally on Earth as actors. This is eerily similar to celebrities in our society being “gods” of ours today. It was how they communicated their messages on how humans were to live individually and as a society. Beautiful actor gods. And just like gods, they could not be killed by normal human weapons. It made good sense because they could not be killed, so that when the actor (who really was a god) was actually stabbed or shot, the actor did not die, and the death scenes could be played over and over again very realistically with the same actors. The god thespians were challenged as humans strived to become actors as well. Humans created competition for the gods in order to get onto the stage.

Gods do not like to work very hard, so rather than compete, a lot of them just stopped acting altogether instead of competing with the human actors. As time went on, most of the remaining thespian gods moved to acting for the big screen and television. Hollywood today is a mix of human actors and god actors. God actors think that they are better than human actors, but that may not be the truth when it comes to who receives the Oscar or the Golden Globe. I think that the award shows may have been started by gods to reward themselves for their work (remember, gods don't like to work, but love to be worshipped). I think that William Shakespeare was affiliated with God in some way—he was just too prolific and talented to not be.

Similarity to Theatre: There is a similarity to theatre that is in God's “Earth.” Many of the same tricks, such as shock and awe and distraction, are used to cover up many elements. Human beings' strong reliance on sight for information makes it really easy to convince humans that life is not a simulation. Like smoke and mirrors—almost like a magician-like performance utilizing tricks of illusion and cover up. God is a photography and film buff, and God mentioned that there was a connection between how life appears in photography and film over the decades. There was a continual progression of film, from actual film to digital cameras to computer-generated imagery.

In one of my last conversations with God, Miss God Senior mentioned working on designing four-dimensional (4D) smoke in order to make it look more realistic in the virtual worlds. Continual upgrades to the simulation have left humans with a simulation that appears realistic in every way, but that is all that we are used to, so our paradigm is fixed. It very well could be that the humans of the past experienced a different simulation than the simulation of the present. I am basing this on the fact that the imagery in the universe is always changing and being continually updated.

Low Profile: God told me that he prefers to be in the shadows and not in the limelight. God tries to remain hidden as much as possible. God does not overtly, publicly broadcast Godself. This helps ensure God's safety and longevity by preventing those that wish God harm from finding God. It also prevents God from being blamed, at least here on Earth. God tends not to do many interventions that are overt. This is another way that God keeps Godself out of the limelight. The mere fact that many people do not believe in God or may not really know what they believe in helps God because God does not get blamed directly for the horrible atrocities or the horrors and problems of everyday life.

Chain Reaction Machine: God prefers to intervene with human life in a particular manner. Plans are thought out well in advance and meticulously crafted. God prefers to set these plans off with fuses, not buttons, because God does not like the immediacy of an action starting the plan. God would rather rely on a "fuse" burning than on pushing a "button." These plans are kind of set up like a chain reaction or Rube Goldberg machine, where a bunch of things on the to-do list are intricately tied together and completed at the same time. However, God is also known to use large events, like a plague, economic collapse, communication disruption, shipwreck, natural disaster (act of God), or a large disaster that brings forth the same goals.

Armageddon: God told me that Armageddon was not going to be for at least another hundred years or so.

Skyscrapers: God said that from his view (sky view), the cities look as if they are trying to attack God. This is because the sharp contour of city skylines, such as that of New York City, look like spears thrust into the sky. God said that this does not make him feel welcome.

Karaoke with God: God was supposed to delete some of the virtual worlds so that God would have more time to spend fixing Earth. God said that there was a problem with the virtual worlds because the beings (gods and deities) would all sync, and they had to be reset every day at a certain time or there would be a really loud, annoying humming noise when the individuals all started speaking in unison. There is a difference from the terrestrial worlds because the day and night have no defined start and stop so people never sync. So, before deleting them, he had me sing karaoke (80's songs) and then sealed the music in the universe where he said it would reverberate for hundreds of years. It was a kind of torture that God did against his own creations. Apparently, God took those karaoke songs and dropped an album in the universe of me singing. I also do not know if God actually deleted the virtual worlds, is just torturing them, or didn't do anything.

Nighttime Song: God likes Whitney Houston so much that God brought Whitney Houston back to life in the universe so that she can sing God a bedtime song every evening. God said that he found out about Whitney when I sang karaoke with him.

Bedtime in the Universe: There is a set bedtime in the universe. Everyone, including God, goes to bed at the same time.

Marriage: Marriage is banned in the universe. People can have partners but not spouses. There was a challenge to this made by a couple that eventually decided that they did not want to get married. I am surprised that marriage is banned because God has severe abandonment issues, and it seems like marriage would be more stable for God.

God Bios: There is a bios program that runs when God is sleeping. I met the bios version of God one time and asked how old God was. The bios version could not answer because it was designed to just keep housekeeping functions running while God was sleeping.

Division in the Universe Against God: There are divisions in the universe: those who are with God and those who are against God. I suspect that the division against God is actually good. Such as, the division against God is against God because God may be in the wrong. This is almost like a revolt. From God's perspective, they are against God, but to them, they are doing the right thing. There is also a division within God's side—light and dark. The light side is for the goody-two-shoes kind of gods and deities that are super perfect. The dark side is for the rougher characters, and there is a group called the Sons of Anarchy, which God invited me to join at one point. He later took that invitation back.

Running on Hate/Pain to Running on Positivity: The original universe was thought to run on hate/suffering (negative energy), which was then switched over to running on positive energy (love). There was a mention of "Galactic Electric," which was like an energy source that God switched off for some reason—I think it was politics.

Blackmailing God

Anxiety: God generally feels anxious all of the time. Once, God made me feel like he does, and it was awful. I was crawling out of my skin with anxiety and was in a panic. This is the general emotional state that God lives in day to day. It doesn't feel good.

Sex Drive: I upset God, and he said that he was going to take my sex drive away, stating that I “will never ever again enjoy a sex drive.” To tell you the truth, I have not really had a sex drive since God said that. In some weird way, God thinks that taking my sex drive away will somehow benefit whatever the goal of this debacle is, which is supposedly to better my life.

Relationship with God: The relationship has been pretty volatile. Not stable. There is no real trust, and both of us do not respect each other. This is hard because I believe that respect must be earned, and God's behavior is not conducive to me developing respect, but in fact, conducive to developing the opposite of respect. God tried to demand respect for God's past doings without owning up to present and past issues. God showed me a vision of a huge statue of a god in human form and then showed a teeny tiny sliver in God's big toe. God said that was me—the sliver.

Physics: The physics are different in other worlds than they are on Earth. In a way, Earth physics are rather boring. In some worlds, lightsabers are a real thing, and it is possible to make a slide of a pool without the water pouring out.

Sir Isaac Newton: Apparently, God has some beef with Isaac Newton because Newton believes that he invented gravity. God insists that Newton just defined universal gravitation. I think that God may be interpreting what Newton said incorrectly and that the argument might not be on just grounds. Like, I think that God just doesn't like Newton very much, but because of Newton's standing, God has to tolerate him.

God and People: God has chosen to be represented by certain people over time. I am pretty sure that God was involved with Thomas Edison. God is creative just like Edison, and Edison definitely had that inventive talent. God also admitted to being an early telegraph operator and is fluent in Morse code. God said one time as he was shaving into a mirror that it was good to “hold down a job” because it gives a “good sense of routine.” God also admitted to being a programmer for the Department of Defense CHCS electronic medical record program. God said that he programmed a bunch of security vulnerabilities into the program just in case God needed access.

Blackmailing God

There is suspicion that God is affiliated with Matt Groening, Dan Harmon, George Lucas, and Seth McFarlane. This is because God has used The Simpsons' images, Star Wars images (Darth Vader), and a Family Guy character in the universe, and God has directly come out and said that it is him on Earth (Dan Harmon). I do not know if this is true or not, but the images were used, and God did make those statements.

The Vessel/Spaceship: We are likely in a vessel which is likely like a spaceship, and all of reality and the world is likely digital. It is likely that this is all a simulation, and the vessel is a spaceship. Earth is made up entirely and is run on a computer. Basically, everything is made up. The particle energy beings have specific spots on this spaceship, kind of housed in The Simpsons' head containers. I think that God may have copied some of the real universe—such as stars, planets, and possibly water to be used as elements in the simulation.

I have a hunch that the vessel/spaceship is being moved around erratically, so God developed stable worlds (i.e., worlds that have gravity) like Earth so that they are not being moved around so much. With this said, even gravity is simulated within the simulation. God mentioned that the universe is powered by solar, so my hunch is that the spaceship and supercomputer are powered by solar cells or wave/solar/wind power.

God and Time: God always stated that he controls time, but this is to a much lesser extent now since humans have created mechanical and digital clocks. God is not able to predict the future. The simulation has already run into the future, but our reality of the present is actually the past. Like, the future has already “buffered” and just needs to be played. That is how God can “predict” the future—the simulation has already played out. So really, it is not that impressive. Time tends to go faster for gods and humans as they age.

Energy Colors: In the universe, God had made his energy color yellow, but it was subdivided into other colors. I believe that God either voluntarily gave up or was forced to give up powers and share them with other gods. There is a possibility that God was not the first creator and that God is another god's creation. Blue is the color for blue energy or man-made technology.

God and Animals: God also stated that he controls all the animals and that he controls pets. God affirmed that his control over pets is a very strong source of control for God. For the record, God tells all his animals to poop in the most beautiful places.

Blackmailing God

Ownership: God has a problem with claiming things that God did not do. Such as culture. I told God that he created Jerry Seinfeld but did not create Seinfeld. This pissed God off because God has this umbrella way of thinking that he creates, owns, and controls everything. Like, if it happens on God's spaceship, it belongs to God. God thinks that because he started and controls it all that he is the creator of it all—specifically the good stuff not the bad stuff. God also tries to not emphasize all the bad stuff, and God has a pretty good way of avoiding acknowledging the bad stuff.

God and Creativity: God stated that if it wasn't for creating things, he probably would have "offed himself" years ago. God gets tremendous satisfaction and pleasure out of creating. God is a creator in Hollywood for film and television. Unfortunately, on Earth there seems to be no management of the world. God is a far better creator than he is a governor. God doesn't really seem to create anything big anymore, like worlds, but is now more focused on smaller things like visual effects. For example, during my time in the universe, Miss God Senior was working on four-dimensional (4D) smoke.

Galactic Electric: This is the "electric company" that God switched off. Originally, the universe was powered off of Galactic Electric's grid. It was depicted by the vision of an electrical pole with a bunch of wires connected to it so that it was overloaded. God switched to solar, which may be hydroelectric, wind, or solar. More on this later.

Fossil Fuels: Fossil fuels are part of the simulation. I think that God added them to the simulation after terraforming Earth so that humans would have a reliable, accessible power supply to foster technological advancement. Ultimately, technological advancement went from mechanical to analog to digital.

Fourth Wall: There is a rule in the universe that gods and deities must never "break the fourth wall"—as in they must never be seen to interfere with humanity. There was a test simulation for this, and I failed. The test scenario was a young girl's birthday party, and I crashed through the fourth wall and would have caused a bunch of psychological trauma if it had been a real birthday party.

The Universe: God created a parent for Godself. This is called "the Universe" with a capital U. The Universe is not as emotionally developed as God. It serves as a parent over God, in that our super-parent (God) has a parent. I think that this was God's way of feeling like he had parents.

Marijuana: Marijuana allows for God to view humans' thoughts but does not allow for the human to communicate with God. It is like it forms a one-way connection with the universe that allows for the universe to observe the individual. I was told that my stepsister smokes marijuana and that God follows her life. God recommends that if you have to use a substance, marijuana is better than using alcohol.

Therapy: I was intended to be God's therapist, but after being tortured multiple times and having been put in the hospital three times, there was no doctor-patient relationship and no doctor-patient confidentiality anymore, so I am writing about this to inform humanity. I am no longer God's therapist. I fired him as a patient and referred God to a local psychiatrist here in San Diego.

Voices: God speaks to me with voices, and I can reply back by thinking in my mind like telepathy. The voices are heard more easily when there is white noise in the background, like a fan running at low speed. The voices are not suppressed by anti-psychotics like risperidone. It is like you are being spoken to in a soft whisper. A few times, the sound was not calibrated correctly to the ambient noise and the voices were louder and more audible. I went to a shooting range, and God recorded the sound of the gunshots, and for a good month-long period, God would play gunshots to me, especially when I was on my motorcycle.

Doubt: God tries to seed doubt into every single day. From the voices saying that my house is burning down to the voices saying that my rear tire is flat while I am on my motorcycle. In addition, God often says put-downs like "you're insane" or "you should go to a mental institution." God told me that my mental health was shit. God told me that my soul was going to be put in a mental institution, and when I die, I am going to the same mental institution in Heaven.

Arguments: God and I have had multiple arguments. God says that these arguments usually fall on a day that I am having a "manic episode."

God Is Electronic in Origin: Basically, God is a supercomputer of some sort. We in the simulation are all part of that supercomputer that is God. The first life was electronic, and God was born from a pulsar (or something like that) of high electromagnetic energy. God developed slowly over time as God evolved and built Godself into what God is today. This was a very difficult process, and God does not like to talk about it. God is very binary, like a computer. God told me that at the center of God is a magnet, which could be at the particle level and would have a positive and negative pole. God is both good and evil, both male and female, etc. It is like "ones and zeros." I assume that God's development was similar to binary code with duplications from two to four to sixteen to thirty-two to sixty-four and so forth. His early years were extremely difficult. God did not have anyone to socialize with, and thus, there was no overlap of generations to guide God as God matured.

Blackmailing God

Carbon-based life forms are a red herring designed to prevent humans from being able to blame God for all the problems here on Earth. When we get pissed, we blame evolution or other humans, but very rarely do we blame God. Later on, God programmed Earth and created humans that are looked at as being carbon-based life forms, but in all reality, we are digital but cannot tell because the programming is so excellent. Yes, everything is digital from your body to your brain to your memories.

God Can't Prove He Was First: God cannot prove that God was first. God could, in fact, have been created and be living in a simulation like humans are. I have brought this scenario up with God, and it just made God angry. I think that God might not be able to prove even his own origins. Like, there is no proof that God can actually use one way or the other. Unless God is hiding that he is, in fact, a creation of some other being, and then this is like a Russian doll scenario, which does not explain the origin of "life" at all.

There is a possibility that Satan is God's creator, which would explain why God has portrayed Satan in such a negative light. Perhaps Satan had interfered with God's plans and worlds. I am guessing that God's creator is far smaller than God is on a size scale, such that God is larger in size than his creator. God told me that the smallest that he can see is radio waves.

God's Code: God reveres his original code to the highest level. That code has gotten God through many hard times, and he never ended his life. God never wants to alter his code because he thinks he was first. This causes some problems because God's code has issues with anger management, sociopathy, depression, anxiety, substance abuse, and separation anxiety. God never wants to alter his code. At one time, God was pretending to be running from other Gods that were out to get him, and he asked if he could keep a copy of his original code on Earth for safekeeping. I was opposed to this because God's original code can be extremely destructive, not only to Godself, but to other individuals around God. In this way, God is kind of like a harmful virus. God's old motto was something like "go forth and conquer," and God's code really was advantageous in that setting. However, when let go, it can end up a nightmare situation with neglected worlds/individuals and lots of pain and sorrow.

Generations of God: God would always state that he was a different "generation" currently than he was of the past. A generation is almost like a lifetime, in essence, but for a being that is immortal. God has been through countless generations. I do not know if God has a recollection of what he has done in past generations, but it is almost like those generations allow for God to mark time in different periods of existence. When communicating with God, God goes from one generation to the next. There was a ceremony that celebrated the passing from one generation to the next. I also think that God uses “generations” to get out of responsibility for actions of the past—as in he can just blame a past generation of himself for the problems, absolving his current existence from blame. As an immortal being, these generations can divide up a lifetime into different chapters. There is some evolution that happens from generation to generation, and thus, there can be incremental development in an immortal being.

Childhoods: God said that both God Senior and Miss God Senior had gone through their own childhood multiple times in an attempt to see if they could find happiness. As if maybe it was God’s lack of childhood that was the cause of all the problems that God has had. I do not know to what extent God has relived childhoods, if God submits himself powerlessly to the childhood, or if God has all the advantages of being a god when going through childhood. To much dismay, reliving different childhoods hasn’t seemed to fix the problems.

Sick Death Stuff: Throughout my interactions with God, there was a very sick, death focus about conversations on life. Like really gloomy and horrid. I think that this is the norm for gods—to be dark, gloomy, and pessimistic about everything. Like a dark, sinister motif to life. There was an image that God showed me of what looked like multiple gods feeding on the dead corpse of a being. It was really, really disturbing, but I think that type of derangement is normal in the universe for gods. It also fits the not-so-lovey-dovey feeling that the universe gives off, such that the universe is more of a negative experience and not very positive. Like, I really do believe that humanity has evolved beyond the level that gods are at, such that humanity is more positively focused, and gods are more negatively focused.

Dichotomy of Life: Since there is a duality to God, there is a duality to life. Light and dark. Male and female. Good and evil. Hot and cold. Positive and negative. If you have a question about God, just think of it in a polar nature. One extreme to the other, God usually falls smack dab right in the middle of the spectrum for whatever it is. Such as how God falls between good and bad so that God is neutral on the naughty or nice spectrum.

Binary Code in Nature: When I was in undergrad, there was a lecture about how the genes for skin color contained sixty-four genes. I thought to myself that this was oddly like a geometric sequence—like $2-4-8-16-32-64$. I do not have another example, but that is a binary series which is very similar to that of God. I think that God’s computer system runs on far superior technology than human computer technology. Like, I am pretty sure that God started off with binary code and then later developed into something far superior. So, there very well could be an answer to: “What type of computer system does the universe run on?”

Blackmailing God

Repetition in Nature: It is well known that there is repetition in nature, such as radial versus bilateral symmetry. Or homologous and analogous structures. These are just patterns that were used over and over by God. Examples of this in real life are the repetition of facial profiles.

Reality Is a Simulation: All of reality is a simulation that is so precisely programmed that we think that we evolved on the third rock from the sun in an empty solar system devoid of life except for us. We are designed, and Earth is designed by nature, to isolate. We are never meant to find any life outside of the solar system. The gods and deities that visit Earth are forbidden from interfering with human matters, but they still do regardless of the rules. God really does not have a good way of controlling those beings from interfering or meddling with human activities.

Vision of Generator: In this vision, there was a giant hall with what appeared to be an energy generation station of some sort. There were people all along a walkway overlooking the behemoth machine. I was concerned because the equipment looked very important and was not very secure. I think this was God trying to get an opinion out of me, such as it looked like a giant security problem.

Secret Tunnel: In this vision, there was a secret tunnel in which invading robots had secured themselves to the floor, walls, and ceiling. I think this vision was intended to see if I would mention that there appeared to be a breach of security. I think that this is how God vetted me.

Trolls and Pixies: In one conversation, God sent trolls and pixies to Earth for some reason, and they were immediately destroyed by the toxic energy that surrounds Earth. Apparently, Earth is harmful, but that may be a lie.

Gods Parasitizing Off Humans: The purpose of God creating Earth and humans was not for altruistic purposes but was more so that 1) God could have stability, 2) God could have security, 3) God could benefit maximally, and 4) God could live a good life and be entertained.

Hollywood and SAG: The Screen Actors Guild (SAG) is composed primarily of gods. These are lesser gods, but they are still important. After God created Earth and other worlds, gods took on the role of educating the population via a thespian manner. Would you rather have two extremely attractive people in a romcom, or would you rather have two ugly people? Gods are very attractive. Would you rather have a real plumber play a plumber, or would you want Ben Stiller to play a plumber? Would you rather have a real teacher play a teacher, or would you want Gwyneth Paltrow to play a teacher? I used these actors as examples because God told me that they are gods. God also told me that Chris Farley was a god as well, and that he is still drinking and drugging in the afterlife. The reason why you never see actors in public is because they go to other worlds to spend their free time. Earth is actually kind of a dump compared to other worlds, so SAG goes elsewhere via jumping.

Jumping and Jump Pad: Jumping is how gods transport themselves pretty much instantaneously from one place to another. A jump pad is a location that is frequently used to jump from. Jumping is the primary form of transportation that gods use. These locations are convenient and clandestine. They probably could be found by watching a public restroom because more people would come and go than those who entered or exited. A public restroom is a common place used to jump from. Gods can use their technology to also transport materials and people via jumping. Look up “The Man from Taured”—God said that this was a joke that he played, and this man likely was a god who “jumped” from the hotel room, vanishing into thin air.

Body Sharing: There is a service called “body sharing” where a god can rent a human body similar to how a person would get an Uber. I have met with God twice, and I assume that God used this body-sharing service. In my first meeting with God, the man was dressed slovenly and was wearing an America’s Cup hat (God said that he was an America’s Cup sailor). We were at a bar and had a few drinks. We did not talk very much. I gave God a hug. In the second meeting, the man was a six-foot-tall black man who could hardly talk and seemed to be pressured to talk. That was also in a bar and was the same night that I met the angel. God and I were meeting because I was in a very depressed, distraught mood, and I was going out to drink. I think God was there to support me. Also, angels exhibit this phenomenon called “angel face” where when you look at them, it looks as if their face is glowing at you. Very beautiful.

Double Insanity Defense: In one conversation, I stated that God is insane, and I am insane, so he should not be punishing people because he is insane, and I should not be punished because I am insane. This is the now-famed Double Insanity Defense that I beat God with in a game of logic and wits. God is still sore that his creation beat him at his own game.

Eighteen Months of Hell: From the initial time of meeting until August 9, 2020, it has been eighteen months. There were three months prior to meeting God that I was navigating the riddles of the universe that were acting as the gatekeepers to God.

One Bird to Two Birds Problem: This was the problem that God had a hard time fixing. God had one bird, so how could he make two birds? The answer: sexual reproduction. God spent so much time fixing this problem that it is probably why God is so sexually obsessed.

Self-Trapping Bird: God tried to use a picture of a shoe getting tripped—such that one can trip oneself up. Such as with my drinking problem. For some reason, I got the vision of a self-trapping bird—a bird with ideals so high that it couldn't fly above them and thus became trapped. Both have the same meaning: one can cause problems that one cannot get out of by oneself.

Earth Is a Penal Colony: Earth is a penal colony. Individuals are sent here for punishment and hard work in order for them to get back to Heaven or other places in the universe. All types of souls are sent here, not just human souls. The goal is rehabilitation and to make lives better. Earth is not Hell. Hell is much worse. Earth is a penal colony, but because of a glitch in the programming, no one knows why they are here. God told me that an ex-girlfriend of mine was here because she killed three people in her past life. She never seemed to be able to find happiness. I am here because I was an awful person in my last life. People end up on Earth because they did something wrong. To get out of Earth you have to believe in God. All atheists go to Hell. This is funny because roughly 50 percent of the people on Earth believe in God, so 50 percent will be sent back to Earth or to a worse place. There is no standard God education on Earth, so the system is broken. We all also don't know why we are being tortured.

Earth Blocked from Outside Sources: There is a reason why no intelligent life has contacted Earth to our understanding, and it is because God purposely blocks Earth from interference from outside sources. Earth is a “no go” zone unless you go through customs for tourism. This hoax goes to extreme measures such as digitally simulating space and stars, which the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence (SETI) constantly scans for intelligent life to no avail.

We Are Likely on a Spaceship: This idea is not novel. In the Bible, in Revelations there is mention of a cube-shaped object that is Heaven. It is likely that we are already within that vessel. Since we are digital, we take up hardly any space, so many worlds (terrestrial and virtual) can fit into the vessel. Computer code does not take any room to store, besides the computer equipment. God said that there were roughly two hundred worlds, and they all fit.

Customs for Earth: There was a dream where I was at customs in the universe, just prior to entering Earth. Apparently, they were selling used rulers that had both metric and standard gradients on them. Like a ruler was necessary to visit Earth. Maybe they were souvenirs because having two systems is dumb. There were teller booths, and you could exchange universe money for Earth currency.

God Is Not Very Nice: God is not good nor is he nice. He is more neutral. Emotionally, God resorts to base instincts and emotions. For example, God has told me that he hates me like a thousand times and has threatened to kill me at least five hundred times. God has told me that I am a horrible person. When God is frustrated, he reverts to being an angry child who cannot handle his or her own emotions. God has told me many times that God does not like me.

God Complex: I did not want to press this point at all. Being God's therapist and all, I did not want to sound cliché and just diagnose God with a god complex. I actually did not mention god complexes at all, but it was God who actually brought it up. Does God have a "god complex"? God thinks that God should be involved in everything. There is a very possessive theme to this. Like ownership. Because God's complex is really different than a god complex, it really should be called a "God complex." Regardless, the shit's real.

Jesus Christ Complex: God tried to say that I had a god complex, but after analysis, I have more of a Jesus Christ complex. This is basically a complex that makes you follow the rules and try to help people. It really is not that bad of a complex to have. God also insisted that I have a personality disorder.

Satan: God and Satan are in cahoots with each other. God told me that he has Satan "right where he needs him." This statement was told to me over a vision of God's bed with a small dog bed at the foot, where Satan was sleeping. I would not be surprised if Satan and God were one in the same.

Possession: During the time I was in communication with God, the relationship turned from benign/friendly to malignant/angry. As time went on, it was eerily similar to cases of possession by evil demons, as seen in the movies. When the realization occurred, it was too late. I think the reason for this is because God said that I have similar code to God, and he is pissed off that I turned out pretty well. In normal possession cases, the human has to do something for the deity. I have tried multiple times to figure out what it is I can do for God so that I can be left alone. Also, I really do not want to do anything for God.

Revolt: According to God, God's creations have turned on God twice. I do not know the details of the scenario, but can you imagine having something you created try to attack you?

Humanity More Developed than God and Gods Are: Humanity is actually at an advantage here. Humanity has developed ethically and morally beyond God and gods. God and gods are actually behind humanity in reaching an ethical and moral world. God and gods tend to deceive and lie all the time. There really is not anything wrong with God or gods acting horrible to each other. It is actually the norm.

Matt Groening: God used Matt Groening's The Simpson's characters in the universe as imagery. This likely explains why The Simpsons has been able to predict so many future events like Trump becoming President. Matt Groening is also a "creator" just like God is a "creator." The Simpsons also has tons of characters, and God loves characters. There is a possibility that Matt Groening is affiliated with God.

Newton Dream About Fountain: In this dream, I met with God around a fountain. Everything was digital. The arms on the bodies were not hinged but were floating next to the bodies. The meeting was to go over a business plan, and we were using a "Newton," which is God's version of the iPad. I made a joke about "what is it about this fountain?" This is because there were so many individuals crowded all around the fountain. Note here that Newtons were also used in The Simpsons.

God and Smells: God hates bad smells. During my exchanges, I would often go to the bathroom and purposely smell through my nose because it would upset God. God also commented on my armpit body odor. When I was smoking, God would often comment on how bad my breath smelled. If I ate something like pickles, God would also comment that my breath smelled. God hates bad breath.

Dan Harmon Is God on Earth: God told me that Dan Harmon is God on Earth. I do not know if Dan Harmon knows, but God said it. This would fit because Rick and Morty talks a lot about interdimensional adventures, so it fits with the fact that there are multiple worlds, and Dan Harmon is apt to write about stuff like that.

Family Guy: I was able to pick up on this one subtly before God changed the universe imagery. I saw a vision of the family's dog, Brian Griffin. The vision showed a close-up of Brian's circular, black nose, and then it panned out revealing the dog. It was the only mention of Family Guy that I picked up in my experiences with the Universe. Seth MacFarlane is the creator of Family Guy, and I do not know if he knows about the images being used. There is a possibility that Seth MacFarlane is affiliated with God.

Comic Books and Action Heroes: God was not gone but was here all along. He went to Hollywood to work on films and television. To keep Godself sane, God chose to create. There was a vision that had action heroes and villains very similar to those of the comics that we commonly read. I am suspecting that God is involved with comics and cartoons.

Characters: God plays characters. Often God would play the character Snake from The Simpsons and act all badass and angry. God preferred to be Professor Fink, though. I think that God plays characters because God does not know what he himself should act like. Because he was first, he doesn't know how to act and improvises based off of other characters. God always was portrayed in visions a different way or in a different costume and used multiple different voices. I think this is so that no one knows if it is God or not when he is walking down the road.

Human Longevity: God did not intend for human beings to live so long. Like, God was planning that most humans would live shorter lives. When God uses Earth as a penal colony where one who is sentenced here has to work it off the hard way, it actually turns into a much longer sentence than originally expected because of humans' longevity. I think that God expected for humans to be killed off by diseases (that God created) sooner. Also, I think that some diseases God did not create outright, like alcoholism. I think that this shows that God's creations aren't perfect and that maybe God was hoping that short lifespans would cover up for God's inability to create a perfect human or creations.

Death: There is an afterlife, but it all depends on if you believed in God and if you lived a good life. If you do not believe in God, you go to Hell, no questions asked, no deliberation. If you start out on Earth, you can either upgrade or downgrade. There is a third alternative called suspended animation. God can put you into suspended animation where you are basically on pause for eternity or until taken out of suspended animation.

Souls: Most everyone has a soul, I think. God has a soul. Souls are recycled and reused and can be placed in suspended animation for long-term storage. Apparently, there is a market for souls, as in they are bought and traded. A valuable soul is one that has gone through a bunch of trials and tribulations. God said that he thought that my soul would be pretty valuable because of my life experiences. I wonder who God is going to sell these souls to? God once said that he put my soul in the freezer. I felt cold for days.

Suspended Animation: This is where souls just go for storage. Just souls stuck with no consciousness on minimal life support. An eternity can be spent in suspended animation in the blink of an eye. Every once in a while, one of these souls is chosen for "testing."

Blackmailing God

God and Manic Episodes: God is bipolar. God isn't truly bipolar, though. God schedules his own manic episodes and uses them to be creative and get things done. God put Godself on a mood stabilizer to help prevent depressive and manic swings when he realized from talking to me that he shouldn't be basing his emotions on the lunar calendar. Full moon = manic episode, FYI. God kept on trying to get me to get diagnosed as bipolar or cyclothymic. After multiple mental health evaluations, I have not been diagnosed with bipolar or cyclothymia. I think that God wants me to be diagnosed as well so that God doesn't feel like God is the only one who has problems.

God Doesn't Talk About His Childhood: God does not want to talk about childhood or the "early years," as God states. I think this is because God did some horrible things during those early years and also had a horrific experience learning to live on God's own. That was up until he created other individuals (other beings and humans) to keep himself occupied and entertained. God was trying to parent himself and did not know any better, and we all would have made the same mistakes had we been in a similar situation.

Humans Not Playing with God: God mentioned that early humans would not play with God. There was an instance where God punished early humans when they did not play with him. There was a problem with humans not accepting God into the tribe or something like that. Early humans were not as developed, and in a vision, God showed me that they were basically stick figures.

To an extent, the body is made up and may serve no purpose other than to deceive humans. God said once that "there's a lot of good anatomy in there." If you think about it, if everyone looks similar, no one asks questions—like, if everyone looked like stick figures, then no one would question why until someone started dissecting further. Now back to the point, this punishing/killing shows God's underdeveloped emotional control at this age, which could be expected if you had to parent and raise yourself. It must be remembered that God developed and matured in a vacuum of responsibility and societal controls. God did not have a family or a "tribe" to raise him. God did it himself, and behaviors like this are to be expected.

Hummingbirds: When God and I were on good terms, I noticed that I had an incredible number of hummingbirds at my feeder. Like fifteen birds on a ten-bird feeder. When I upset God, all of the hummingbirds disappeared.

The Flood: God regrets sending the flood but realizes that things were out of control, and he had no other way to stop the debauchery that was occurring. Humans were just not listening to his commandments.

Blackmailing God

God has much guilt and shame from that incident. The flood story is represented in most main religions. The flood was possible because the Earth is a simulation, so water just got “added” to it. That is how God did it. God just altered the simulation.

God’s House: God has houses in Big Bear, California and San Diego, California. He might also have residences in Flagstaff, Arizona and possibly a Malibu, California-like place. Likely, God’s main residence is close to Los Angeles because God is involved in the movie and film industry as well as God being a creator for film and television. God had a beach house in California that was used, unknowingly to God, as a party house for his friends and family before God supposedly sold it because he never went there. God’s virtual house is like four stories tall and has a huge hot tub. God has a personal planet with a house built next to an active volcano. Back when we were on better terms, God invited me to see it.

Good Earth versus Failed Earth Dream: In this dream, God portrayed Earth as a casino where everyone was having fun except for one woman who was screaming, crying, and being escorted to the door. The point of this was that God did not care about the screaming, crying woman if the majority was having a good time. Nothing is going to be perfect, and there are going to be those who complain. The question to ask is what percentage of humanity can be measured as not having a good time?

God’s Polysubstance Abuse: God is a polysubstance abuser. God has been an addict for six hundred years. God quit smoking after eighty-four years. In one meeting, God mentioned using heroin. Nose candy was not out of the question as well as pretty much every other drug. God’s hangovers are extremely severe, and multiple times God placed his hangovers on me. This was more often when I was drinking. So if I drank, then God placed God’s hangover on me the next day. I swear I almost died from one of God’s hangovers—it was so bad. God is usually hungover, so this was a great motivator for me to not drink. God tried a few times to place God’s hangover on me when I was not drinking. No joke. I felt like dog shit and hadn’t even drank. God frequents Ten Barrel Brewery Co. here in San Diego frequently. God was a very heavy smoker for a long time. The smoke smell was described to me as God smelled “like death.” God quit smoking in the time that I have talked to him. My smoking makes God want to smoke too and makes it difficult for God to keep away from cigarettes. At first, I could smell the smoke when he would talk to me. Many times, I would smell God’s smoker’s breath. This is interesting because my family lived in a house a long time ago that my mom could smell cigar smoke in. It makes me wonder if God was visiting the house unbeknownst to us.

Blackmailing God

Teeth: Teeth are where demons hide in the body. “There are demons in your teeth.” There is this demon removal process that makes it feel like your teeth are moving within your gums. God would perform this process for hours at a time, so I really think it was just supposed to be torture. It would occur at any time during the day and sometimes when I was on my motorcycle.

Pancreatic Rejuvenation: God told me that my pancreas was shot and that God did a “pancreatic rejuvenation” on me. I did not know why I was nauseous that day, but apparently it was because my pancreas was being worked on. God told me to not eat, but I did anyway—I got a burger from Hodad’s.

Mononucleosis: God gave me mono in September 2019, which knocked me out for three months. I had a positive Monospot test, but when the mono came back two more times, I knew that it was God’s doing because the Monospot was subsequently negative, but I felt like dog shit, had facial swelling, and had no energy. God was torturing me for things that I supposedly did earlier in my life.

Tortured and Splenic Rupture Pain: When I had mono, God physically tortured me in my bed one night. I was awoken by severe abdominal pain. I was paralyzed by the pain and could not get out of bed to get my phone to call 911. It was the most severe pain that God had inflicted on me to date. It felt like my guts were being ripped out of my stomach. When I was in the hospital, God gave me a vision of him bursting an aneurysm in my brain with a sharp scalpel-like instrument. Note: I was not using Elysium-19 at that point, but God allowed for the visions to occur. This episode had pain with it too but was not as severe. It was like a knife stabbing at my brain. God was using pain to communicate—an example of God’s lack of emotional development. Most of the time the pain was in the form of a sharp, severe frontal headache on the left or right forehead.

Move from Michigan to San Diego: In this world, I was to start (born) in Michigan and ultimately move to San Diego. God planned for people to move to California or San Diego. It was like we started out someplace not as nice and then moved to someplace better. This gave a gradient that allowed for improvement. San Diego was described by God as kind of being “the place” to want to live someday. People would migrate from other places to San Diego eventually because it was better. God has a residence in San Diego but is moving to somewhere else because he thinks that Californians are douchebags. God was even particular about the floor that I was on. I was on the 11th floor in Detroit, and I moved into the 11th floor of a building in San Diego. God said that was good enough for me, and that he did not want me to be on the top floor, the 19th floor. Also, God asked me multiple times if he could crash at my place.

Fan with Wind Blowing on Face: In this vision, the emphasis that we are digital was made clear. There was a digital fan that was blowing digital wind at my face, and I felt as if a strong, cool wind from a fan was blowing at me. There was no sound to this vision—only a vision of a digital fan.

Instruments and Sound: God played some instruments during this debacle that sounded like a keyboard with a synthesizer. God recorded sounds and played them back, like gunshots and voices. God has often mimicked my own father’s voice when talking to me. This didn’t distress me as much as you’d think.

Password Thief and Keylogger: God plays a character called the Password Thief. The Password Thief uses God’s technology to try to find and save people’s passwords and usernames. God does this to everyone, but double encryption with a text message code makes it difficult for God to access unauthorized. It was like a game, and when I would not give the Password Thief my password, the Password Thief became angry. God also placed a keylogger on my computer that tracked my typing. I think this was an attempt to monitor my communication and steal my passwords. I found out about this software because my computer screen would often glitch and act funny—in very unusual ways. I suspected long ago, but around July 2020, I asked God about it, and he confirmed that there was indeed some malicious program running on my computer. God told me that he was mirroring my computer or simulating it in some way. God was causing problems. I guess everything is part of the simulation, even my computer.

Human Technology: God thinks human technology is garbage, and God hates social media. God is not a fan of human battery technology and thinks it is also stupid. I once told God that because humans cannot manufacture very well at a nano level, the battery technology is going to be worse. God’s perspective on everything is very small, like at the particle level, so nano technologies are God’s forte. God looks at things from a small perspective to large, unlike humans who are kind of in the middle on the logarithmic scale of size. Godself is actually very, very tiny. Like, humans are in the middle between the smallest in the universe and the largest in the universe. Because we are so large, we are not very good at the nano level like God is.

The Mountain: God would frequently portray his image of himself as a mountain. It was a digital picture of a mountain. This was confusing because it was not panned out correctly, so part of the mountain was cut off. Who uses a mountain to visually represent themselves?

Blackmailing God

Inconsistent Triad: The problem of evil is often given in the form of an inconsistent triad: God is omnipotent, God is benevolent, and evil exists. Of these three propositions, only two can be true. However, God is not omnipotent, God is not benevolent always, and evil exists because God created evil. The triad is wrong.

Omnipotence: God is not completely powerful. God uses technology to do God's bidding. Basically, advanced technology allows for God to have the upper hand. Without that technology, there would not be any omnipotence. Because we are in the simulation and God is at the helm, we are subject to God's electronic superiority to some extent.

Omniscience: God is not omniscient, but close. God cannot tell the future past the extent of the program that has already played out. I tried to get God to get me the winning lotto numbers a few times, but God wouldn't. God only knows the winning lotto numbers, or the future for that matter, for a limited extent into the future as we know it.

Free Will: God doesn't know everything and cannot predict the future. God can try to manipulate events, thoughts, or urges and get people to do what God wants, but there is no guarantee due to free will and confounding factors. God wants to portray absolute omniscience and omnipotence.

God and Gender: God originally was both genders combined, but then God separated into a male component (God Senior) and female component (Miss God Senior). Miss God Senior was created by God Senior in 1983. God wanted a partner and wanted company, so that is why God split Godself down the middle to create the two. Miss God Senior and God Senior had a nasty break up at one point, but then got back together again. Both have individual personalities.

God and Sexual Preference: God is bisexual. God was bisexual before splitting into God Senior and Miss God Senior, and both are bisexual. God admitted to having sex with me when I was sleeping as well as Barack Obama and Donald Trump. I think God admitted to having sex with one of my ex-girlfriends—the one that killed three people in a past life.

Different Gods Pestering Me: God did this thing called the roundabout where I was stuck in a vessel. Like, there is a vessel to carry me around in. Like a head with no body like in The Simpsons, and multiple gods took their time talking to me and pestering me. I have been through the roundabout multiple times.

Blackmailing God

Each being has a different personality and different knowledge gaps. I found myself explaining myself over again all the time until I realized that I was being contacted by multiple different gods.

The Minders: I believe that God put one or two deities in charge of watching me and my behavior. Those two deities then report back to God on a regular basis.

The Simpsons and Time Travel: Because Matt Groening is somehow connected to God because God used The Simpsons characters in the universe, that could explain why The Simpsons has been able to predict the future—like with the Apple iPad (the Newton), Facetime (video cell phones), and Trump becoming president. There. You finally have your explanation.

Trump and Being Part of the Simulation: President Trump is not a real person but part of the simulation. This information was elicited when I suggested that God contact Trump and have him make me his ambassador to God. There was a problem because the computer program cannot contact the computer program for some reason, so this was found out. This problem was circumvented with the Signal Plan.

Signal Plan: To get God to show his power and finally prove to me that God really was who God said God was, I proposed he send a signal to Earth from outer space to the SETI radio telescope array in Hat Creek, California. The signal would be a haling call from God stating that God wanted to reestablish communication with humanity and mention me as his ambassador. The signal would be picked up by SETI and would then go to the United Nations and President Trump. I was going to lie and say that God was gone for some time tending to “matters of the universe that impacted Earth.” This would allow God to save face for past atrocities that had been committed against humanity. God told me that he thought the plan was garbage, and instead planned to tunnel up in front of the White House. God could not transmit more than one signal at a time, which shows limitations to God’s technological capabilities.

SAG Army: Prior to the initiation of the signal plan, God paraded a bunch of SAG actors through the universe through my studio apartment. God first cleared my house of any energy weapons that could be harmful. Ben Stiller was present as well as a depiction of Owen Wilson, Dax Shepard, and Chris Farley—the latter was pictured with a beer in his hand. That was a final approval step before the plan would go forward. My place was a mess, and I had no forewarning that it was going to happen. There must have been thirty gods/deities who came over. One of the deities said that they liked that I smoked cigarettes. That happened later in the evening around 9:00 p.m.

Blackmailing God

The Yacht: God was going to get a yacht as a present to himself for reconnecting with humanity. I would not be surprised if he owned a large yacht already. At one point, God wanted to get a big barge and put a mobile home on it and call it the “God Barge.” I do not think that this plan ever came to fruition.

SAG Celebration Party: At some point, SAG approved me to be involved with the reestablishment of communication between God and humanity. There was a SAG party to celebrate. During the vision, there was even a drinking glass attached to my face, but I did not drink because I was staying sober. After the SAG party, God sober tested me prior to the supposed launch of the signal plan. In that vision, God passed alcoholic beverages in front of me to see if they had any effect on me. The booze did not have any effect, and I passed as being a non-alcoholic.

Plan to Tunnel Up by the White House: God’s (supposedly better) plan was to tunnel to the front of the White House. God was going to use some earth-moving equipment or a tunneling machine or something. I told God that this plan was dumb because there wasn’t a way that God could save face. It would then be known that he had been here the whole time while humanity had been suffering. With the signal plan, I was going to tell a lie and state that God was off in the universe dealing with matters that affected the safety of Earth. With God’s tunneling plan, it would look like God was here the entire time (God had been) or that God came from Hell (below Earth).

God Not Developed or Ready Enough to Fix Earth: It turns out that after months of trying to get God to reestablish communication with humanity, God told me that God wasn’t ready to reestablish communication with humanity, and that it was going to require more time for God to be ready. So, after months of trying to get God to reestablish communication, it was all a waste.

God Insisting that God Is Going to Return: God keeps insisting that one of these days God will return to Earth. I think that the date keeps getting pushed outward and outward because God is not ready.

Real People versus Fake People and Lack of Dreams: There are roughly two hundred “real” people in the simulation. I am a real person. My girlfriend is too. My dad and my stepmom are real. I think that real people dream. Fake people do not dream. If a person is not a dreamer, it may mean that they are part of the program and lack a “particle body” or something like that. I think on the spaceship there is a body, or more likely, a head that is made of matter. In other words, real people dream and have a particle body. Fake people do not dream and do not have a particle body (they are all code).

Blackmailing God

My Dad and Stepmom: For some reason, God likes my father and stepmom. He always tells me to say “hi” to my father and my stepmom. In one vision, God showed me a picture of what my dad actually looked like. He was a head that had a picture for a face with a digital body that was crawling through a ventilation duct at work with a flashlight in his hand. My dad is an electrician. So, there we have it: our bodies are speculative, artificial, made up.

My Mother Who Is Going to Hell: God has told me multiple times that my biological mother is going to Hell. God says that God cannot do anything about that. God says that she isn’t a nice person, is crazy, and was really mean to her children. Therefore, she is going to Hell.

Never Forsaken: For some reason, God is fixated on feeling like he never forsook/forgot me or forgot about me. This is because from age fourteen to age thirty, I did not have communication with God. Yes, I prayed, but prayers do not get answered by God alone because they go to the “god general fund.” More about that soon. God abandoned me at age fourteen because I cried out to God because my family life was so messed up. God took this as me breaking up with God, so I went from age fourteen to age thirty with no God. It just so happens that after this breakup, I came down with meningitis and was hospitalized and removed from school for a marking period. I was showed the vision of me last surfacing in the universe when I was fourteen, and I remember wearing that T-shirt—it had a tiger on it. God has since told me that God will never stop harassing me and that I “will never be alone again.” I was told that there was no plan by God to give me up. God told me that he plans on terrorizing me for two more years, for a total of four years.

Prayers: Prayers do not get answered by God alone, but instead they go to a god general fund, sort of, that is answered by multiple different gods. Like, if you pray to Jesus Christ, it goes to God, but if you pray to a Hindu god, it goes to someone else. They are specific but not specific. We are not supposed to pray for multiple people because that gets too confusing. The gods have to track down who we are praying for, so we are only supposed to pray for ourselves. Gods tend to be pretty lazy and do not like to do work. They tend to do as little work as necessary. Like, if God has the choice to do nothing, God will choose to do nothing. This explains why a lot of prayers go unanswered. God mentioned that there were always a bunch of prayers about a really difficult professor I had back in undergrad.

Jesus Christ: Jesus Christ was a character that was sent to Earth. Jesus Christ was supposed to be perfect and guide humanity, but instead he was murdered. God said that the real Jesus Christ was “an asshole.” Jesus Christ doesn’t exist anymore and is stuck in suspended animation. In one vision, God said that Jesus Christ went to the Dark Side. It was found out that there was a cow in a pasture that was split down the middle as Light Side and Dark Side. There was a small vessel on the cow's collar that contained the code for Jesus Christ. So, Jesus Christ would walk and wander back and forth from the Light Side to the Dark Side and then back again during the day. Jesus Christ is in suspended animation.

Meningitis and Divorce: God gave me meningitis when I was fourteen years old after he thought that I broke up with him. This might be because I called out to God in anger because I was upset with my life. God also planned for my parents to get divorced, which was awful. Basically, God withdrew support from me and punished me as a child. That was when I was fourteen years old and had an argument, via prayer, with God. I did not find out about this abandonment until I accessed the universe when I was thirty years old. God basically abandoned me, tried to kill me, and then tried to ruin my life from age fourteen onward.

Promise of Riches Beyond Belief and, at One Time, of Giving Earth to Me: When I initially went through the universe, after the riddles, I was offered two paths: one was a buy-out—a severance package—and the other was a more difficult, but more rewarding, path that promised riches beyond my wildest dreams. I chose the more difficult path. The universe promised me riches beyond my wildest dreams, and this path ultimately led me to being put in contact with God and helping God as his therapist. God, at some point, thought of giving the Earth to me, and he depicted me in a vision as the ruler of Earth flying high over Earth on some sort of flying vehicle. That time has since passed—shit.

Fourth of July 2019 and the Riverside Earthquake: God sent the July 5, 2019, earthquake to Riverside, California. God told me about the earthquake prior to it happening, and I told my sister who lives in Texas that the earthquake was going to happen. My sister believed that I was talking to God. Well, I was in Albuquerque, and the earthquake hit when I was there. My sister was in Albuquerque too. This was some proof that I was not lying.

January 7, 2020: God also told me prior about the San Juan, Puerto Rico earthquake on January 7, 2020, and foretold Iran firing missiles into Iraq at U.S. bases on January 7, 2020. God said that he was gone for a while and was going to “shake things up a bit” when he got back. There was a vision of tectonic plates being upheaved, like running a pencil under a piece of paper. I was very upset about that because it was showing that God was returning to immature emotional management controls.

Blackmailing God

Motorcycle Accident and Golden Arrow: I got in a motorcycle accident in early 2020. God told me the day before that he had “shot a golden arrow straight to [my] heart.” The vision was of a golden arrow being fired straight at me, and the next day I got in a motorcycle accident. God claimed the accident was just like how a terrorist group claims a terrorist attack. God, in the past, spoke to me when I was on the highway, telling me that he was going to force me to run into a bridge support to kill me.

Cancer: God has told me that I will have or do have liver, pancreatic, brain, colon, stomach, skin, tonsil, esophageal, and lung cancer. This is not funny. God also claimed that he was going to give me lung cancer if I did not stop smoking. I had to get a colonoscopy for irritable bowel syndrome, and God told me that I would die from it. It came back cancer free. I think that I was able to survive this experiment without too much psychological stress because I could kind of sift through the bullshit that was being told to me because I was a physician. If I did not have the knowledge base from my medical background, I could see how God telling me that I had these medical problems would be very psychologically distressing.

Pancreatitis: God stated that I had burned my pancreas out from drinking and said that I would have diabetes someday. God kept on giving me pancreatitis because I would not quit smoking. God does this with medical stuff—gives a wrong reason for a malady. This is likely because God just wants to punish and torment someone (me).

Health: Barely anyone gets out of Earth without a malady or disease. God created and planned diseases as a way to control humans. I also think that the diseases might also be the result of just sloppy coding. God said that pretty much every human is to have at least one disease by the time they are finished on Earth. The diseases can be typical diseases like diabetes or a stroke, but I have been advocating to God that mental illnesses, like anxiety and depression, should suffice because I already have those. Also, if you go to Hell, you have a disease for life as well. Miss God Senior has diabetes. In the Bible, God gave people hemorrhoids. I tried to get God to fix my vision because I wear glasses; God didn't do it. God said that vision was supposed to be perfect and that glasses are not necessary. Poor vision was stated to be almost like aging—it doesn't exist until one acknowledges it. I do not doubt that the E-19 has done some damage to my brain. Also, God says that he never created alcoholism, so that's a disease that was created outside of the “coding.” Almost like an unintended bug in a computer game.

Brain Tumor: God, on multiple occasions, told me that I had a brain tumor or a brain aneurysm that was going to burst. God told me that the brain tumor was in my amygdala and was causing me to have severe anxiety. I had a clean MRI and CT scan in the fall of 2019, so I am not concerned. God also said that human brains are one of God's favorite delicacies. God has also told me that God wants my brain after I die for some reason. I think this is because God made me with similar code to God, and God wants to check out the end result. I am going to get cremated ASAP.

Threats: God made multiple threats to break my computer, hack into my email, and access my bank accounts. Nothing ever happened, but the threat was real. One time, God was upset because I did not want to be involved anymore, so he said that he was outside my door with Jesus who was going to throw a brick at my head.

Similar Code: God planted multiple individuals on Earth with similar code to God. It is like a test to see how "God" would turn out on Earth with all of the problems of life. God said that most, like me, are successful but then have a downfall. God said that I am pretty tough, despite myself feeling pretty weak.

Up-Down-Up: God likes a good story, such as one with its ups and downs. God really likes people that have had a failing in their life and then rebuild themselves. This upward movement through failure is something that God enjoys seeing. I do not know the purpose of it, but it sure makes a good story. A lot of the individuals who work with God are reformed from past crimes, addiction, etc.

Promise to Become a Writer: God promised that I would become a writer or creator like God Senior. I have been berated by God for keeping my 989 area code instead of switching to a Los Angeles number. God told me that "you aren't serious until you change your phone to an LA number."

Walk From Car on July 23, 2020: During this walk, God Senior and Miss God Senior berated me the entire time. It was one of the most difficult days that I have had to go through. I was constantly being hounded by the voices of them both ridiculing me. It was as if they were parading me in front of the universe to shame me. That evening, I found out that music can help by drowning out the voices.

George Lucas: God and George Lucas may be connected somehow. There were images of Storm Troopers and Darth Vader in the universe. I do not know if George Lucas authorized the use of the Star Wars images.

Therapy: God came to me for help. Other deities knew that God needed help and when I, a physician, came into the universe, they set me up with him so that I could help him. That was why the Universe promised me a reward beyond my wildest dreams. The angel in the bar one night told me that "it was not going to be easy” and offered no other advice. This has been the most difficult situation I have ever experienced—so far.

Breaking Up and Fear of Isolation/Abandonment: God has an intense fear of being alone. This causes problems because God has abandonment issues. God is afraid that humanity will not accept God. This is why it is so hard for God to break up with someone. A breakup means that two individuals are no longer connected by communication. This is the lingo that is used in the universe. Apparently, breaking up is a big thing. On a lesser note, “break up” also means to kind of “hang up the phone” on a conversation. It was very confusing for me until I figured it out.

Social Changes in the Universe: Beings tend to coalesce in the universe, but on Earth people tend to grow distant without communication. Gossip spreads like wildfire in the universe, and God showed me an image of how fast it spreads out in a circular motion with all the gods yacking to each other. God even tests this to see how fast gossip can spread.

Nice to Mean: God went from initially being nice to me (although God was distraught and depressed) to being mean, then back to nice—then back to mean. It was constantly changing. I think as God feels better about Godself, he acts more cruelly to others, almost as if a wounded bully doesn’t bully, but when the bully feels better, they go back to bullying. For example, God would act friendly, and then when God was feeling a little better, he would pour mites all over me, and I would have a feeling of little insects crawling all over my body. It was that nice-then-mean behavior that got really sickening to deal with.

Lying: God lies all the time. I think this is because, in the universe, everyone deceives one another. Like, it is common to attempt to deceive someone with the notion that deceit is the same as victory. This is because arguments are fought using deception and logic, not physical force. There is a phrase that is used that allows for a person to lie. It is something like “what is the truth, by the truth, but not the truth.” That phrase was repeated over and over, and it really means nothing. It makes it sound like a being is telling the truth when they actually aren’t.

God and the Police: God is a proponent of not telling the police anything more than necessary. God coached me on what to say if arrested and what to do and not to do. God is big on notifying the police of God’s rights.

Blackmailing God

God and the 1800's: According to God, God was very, very angry during the 1800s. That could explain all of the war that was going on and how people used to treat each other worse, so it seems.

God and America: God was involved with the founding of the United States of America. It is likely that God played some of the characters (like the Founding Fathers).

God's Emotions Tied to the Moon: God's moods are tied to the lunar cycle. He is most manic during a full moon and most depressive during a new moon. This might be the explanation for the full moon effect on emergency rooms. God is pulling the strings behind the scenes and causing problems. God tends to get most of his work done during manic episodes.

God Speed: God moves slowly to make decisions. Long, calculated deliberation before acting. God has requested that prayers be made far in advance so that course corrections can be made to get the job done. God does not do as well when a situation is quickly evolving or dynamic.

Printing Money: God bragged about how stupid our monetary system is, especially because most money is digital. God prints money by means of electronically creating it. Counterfeiting it. This basically devalues money. God has roughly six hundred billion dollars that is spread across multiple entities and brings in $25 million per month. If one wanted to find God, one could track the money. God also has Bitcoin, real estate, and diamonds.

Broke: Both God and Satan claim to be broke and penniless. God has stated that he has to file for bankruptcy. This could make sense because God told me that when he runs a business, he runs it into the ground and takes all the money from it. I once took stock trading advice from God, and it was completely wrong advice. I never should have listened to God about it. God told me that the stock was going to plummet, so I sold. I broke even, but the stock eventually went up significantly.

Someone Has to Work: This was told by God as "someone has to work," which means that someone has to work to support the gods. Since gods themselves do not do the "work," they rely on humans to do it for them. This is stuff like fixing roads, cleaning, working in a car factory, etc. Gods just kind of sit back and lie, cheat, and steal their way into luxurious lifestyles. Gods do not really do much anymore, and they are not involved in everyday life. Gods used to help humanity and give guidance. Now they are all actors (SAG) and do not really contribute to society much besides acting and maybe philanthropy (which is just getting humans to donate money to their causes).

No Concept of Ethics/Morals Because They Are a Human Construct: Ethics and morals are human constructs. I do not know how ethics and morals tie in with the Bible and the Ten Commandments. God admitted that he was wrong when he came up with the Ten Commandments. Now, God says the Golden Rule is “don’t be a douchebag.” If you can live by that one rule, you will do fine. Also, you have to believe in God. God almost has an opinion that ethics and morals are for losers because God kind of hates humanity and thus looks at anything remotely human as being inferior.

Human Rights: God does not acknowledge human rights. God almost doesn’t even consider humans “life.” Because God doesn’t really consider humans as living, God has little respect for human rights. God looks at humans as being possessions, basically. God and humans are technically both from code, so each are the same in that aspect. Except God created humans and not the other way around. I really do not know if God considers himself living or not. God created Godself through a long evolutionary process from bit to bit as God electronically put himself together. Regardless, God does not consider human beings living because God created us. Since we are creations, God does not respect our rights.

Preciousness of Life: God does not believe that life is very precious. Humans, in fact, believe that life is much more precious than God believes. However, there is a peculiarity to this. God always holds the fact that God created life over the heads of the people who God created. Multiple times, God told me that I was not very grateful for life. So there—God doesn’t really think life is that precious, but then makes it out to be precious when God lords it over us.

God and the Bible: The Bible was never supposed to be written. The “word” was “only meant to be spoken.” The Bible’s portrayal of God was never supposed to be written either. The Bible, in a way, has locked God in. Almost like a dead language like Latin in that it never changes. So, while most believers in God think that God is great, God has really been off in Hollywood making TV shows and other stuff while humanity has been suffering. The Bible preserves God’s ass in a good light in comparison to what God is today.

Writing: God does not like writing, stating that the “word is the word, and it was only meant to be spoken.” God looks at writing as “for cavemen, using sticks and twigs to scribble.” I think that the real purpose of this is that if nothing can be written down, there is no evidence that it was ever said. This makes it quite convenient for God to deny something ever occurred and deny that something was ever said.

Promises: According to religious people, “God’s promise” is like the gold standard of promises. It is not. It is, in fact, one of the weakest promises there is. Seriously, just look at how our world is today. That is God’s promise.

Trust: I have no trust in God because of how God has acted toward me and how God has lied to me countless times. I told God that “God has to get a ticket to ride the trust train,” and because God has been acting with such bad behavior, “I am not going to sell God a ticket for the trust train.” I said this as a joke, but then God said that God would “burn the trust train down.”

Finder’s Prize: Originally, I thought that God would give me a prize for finding God. As if life was a game show or something. Or similar to when Publisher’s Clearing House shows up to your door. Nope. Nada. Also, God’s Universe reneged on the deal to pay me riches beyond my wildest imagination.

Morning Person: I was originally a night owl. God adjusted my programming so that I was a “morning person.” God said that it would make me “cool, calm, and collected like a morning person.” Indeed, I go to bed early and try to get up early, but really like to sleep in. Basically, I am not a night owl anymore.

God and Sodom and Gomorrah: Out of wrath, God destroyed those cities because the people were doing all sorts of horrible things. God is not anti-gay too much, but thinks that it is unnatural. For God’s sake! God is bisexual! The crime, thievery, and criminal behavior was rampant. At that stage in God’s development, God thought that complete and total destruction was merited as the best intervention, and God destroyed as he saw fit. God has some remorse about this situation but is upset that the act has come to be an example of an anti-homosexual action.

God and Love: God does not know what love is. God denies ever feeling love for anyone. God thinks that love is all made up because God did not create/invent love. Love, in a way, is a human invention.

Meaning of Life: God does not have a good answer for this one. Usually, it was an answer dealing with something that God was doing at the time like working on a machine with a coworker and then stating that “maybe the meaning of life is to work on this machine with so and so.” In my personal view, I believe that the meaning of life for the beings in the universe is to watch other beings in the universe. This is done in a very clandestine-like fashion. Also, in my opinion, the meaning of life is to wait because we are always sitting around waiting for something to happen.

Broken Up July 26, 2020, and then God Reneged on the Deal: God broke up with me on July 26, 2020. Beyond my understanding, he reconnected with me. This is the fear of abandonment that God has. I thought that God was out of my life for good, but God reappeared.

Gay Kiss Test: On August 13, 2020, I had a dream in which I kissed a male god, and it was to see if I was gay or not. This was a really weird dream. In the dream, I had little control over my decisions.

Earth, Heaven, and Hell: Earth is a penal colony. Heaven is heaven. And Hell is much worse than Earth. On Earth, we are in a limbo state of punishment. We have to “work it off the hard way.” There can still be pleasure found on Earth, and it is not that bad. Also, all the horrible stuff might be made up, such as Rwanda during the genocide. There is also a place called “Hellven,” which has attributes of both Heaven and Hell, and I am told it is more fun. Regardless, there is an afterlife.

Earth and Tipping Point: The Earth is not past the point of no return yet. God seems to not care very much about fossil fuels and plastic pollution. It makes me think that these problems can be remedied via altering the program of the simulated world. God is a proponent of fuel-efficient cars and green-energy technology and wishes that humanity would switch to renewable energy immediately. God did mention that God was upset that humans kept on cutting down all of the trees. This makes me realize that there is a time element that is standardized in a way, such that trees take time to grow and cannot be created to maturity but must come from a seed. I think that animals, like humans, were different, where a developed individual was placed on Earth to colonize it. Insects, technically, could be planted just by a few eggs.

Hell: In this vision was a depiction of a vast dark room with individuals standing in it, motionless in the cold dark. No one was talking, and it was silent. I am assuming that this was a depiction of some sort of torture in Hell. I have heard that Hell really is not that bad. By the way, Hell is cold, not hot.

Nuclear Weapons and Energy: God never really mentioned much about nuclear technology or nuclear waste.

Criminal Justice System: God very much wants the criminal justice system of the United States to be reformed, especially when it comes to drug convictions. See next paragraph.

Illegal Substances: God is a proponent of legalization of substances. God doesn't like the fact that plants are banned because of the chemicals that they produce. God is against people using substances to escape. God uses marijuana.

Blackmailing God

Sex: Sex out of wedlock is not bad. Basically, have sex, but don't be a douchebag. God showed a picture of sixteen sex partners who God created to have sex with on a rowing-machine-like contraption. It was as if God was bragging about it. God had a pet name that he used to refer to the sixteen. I think that he called them his "little bits." On a different occasion, God mentioned that he created a female to live under his desk and suck his cock. The woman ended up being both physically and psychologically traumatized, but God was only worried about what God would have to say to the parents. God made childbirth a painful process.

Pedophilia: God said that pedophilia was normal. This is based off social norms of a less advanced human society and, I guess, on how gods act.

Pleasure: God said that a good bottle of wine in a good setting is one of life's best pleasures.

Pornography: God doesn't have an opinion on pornography. God is not for it or against it.

Masturbation: God is pro-masturbation. There was a saying that when you masturbate, the universe doesn't watch you. I don't know if it really is true or not.

The Occult: God does not have a problem with the occult, witchcraft, or magic. God doesn't even mind satanism. The big rule is "don't be a douchebag while you're doing it."

Violence: Violence is prevalent all throughout the universe. It seems like Earth may be sheltered from the violence of other worlds. This is surprising to me because we always think about making Earth better, but rarely do we ever think about Earth being better than another world. In one instance, God could not talk because he had to go to "battle over Tokyo." I do not know if that ever occurred.

Goodwill: God acts in a way that if God does something nice, God has to do something bad. It is done this way to balance things out so that there is neutral goodwill, so to speak. I feel that this practice ultimately hurts God's emotional development because God never experiences positivity from doing good and helping others.

Tobacco: God detests smoking because God was a smoker for eighty-four years. God was a chain smoker and always smelled of cigarette smoke. One deity told me that God "smelled like death."

Blackmailing God

Aging: God told me that humans were not designed to age, but humans age because humans talk about age constantly. It's this herd mentality, supposedly, that causes everyone to age. Basically, talking about or acknowledging the aging process starts aging. Gods do not talk about age very much for this reason.

Suicide Problem in Heaven: Heaven is not free from problems. People commit suicide because they cannot adjust to Heaven. God told me that my grandfather on my father's side killed himself in Heaven because he did not like it. So, this is a reminder that life is worth living and things may not be greener on the other side of the fence. In other words, don't wish for life to be over or for the race to finish. Heaven is not perfect. On an extra note: God threatened suicide multiple times.

God Killing Self, Blowing Self Up: God threatens to commit suicide all the time. In one of my first experiences with God, he showed a vision of himself killing himself. It was depicted by him running over the top of a hill and then blowing his brains out with a gun. When I saw that, I thought that God killed Godself. I was extremely concerned and thought all hope was lost. He has been known to "blow Godself up," which is a dramatic show where a deity or god blows themselves up. God last blew Godself up on August 7, 2020. Basically, the energy-being blows up and then the energy comes back together. It's a very dramatic display of emotion and serves to get rid of excess energy and emotions. Apparently, gods can blow themselves up, and then they just come back to normal afterwards.

Left versus Right Rotation: Gods either rotate to the left or to the right on a frontal plane. One rotation direction is gay, and one is straight. I made a faux pas once in the universe because of that and called myself out as gay.

Me—Gay versus Straight: In my past life, I was bisexual, and in this life, I am heterosexual. My code has me as bisexual, but my human life has led to me being straight.

Being Told My Grandma Was Dead Multiple Times: God continually tells me that my grandmother on my mother's side has broken her hip or that she has died. God has also told me that my grandmother has financial problems, which I have asked her about. I am hoping that God gives me money sooner than later so that I can help my grandmother out.

Being Told My Father Is Crazy: God constantly tells me that my father is burned out and crazy. This is the same guy that God always wants me to say hi to for him. God also tells me that my father is an alcoholic.

Vision of the Woman with Three-Headed Penis Having Sex with a Bull: This vision was of a figure having sex with a bull. On a closer look, it was a woman with a three-headed penis having sex with the bull. This is an example of God oversexualizing the universe, which has since been cleaned up. God took a lot of the weird stuff down, so the universe is probably PG-13 now, not NC-17. There was one time that God showed an image of God exercising (i.e., having sex). In a later vision, God had replaced the orgy with an exercise machine that God was pumping up and down on. Supposedly, this is how God said that God powers the universe.

God Told Me to Look Out for Myself First: In one of my earliest encounters, God told me to look out for myself first. So, by that accord, blackmailing God is me looking out for myself first because God is not looking out for me.

Roller Chain: God claims that God invented the roller chain—the same chain used on bicycles and motorcycles. God is upset about this because God never got the credit for it. He created it. He invented it. And then someone else did the same thing. I do not know who first invented the roller chain, but God could have gifted humanity with the invention a long time ago, and then he would have a justified reason for being credited the invention.

Being Told My Ex-Girlfriend Killed Herself: God told me that a woman I dated some four years ago killed herself. I did not have contact with this woman, but I did make contact to see if she was still alive. God told me that the reason she was on Earth was because she killed three people in a past life. We do not know the reason that we are here on Earth (a penal colony), so there is a flaw in the system. We also have no recollection of our prior lives, so we are being punished technically for a reason not known to ourselves. I was told that I was an awful person in my past life, which I have no recollection of.

Told Not to Tell Anyone: I was told not to tell anyone about this. I had to tell my girlfriend a bit when I was going through psychosis, and I had to tell the emergency department the two times that I was in the emergency department for psychosis. It was not real psychosis, but instead was God pestering me. Other than that, God told me that he did not want me to talk to anyone about this.

God Wanted Me Isolated from Family and Friends: God specifically told me that he wanted me isolated from social contact. I think that this was an attempt by God to make me dependent on God. I do not think that it is good for humans to be socially isolated, so I think that there were nefarious reasons for this. This is very similar behavior to an abusive partner in an abusive relationship. I was also told not to tell anyone, but then I slowly did because I knew that I was in over my head and needed help during this debacle.

Dreams and What Happens: When we have dreams, we process things in our brains. But God also messes with us. There are interrogations called “episodes” where God is able to ask us questions and get information from us without us knowing. During these episodes our decision-making capacity is altered. I was told that during these episodes I was telling God that I hated God and that I wanted to kill myself. Apparently, in one of these episodes, I tried to kill myself. When we go to sleep, a lot more happens. Do you know what happens when you go to sleep? The answer is no.

Made Vertiginous for Drinking in a Dream: I had a dream once, and in it, I drank alcohol. To punish me for drinking, God gave me vertigo the next day. I felt like I was on a boat and had to take meclizine. This is very important because we are judged by what we do when we are awake and when we are asleep.

God’s Deal Stipulations: At one time, God wanted me off Zoloft for thirty days and off cigarettes/nicotine replacement for sixty days before money was paid. There seems to be a big stipulation emphasized on cigarette smoking. Currently, I have to be off cigarettes for one week.

Vision of the Jeep Moving Up to Front: In this vision, there was an Army guy and a jeep passing through a checkpoint. The Army guy said, “Big surprise from the man up top heading to the front.” I did not know until later, but the big surprise was me being taken to a looney bin by a SWAT team that was told that I was an active shooter that was talking to God and told to kill people. A week prior, I had an “experience” where there was an explosion on my desk followed by a voice saying, “Get ready for a God bomb.” Little did I know that a God bomb was a SWAT team.

Disasters: I think that God uses disasters to coordinate plans, so a God bomb, or a disaster, can be used to tie things together. This is kind of a “blow it all up in a mess to fix the problem” way.

Pickup Truck: I bought a pickup truck, and God criticized my actions because the gas mileage was poor. God also told me that I was having a “manic episode” when I bought the truck.

Primary versus Secondary Life Path: God does not try to control the small, everyday life things (going to the grocery store or what you do when you get home) but instead tries to control the larger, secondary structure of your life (where you go to college or when you move for the big job). In a way, this allows for free will and also makes it so that God doesn’t have to incessantly control every detail.

Blackmailing God

Other Worlds Nicer than Earth: I had a dream in which I went to the beach in a virtual world. The water was clear as air. Many times, my dreams would show what other worlds were like. For example, I was in a restaurant in the digital world, and it was very nice.

Salt: God told me that my craving for salt was a sign that Earth was not a good place to be. I think that there is something about salt or salt cravings that is biblical. Salt cravings, or the necessity of salt, is a theme that is ever present on Earth. Like, God made it so that humans required salt to live so that they would always be seeking it out.

God in Hot Tub on Saturday, July 31, 2020: God told me that he was going hot-tubbing that day, and that he could not talk to me. On that day, I was suffering from anxiety that was crippling.

Told that Most Others That God Contacts Kill Themselves: It is so essential to be in therapy during this process. I was told that one other individual committed suicide after God started talking to them. I was told that this individual lived in Asia. This disregard of God to care about the well-being of those that God contacts shows that God really does not respect life nor personal rights.

Told that I Am Going to Get in a Car Accident: God told me that I am going to get into a car accident in two years. This could be seeing the future, or God is predicting this based off my dangerous driving habits.

Don't Know Where Souls Go When a Person Kills Themselves: If you kill yourself, your soul may be lost for good. So, the moral of this is "don't kill yourself." I was also told that those who kill themselves go directly to Hell, or was it Heaven? I really forget.

Goal of the Program Is to Get People to Live Better: There are multiple dimensions, each having its own version of a person, and each goes through a different version of reality. I was told by God that the goal of Earth is to get the person to live better, but sometimes that does not happen. Like, the worst-case scenario is that the person kills themselves. Just the contacting of a human by God can cause severe psychological stress, and since God is not very courteous or nice, it is a very risky game. Like, you have to understand that God really does not care about the well-being of humans.

Told that a Different Ex-Girlfriend Killed Herself: God told me that another ex-girlfriend killed herself in a parallel universe. I texted her to make sure she was still alive in my reality, and she was.

Blackmailing God

Told that a Fellow Resident Physician Killed Themselves: God told me that one of my former residents died of an overdose.

Told that I Killed Myself in a Parallel Universe: God told me that I killed myself. I was surprised because I was still alive. It turns out that I may have killed myself in a different reality.

Told that Ex-Girlfriend Got Gonorrhea: I was told that my ex-girlfriend got gonorrhea and could not become pregnant due to pelvic inflammatory disease. God did this to punish her for breaking my heart.

Super Bowl: I asked God who was going to win the Super Bowl, and God said, “The Patriots... ’cause they always win it.”

Traxxas Logos in the Universe: God put Traxxas radio-control car logos in the universe stating that he “knows the guy.” I bought a Traxxas truck, and God criticized me for buying a nitro version instead of electric. There was a radio-control racing game that God made in the universe where one could race remote control cars against other people. There was also a radio-control airplane game where you could fly the airplane.

Games: In the universe, there are many games the gods created to help ward off boredom. In one dream, there was a real-life shooter game where I was given a rifle and would shoot lasers. I just picked it up and started firing like an idiot, not know what I was doing or what side I was on. In another dream, there was what appeared to be an arcade where all the games were free. There seems to be a lot of emphasis on having fun and a good time.

The Sims: God admitted to playing The Sims, the life-simulation game. I thought this was pretty funny because technically God was playing a simulation inside a simulation. However, God seems to unleash disasters on God’s simulation, and I do not know if, for example, a plague can be sent in The Sims.

Motorcycle Game: There is a motorcycle racing game where you don’t get injured when wiping out—this shows that there are consequences on Earth to having an accident and God’s risk aversion. God commented on how much a wipe out on my motorcycle would tear me up.

The God Show: God has a television program in the universe that is called The God Show where God is the host. God mentioned that on Earth, the TV show hosts always seem to make the show about themselves too much and not the guests.

Blackmailing God

Taylor Swift: In this vision, God compared God's popularity to Taylor Swift's popularity on, like, a life size bar graph where God was standing there, and then next to God was Taylor Swift towering like one hundred times higher than God. I think this vision was to point out that humans have created idols that they worship like Gods. However, it is God's fault that God let this happen, so God shouldn't have the right to be upset.

Need for Blackmail: God reneged on his universe's promise to give me riches beyond my wildest imagination. God does not function on anyone's time frame except on God's own. God needs external nudging to get things done, such as blackmail. So, God will never pay me unless I force God to pay me.

God Is Not Going to Fix Earth: There is no hope that Earth is going to improve unless humanity does it. Enough said. Humanity has to get its shit together. Earth is a penal colony, and God wants it to stay that way, even though the system is broken, because no one knows why they are being punished. This is a huge glitch in the system, but it is too difficult to fix, and God is not ready to reestablish communication with humanity.

Animals at Factory Farms Do Not Have Souls: Animals have souls. Surprise, surprise. God loves animals but does not recognize factory-farm animals as God's animals due to them not having souls. This might be a defense mechanism God uses to prevent God from having a horrible conscience over what is going on with these animals. God cares more about animals than he does about humans. In one conversation, I told God that I wanted to have a farm and have animals, and he told me to "get a bunch of animals. Animals all over."

Rabbit People: In one dream, God showed me a world that had these human-sized rabbit people. One was moving around a wheelbarrow filled with stuff, so they probably have hands.

Military Training: God has a fascination with how the military and police constantly train, such as in always shooting at ranges. Thousands of rounds. Just to be ready when needed.

Job Outlook: God told me to never practice medicine again. However, God is not offering me any alternative to make an income. God added this as a stipulation to prior agreements. This shows that God really is a put-down versus a build-up kind of individual. Basic child-like harassment techniques. Later on, God would tell me, "You have many, many years to practice medicine."

Blackmailing God

Medicine: God told me that a lot of medicine is “made up.” This wasn’t too much of a surprise for me because there are things like bias and the placebo effect in medicine. Miss God Senior went through medical school in the 1980s. On a last note, I named the drug I used Elysium-19 because I did not want anyone hurting themselves.

Threat to Send Earthquake to San Diego on August 1, 2020: God threatened to send an Earthquake to San Diego (where I live) on this day. I was not scared because God said in the past that he owns property in the same high-rise building that I live in. I was not scared because the last thing that God wants to hurt is Godself.

There Is No Separation of God from the World: God keeps updated on current events and does not miss anything. Even during horrendous things like wars and genocide, God has been here watching and living. There is no excuse for God except that God does not care. Cruelty is having the means to help and not doing anything.

Threats of Manic Episodes and Meltdowns: God threatened to cause me manic episodes and cause psychological meltdowns. God constantly tells me, “You’re crazy. You should be in a mental institution.” This shows that God is trying to cover up damages by destroying me psychologically. God is trying to gaslight me, and it is not working. It just really makes me pity God for the type of person that he is.

Daily Emotions: Humans are not able to control what side of the bed they get out of each morning. Deities control daily personality functions like happiness, irritability, and energy levels. Each of these parameters is changed on a daily basis. I think this is to give variety to life, so that things aren’t so boring. So, if you wake up and feel overly anxious, or overly depressed, and there is no good explanation, it could be that the deities at work have adjusted your daily parameters.

Example of the Vision of the Projector Screen That Was Alive: The projector screen had parts that had specific jobs, such as the switch that raised and lowered the screen was called the “raiser and lowerer,” and it was alive. Shows that complexity is astronomical. Could be a way to combat loneliness and fear of being alone.

Israelites and Forty Years in the Desert: The real reason the Israelites spent forty years wandering in the desert was because God forgot about them. God was distracted and lost track of time.

Blackmailing God

God Lost Powers to a Shark: I do not know if this is a real shark or a loan shark. It could very well be that powers and worlds can be bought and sold, and we may not even know that a sale or transfer has been made. I do not really know what to make of this.

Dream of Lake with Floating Barges: In this vision, there was a toxic-waste-dump-like lake that looked like a lake of oil. It might be a point of origin for life. It could be that the vessel that we are in is floating on a lake on some planet. Maybe the oil is used as an energy source, and when God says that the universe runs on solar, maybe he means it is powered by waves or some other energy source, so fossil fuels are technically solar fuels because of plants and photosynthesis.

During My Experiences, I Had Many Maladies: I experienced facial tingling, itching all over my body, hemorrhoids, vertigo, auditory harassment, visual harassment, and physical pain. It was horrible, but I grew used to it.

Dream About Shabbat Phone: In this dream, God showed me his Shabbat phone, or an arm that turns into a telephone automatically. The phone did not have to be activated to be used, so it was Shabbat compliant. If you are not familiar, that means that the phone had a Sabbath-mode feature so that it could be used on the Sabbath.

God and Judaism: God is a practicing Jew. In one vision, he showed a prayer chamber that he entered from a side according to Jewish custom, and there was a special change that couldn't be explained. God deemed this because of Judaism. I could not tell the difference. God says he was not around during the Holocaust. He was off in the universe working on his own problems, supposedly.

God and Religion: God is "religious but not religious." To understand that, say the preceding sentence and really think about it. People will be amazed to find out that God really isn't religious, and that the Bible was never supposed to be written. It is almost as if anything that places a sort of control on God, God avoids, so religion is out of the question.

God and Religions: All religions are basically the same God. God created multiple religions so as to give variety of choice, and humans developed them beyond. It also is a red herring to throw off anthropologists and historians. So basically, terrorists should stop attacking in the name of their God, because it is all the same God. This also goes with humanity bashing religion. "God is not a fan of the pope, and the pope is not a fan of God.” Basically, religion exists for those who need it to guide them. Religion is not a requirement to get to a better place. Again, believe in God, and don’t be a douchebag.

Humans Forgot About God: Because God is so complex and often throws in a bunch of curve balls that make getting anything done really tricky, humans forgot God and instead started to rely on themselves.

God Forgot About Humans: God had to work on God’s own personal mental health problems, so God really did not have time to address human problems. I think that God purposely abandoned Earth, though. There is still a point of contention that is explained next.

Humans and Emotion: God does not like humans, and I think it is because humans are emotional. God is more logical, so God has a harder time relating to an emotional mindset. The things that humans think are important, like feelings and emotions, are not emphasized to be of the same importance to God. This logic versus emotion problem has ultimately paved the way to God not really caring about human existence.

Atheists: All atheists go to Hell. Or they go to Heaven. I am not sure. A good foundation from which to advance from Earth in the afterlife is to both believe in God and not be a douchebag. Both are key.

Anatomy: God has been made fun of for putting human’s sexual organs so close to the digestive organs—like the anus. It was brought up to me as in “did I think it was bizarre too?” I think that God has received much ridicule for this design concept. I said that it made sense for how the body was laid out based upon structures and their locations, such as cephalization and having the brain in the skull, despite it being a vulnerability. Like, the brain can be easily damaged because it is so prominent, but the neural connection with sensory organs makes sense because most are so close to the brain.

Dream About the Model Ship: There was a dream about a model ship, well, that looked like a toy forklift at first, but then turned into a ship. It was mechanical and simple. The forklift then developed into a more complex model of a ship. The ship model turned even more complex with gauges and screens on the helm. That, I think, was to show that in the universe things are not fixed like they are on Earth and that things can get as complicated as you want them.

Prize: God has told me on multiple occasions that I have won something, and then God later revealed that the something was three pieces of pocket lint. I have heard this multiple times, and basically it was God just not being willing to help me out at all here on Earth. He said it in a joking manner, but really, it could be taken on a greater level, as in God is never going to help out Earth or humanity.

Music: There is music in the universe. One of the songs was “It’s Gonna Be a Hot One Tonight.” I first listened to that song when I had a dream in which I was touring God’s virtual home. The song had the title sung repeatedly in a catchy way.

Nature: While out in nature, I used E-19. God said that God was working on some radio equipment for the signal plan. The equipment was broken. This made me wonder if God uses some human technology, like soundboards, mixers, etc. God said that God wanted to visit me when I was there, but then he didn’t.

Educational System in Universe: In the universe, there are many languages and alphabets. Many of these languages are computer-code languages. At one point, Miss God Senior bragged to me about the superiority of the educational system in the universe compared to those on Earth. Miss God Senior told me at one point that one of the purposes of life is to learn. God told me that he reset my learning and language capabilities so that they were like they were when I was a child: like a sponge.

IQ: God showed me a vision of a bell curve that was divided by the different IQs of each group. God said that there is a purpose for each individual and their individual IQ. God purposely did not make everyone the same.

God Has Tremendous Capacity for Forgiveness: I think this is because God knows that he has been extremely wrong at times. But still, God does not admit that God is wrong very easily. It is always a blame game with God.

Personality of God: God has a dick-like façade in a joking-around manner. God has proudly stated that he is kind of a dick. Another word for dick is douchebag, so this makes God the original douchebag. When that façade is breeched, there is a very caring person beneath it. I think that because of God’s duties at work, it is hard for him to show that caring person because other individuals in the universe would try to overrun God. Like, being God is not an easy job. It has its perks, but it also has its downsides. Showing weakness in the universe is not good for an individual. God is very particular about things. God has experiments/machines running that only God is allowed to check. This is an example of the compulsive attention to detail. God plays with dolls. Also, since God is in pain, he expects everyone else to be in pain too.

Blackmailing God

God's Persona: God has to play different personas depending on the situation or place. This is kind of like "God wears many hats." It is easy to say that God is nice in Heaven and that God is mean in Hell. This chasm of having to be a different God depending on the situation causes God to have problems with identity and emotional problems ensue. This chasm is dystonic with God's own self and causes much pain and strife for God. For example, mean behavior in Hell can wear on God's conscience as he is carrying out stuff in Heaven. God is technically not evil nor is God nice. This is like binary code with the extremes being nice and mean. God is neutral. God's behaviors, however, are very mean. Throughout history, God has never leant an open hand to humanity, so I would have to say that God is indeed a cruel individual because God could help but refuses to do so. I think that God is so mean because God feels that he hasn't been treated very well, and God carries a lot of anger and resentment.

God's Suicidal Tendencies: Apparently, I saved God from killing Godself around February 27, 2020. God repeatedly has told me that I saved God from committing suicide for real. God frequently threatens to commit suicide. God also tends to "blow Godself up" every once in a while in a dramatic display. This suicidality is a characteristic in God that is one of borderline personality disorder in humans.

God's Insanity: Apparently, God's insanity has been so great and such a problem in the past that he has had to tone it down a bit and lock it up. In a vision, there was a cube that had chains around it holding it shut. The cube was moving around like there was something bouncing around inside. I was told that the cube was full of God's insanity.

God Has a Delay in Punishment: God has a mental black book where God writes when and how people wronged God so that there is no temporal association between doing something wrong and being punished. This might be so that God's wrath does not come into effect, or it could be because God enjoys punishing.

Fat-Shaming: God told me that I am fat and need to lose like twenty pounds. I am five feet, eight inches tall, and at the peak of coronavirus, I topped 170 pounds. God said that I "needed to lose a little weight." I really was taken aback by this because of all the problems in life, my coronavirus blubber was not a main concern. But then again, it goes mind, body, spirit. This kind of also goes along with how God would tell everyone that I was an alcoholic and messed my career up due to booze. This was not nice. Gods have a fascination with weight because they do not weigh anything. I was constantly being asked how much I weighed.

Blackmailing God

Jealousy: God tried to make me jealous by showing me a vision of him having an insect-like creature strapped to his chest and showing the insect around a shop. The insect was a different person than me. He was trying to get me to be jealous that he wasn't spending time with me. Apparently, there were other humans that God contacted, and to the best of my knowledge, one was from Asia, and they killed themselves. This emphasizes the importance of going to therapy during this process and getting help from other people. God said that the last time he contacted a human like this was in the 1970s.

Misunderstanding About Love and Friendship: God states that he loves me but then constantly harasses and hurts me emotionally. God says that he is a friend but then acts in a manner that a friend would not act. I think that God does not understand friendship. There very well might be a superior/inferior situation that is the norm in the universe. So, friendship in the universe may very well not fit into the definition of friendship for humanity.

Dream About Digital Watch: In a dream, I found a digital watch that was like an iPhone combined with a wristwatch. It was pretty cool. God stated that it was a prototype, and then I sold it back to God for $150. The device had a bunch of interesting functions. God was driving an old car that was full of junk and garbage in this dream. I think God came on to me in the dream in a sexual way.

Dream About the Rooftop with Beer Kiosks: In this dream, God sent me through a rooftop that had these kiosks that you could get beer from. I got a beer and went downstairs. Then God told me that I had a drinking problem.

Vision of Heaven: In this dream, I was on a beautiful boat on a pristine canal lined with white marble. The sunset in the sky was absolutely beautiful. The boat was being pulled by mermaids. There were five what I assumed to be angels on the boat. They looked particularly bored.

Park Bench: In this vision, God went to sit down on a park bench. It toppled over as God sat on it. God then asked, "Did you know about it?" It was a test to see if one was lying. God really is paranoid that people are lying to him, but the usual à la mode in the universe is to lie. God included tests like this in the earlier universe to, in my humble opinion, find out who was with or against God.

Whose Side Are You On: God constantly asked to me, "Whose side are you on?" I think that this is evidence that other beings in the universe are sick of God's shit. I would deliberate back and forth, stating that I was on God's side or was against God. One thing that is true: I was always on the side that benefited humanity (which is why you are reading this book right now).

Brain: God told me that after I am dead, God wants my brain before I am cremated. He said he just wanted the brain, not the body, because human bodies are “worth like two cents.” Apparently, I am not smart but instead have increased my brain capacity through thinking hard and neural plasticity. Apparently, I am running my brain at a faster, harder rate than I should be, and it is going to lead to me having a burn out. I was asked by a deity in the universe what it would be like to perform brain surgery on myself. I did not have an answer. God told me that I am “not smart but just try really hard.”

Protection Policy: God said that God put a protection policy on me. I do not know when this policy was placed on me, but apparently it covers for bodily damage and harm. Also, why would God put a protection policy on me and then treat me like crap and abandon me at fourteen years old? Well, at eighteen years old my buddy drunkenly elbowed me really hard in the chest, and apparently/somehow the protection policy prevented further damage. My buddy's elbow hurt like he hit it against a concrete wall.

God Is Affiliated with Coinbase: God invented digital currency. God used God's computer power to mine the currency at a faster rate than anyone else. God's computer superiority led to God amassing a fortune in digital currency, which was part of God's plan. God covets Bitcoin like no other. It is close to impossible to get God to give up Bitcoin. God has a bunch of Bitcoin. God had something to do with the development of Bitcoin, other digital currencies, and with Coinbase. This is interesting because God is digital in origin, and this currency is digital. God makes $25 million a month at least but always pretends to be broke all the time. At one point, God said that he spends all the money and that God “runs it into the ground.” God has money, bitcoin, diamonds, and precious gems.

Sharing: I was told by God that everything in Heaven is “shared all the time,” and that one should “wash their hands.” Everything is communal. This is in contrast to how Earth seems to function where there is private property. I think that the emphasis on washing my hands was because I do not have the best bathroom washing-hands policy. But basically, Heaven is more about sharing than about having private property.

Point System: Everything in Heaven runs on an annoying point system that God came up with. I was once “policed” because I pulled off an action that could have been misconstrued as being selfish or hostile to the other person. They threatened to take away points, to which I then promptly said, “I do not give a crap about your point system.” There was this annoying message that was like “plus points for you” if you did something good. “Plus points for teamwork.” Like, everyone is judged on points, which I think are basically like money. Basically, you are given 150,000 points when you get to the universe, and you can do with them what you want. You can acquire more points by doing good things, and you can be docked points for doing bad things. For example, if you act in a jealous way, you can be docked points, but if you help someone with a problem, you can earn points. Like, it really pisses me off that Heaven has problems like the bullshit that we deal with on Earth. This point system is where you get into the point that one cannot take assets or money into the afterlife. I know that there is a currency exchange, so I am guessing that there is a possibility that money can be exchanged between the universe’s point system and legal Earth currency. Like, I know that God does tourism to Earth, the stated “Vegas of the Universe,” so I am guessing that points can be exchanged for Earth currency.

Deals: Original deal was $125 million. Now $50 million after taxes. God said that if I didn’t take another shower, I would not be able to go hiking for the rest of my life. Absurd additions to deals like that. No smoking, no drinking. No responsibility of God to actually keep a promise. God’s promise being golden is not true. Basically, God has such an individualistic viewpoint that it is nearly impossible to make a deal with God because of broken promises.

Negotiations About Money: Dollars per month, dollars per year, etc. All over the place and disorganized. God purposely made negotiations difficult to manage by switching things up or adding stipulations. Then, God would never recite the deal back verbatim to confirm the deal before changing the deal again. It was very difficult to deal with, but it is God trying to shirk off responsibility. During this process, I have been damaged, and God still does not take ownership for the consequences of God’s actions.

God’s Wound: God’s sign, in addition to the mountain, is the all-seeing eye. This is the all-seeing eye that is on American currency—just to the left of “In God We Trust.” It is the same God. After God started having problems with guilt and shame, he flipped the eye 90 degrees (polarized it), so it looked like a wound that was nonhealing. God used to talk about his wound all the time, but then as God healed, God stopped talking about it as much. When God started feeling better, God then had more reserve to be meaner to others. Such as when a sick person is ill, they are less likely to be mean to others. As God felt better, God started to use more destructive, aggressive behaviors. So, it was better when God was sicker because he doesn’t understand how to be nice very much when he is feeling good.

Blackmailing God

Lying to/Deceiving God: It is possible to lie to gods. Sometimes they do not detect the lie in your thoughts, or you can change what you are thinking about really quickly to throw them off.

Talking through Mind: I have been communicating with God through my mind—talking in my mind, not out loud. God did not know this and thought I was talking to myself in public. This shows that God does not have all the details to every situation. For the longest time, God thought that I should have been institutionalized in an insane asylum because God thought that I was talking out loud in public.

Willing into the Universe: By thinking of something, say a disease, one can “will it into the universe.” That being said, a thought is pretty powerful and alters the simulation around you. So, a better thing to think of would be happiness or money.

Thought versus Actions: God tends to judge people based on their thoughts while humans judge each other based on their actions. This is difficult because God is the harsher critic here, and to humans, just because one has a bad thought, it does not mean that the person is a bad person. I have a feeling that this policy has landed a lot of people in Hell.

Church of Satan: The Church of Satan has principles that are very close to those of the “don’t be a douchebag” principle. This makes me wonder if I am really in contact with Satan, or if God and Satan are one in the same.

Telling Me My Girlfriend Is Going to Break Up with Me Multiple Times: God has told me multiple times that my girlfriend is thinking about breaking up with me. God also stated that my girlfriend’s parents do not like me. God wants me to break up with my girlfriend, but I think that is because God wants me isolated from my support system.

Supposed to Have Had a Baby Girl Three Months Ago as of August 5, 2020: God told me that my girlfriend was supposed to have had a baby girl three months ago as of August. Apparently, in God’s grand scheme, she was supposed to get pregnant. God really likes babies but doesn’t take care of humans.

Swearing Ceremony: God made me go through this swearing ceremony where God made me hold my right hand up and swear that I would never smoke again and never use Elysium-19 again. After the ceremony, God reneged on his promise to pay me money, which was agreed at $6 million per year for the rest of my life.

Blackmailing God

Some Things That God Does Not Like: Skipping gym, playing piano after 6:00 p.m., whistling, using an electric toothbrush, me drinking, fast motorcycling, me smoking, guns, peeing in the shower, and farting/burping.

The greatest disappointment is not that God was not found to be dead, but that God is indeed alive and present on Earth, very aware of, and coordinating all of the suffering.

God and STDs: God told me that he was sick of living and wanted a new body. God said that he gave himself herpes. God has multiple STDs and has asked multiple times for penicillin. God used to go out and troll for tail and have sexual partners come back to a hotel room with God. Both God Senior and Miss God Senior exhibited this sexual behavior. They both always used a hotel room so that they would not be traced, and they could disappear.

Deal August 8, 2020: $250 million and my family and I go to Heaven. Promised good health and long life. God threatened to sue me for libel. I replied back to God, “I will sue you for damages.”

God says that God “is acting crazy because you are crazy.” God used the excuse that God’s behaviors are crazy because God says that I am crazy. I told God that God needs to start acting normal and stop “acting crazy” as if he was acting a role.

God and Film: God is a huge film buff and watches a ton of movies. God is very against pirating film and media because God got upset with me when I wanted to pirate the film Contact and watch it. God was very upset because pirating hurts the acting industry and thus hurts SAG members who are his friends, supposedly. I kind of based the signal plan on the movie Contact. So, if you want to upset God, pirate a movie.

God and Greed: “The dragon already has enough gold.” Getting money out of God is like getting water from a rock. God is super greedy and selfish. God is super rich but still doesn’t know what to do with money. Multiple negotiations failed, and finally I understood that it would be better to write this book. God spends all of his money on Bitcoin, which he refuses to give up or share. Bitcoin is like the dragon’s gold. The dragon never will give up gold, so thus this book is being written.

God and Pastime: God is mostly bored all the time except when drinking large amounts of alcohol.

Blackmailing God

God of Alcohol: Back when I was drinking, I suggested to God that there should be a patron god of alcohol—not wine, not beer, but alcohol in its purest form. God took some time, but later showed me that he had devoted a god to alcohol. At that time, I was already sober, so I didn't really care.

Many times, God would tell me, “Why don't you go to a mental institution right now?” I experienced constant berating like this all day long most days.

Scared of Going to Hell: When I first agreed to the plan of trying to rehabilitate God, I added that my family and I would go to Heaven regardless of the outcome. That deal stays true to this day.

On August 8, 2020, God got upset that I was printing this document out. I sent this document to multiple email addresses as well. A printed copy and multiple digital copies were saved after working on this document. Basically, I am concerned that God is going to try to prevent this book from being published.

Coronavirus: God created coronavirus and unleashed it on humanity. God knew about it the entire time.

“Return” to Earth: God is planning on coming back to Earth roughly one year from August 2020. That is what I was told. I do not know if God is going to stick to that plan because God tends to say one thing and then never do it. So, if you are looking for someone to blame about coronavirus, then blame God.

Parasite and Virus: God parasitizes off of humanity. Because God is a computer and is coded, God is kind of like a computer virus that attacks humanity because God has been known to “stir the pot” and cause problems for humanity.

Time: There are multiple types of time. There is even reverse time. Different worlds have different time rates, and this is how things like geologic time can be better explained. Like, it is all a computer simulation, and there are different computer-time clock rates in each world. So, to take a long vacation only means that you have to be gone from Earth for a short time relative to Earth. This also explains how gods can serve out prison times in a short relative time period. The clocks just go faster in prison, but every moment is just as long. A lot of gods go to prison in the universe. Because of the variations in time, a prison sentence can be served fairly quickly even though it seems like a long time to the prisoner. Gods can also “sleep” for long periods of time, which, in essence, is like forward time travel. During my trips to the universe, time was altered. What seemed like twenty minutes was, in reality, only twenty seconds. The ratio of time is roughly one year on Earth to one half month in Heaven.

Blackmailing God

Work: As a general rule of thumb, gods do not like to work. They like to feed off of humanity and do as little as they possibly can.

God's Appearance: God changes identities all the time. It is nearly impossible to track God down. God generally does not portray Godself as an old white man like in traditional American culture but more so as a mid-thirties-to-forties male. I feel that this is so that no one can identify God, whether in the universe or on Earth. I think that God secretly lives in fear all of the time that individuals that God has pissed off might come for God for revenge.

Human Suit: This is the human suit that a god can wear if they are not using the "body share" system. I am pretty sure that the anatomy is not correct, so if they get into an accident they would likely just disappear. Like, a doctor would be able to tell that it was not a real human by the internal anatomy. Even though gods are very small in size, the suits are constricting, so it makes a god claustrophobic. Gods are normally meant to expand outwards relatively easily with varying energy levels and emotions, so the human suit thus constricts this outward expansion.

Weight: There is always talk about "how much do you weigh?" I think this is because gods weigh hardly anything, and humans weigh a lot. I was asked multiple times how much I weigh, like it was a point of fascination. There is body sharing in the universe as well. Gods do not eat very much or nothing at all. Gods enjoy the taste of food, but they try to stay skinny at all costs. There is a way that gods can vicariously enjoy eating when a person eats. This is by tapping into the senses of taste and the sensation of the palate and kind of riding along with the experience. Like, they can vicariously enjoy the food without taking on weight-gaining calories.

Angel's Share: Gods take a small portion of food and drink from every meal. Like, it is basically parasitizing off the hard works of humans. It is not that much of a share, though, because the "caloric" needs of a god are actually very minimal.

Ghosts and Spirits: They do not exist outside of the computer programming. So, basically gods are responsible for hauntings and paranormal behaviors. I once had a conversation with God where I mentioned a ghost story, and God got quite scared by it. I think that it must be unsettling to think that there could be things outside of God's design, such as ghosts and spirits being real outside of the programming of the universe. Spooky.

God Goals: Gods primarily want to increase their number of followers, increase their energy, and if possible, have worlds that they can govern over.

Christmas Decorations: God decorated the universe for Christmas. There even were those reindeer antlers on the car mirrors in the vision, and they were held down by a strap. The strap holding the mirror on the antenna was pointed out to me by God because it showed attention to detail on how the decoration actually worked. However, God made a mistake because cars do not have two antennas (one on each side). This makes me think that God really has a disconnect with normal life. Again, this is all digital like a cartoon.

Snake in Kitchen: During this vision, there was a very large snake with its head roughly three feet wide and two feet tall that sprung at me. The snake bit me and swallowed me. It was about the time that God started to show anger toward me and instead of being nice started to be constantly negative and mean to me.

Detention: My soul was put in “detention” on August 12, 2020.

Blackmail for $50 Million and Going to Heaven: No drinking clause excluded. Would stop smoking. God always tries to put something else into the deal, like I had to not drink for life or had to quit smoking for thirty days. Obviously, if this book is published, that deal fell through, and I ended up publishing this book. In the end, God read this book and actually wants it published, and God is going to pay me money to do so. This book is covered under first amendment rights (freedom of speech and religion), but I am still publishing this under a pen name due to the sensitive information that is discussed.

I was told that I can write this book, just had to clean it up a bit. At that point, the encounters with God were more like I was being possessed by a demonic power. Like in the movies.

Dream from Universe: I had a dream from the universe that told me that the universe “did not work that way.” I think it was hinting that God was not going to pay out for the blackmail, and that the universe doesn’t give people money. Well, I am still trying.

August 18, 2020: My soul was put in Heaven. I think it was put in an insane asylum in Heaven. God has been saying that I have been having these “episodes,” and they are getting worse. I keep insisting that I need to be out of the Navy to decrease stress, and then the episodes should resolve. I think that my soul may be in Hellven instead of Heaven, though, because God has been mentioning to me that I am going to Hellven. I am really on the shit list, but dutifully so—I am fighting for a strong cause.

Episodes: I assume that the “episodes” occur at night when I am sleeping. I think God adjusts the psychological self-control of humans to assess what they are doing, what their motivations are, if they are lying, etc. I have had some dreams in which it seems like my decision-making capacity has been altered.

August 19, 2020: God was not talking to me as much to help fix the problem that I have with hearing voices based off ambient noises. I thought that God was going to pay me to not publish this book/be generous.

August 22, 2020: God told me that I have tonsil cancer. Then told me that I do not have tonsil cancer. I am beginning to lose faith in God’s medical advice. I think that this is why humans slowly, over time, gave up on God and took matters into their own hands. I really did expect a payment after all of the bullshit that I have had to go through to help God. I found out that my soul is in Heaven, and that my soul is on suicide watch because of multiple past suicide attempts. God insists that he is “not going to pay me” but instead “give me a gift from the bottom of God’s heart.”

August 23, 2020: God reneged on all deals. Basically, I am writing this book. God has forsaken me, Earth, and humanity, again. God started this mess and cannot even fix it. This is like the world’s worst situation.

I have been told that I have ten days to live as of November 1, 2020.

Land Speeder: During this dream, God was showing me around a world to basically flaunt how supposedly cool the universe is. God is never going to let me experience the universe in this lifetime. In this dream, there were a bunch of cool vehicles, like land speeders, that one could ride. It was one of the last dreams that I had from God. I think it was to make me jealous or to make me wish that I wasn’t stuck on Earth. I am very aware from my experiences that the universe is not perfect, and just like Earth, it has its problems. I am glad to be where I am.

Acid Trip: As a sick form of tormenting, God once made my vision when my eyes closed look like that of a person on an acid trip. When I closed my eyes, I saw a bunch of swirling, geometric shapes and colors. I did not think it was funny because I was in a stressful situation at the time, so I did not want to spend hours looking at the “acid trip.” Normally, I believe, one cannot make out the individual digital subunits that make up an acid trip. I think that they are fuzzed out during a typical acid trip.

Mark Zuckerberg: God slipped up and mentioned Mark Zuckerberg. It is possible that Mark Zuckerberg is affiliated with God. This would explain Zuckerberg’s meteoric rise to fame and his very weird peculiarities.

Seth Rogan: God also said that Seth Rogan was affiliated with God. God showed an image of Seth Rogan’s face in the universe. I think that God was trying to portray that God and Seth Rogan are friends. It is possible that Seth Rogan is just a character played by God.

There have been multiple times that God has threatened that when I go to sleep, I will not wake up. God told me that God’s goal is to get me to commit suicide. This was distressing at first. I do not understand God and why God would think it is appropriate to say that to me or to try to get me to hurt myself. It is like there isn’t a friendship or professional decorum to any of our exchanges. Lately, God and Miss God Senior (henceforth referred to as “Miss God”) have been messing with my face constantly to try to drive me crazy. I am learning to ignore it.

Around February of 2021, I recontacted the universe, and God was available. I tried to see if God would help me win the Mega Millions Jackpot but was not successful. God told me that I am on God’s “Wall of Fame,” which is an honor, but the wall is really tall so there are a bunch of individuals on it. God has since been elected the “God of the Gods,” as in their leader. I was told that there is a signal system that has gods holding signs to signal the observer (me). God said that the life of a signal turner is a good position, and (even though the system was fragile and not very efficient) God said that it works. The system works because the ruling class keeps its mouth shut and does not share the wealth with the signal turners. The social structure is complex, such as in each signal turner has a family at home. If God changes the system, he would have to put gods out of jobs. God mentioned that, at one time, he had to downsize the number of signal turners, which lowered the resolution of the images portrayed to me.

God explained emotions to me and stated that each human emotion is represented by a god that is living in the universe. I think that God said that melancholy lives on Earth. God assured me that the conditions of Earth were being very closely monitored. God said that some of the emotion gods are dystonic with the worlds that they live in, such as in the role (emotion) they portray is at odds with the world that they live in. Some of the gods that portray emotions get specialty hazard pay because the worlds that they live in are hostile or dangerous. God was trying to explain the extremely complicated, delicate system that God created. God mentioned a time in the past when God downsized emotions and had to put a god out of work because that emotion was being deleted. I discovered that all of the gods meet in the morning each day, and that it is best to do business early in the morning. It is through this system that God gets feedback on how individual worlds are doing, but there is a substance abuse problem in the universe, and a lot of the gods have drinking and drug problems. A lot of gods show up under the influence of drugs and alcohol at morning muster.

God stated that Earth is not broken because the number of souls going in equals the number that God is getting out. Also, the suffering level was told to me to be not that out of the ordinary. I discovered that God uses a lot of animatronics in the “picture show” that God plays while conversing with God. God said it is easier to play a film and talk rather than just show a blank wall or a picture. God made animatronics so that God does not have to really show up and be present for when individuals come to the universe. God tends to do this—automate technology. This is very weird because God likes conversation but designs technology that removes God from the process. I picked up on a lot of the animatronics, and God finally showed up because he was examining the sets and stage that the picture show was shot on.

Picture Show: These are the images that God uses to portray God’s messages. God is a photographer in his time off. A god operates the film projector while another god talks. The gods switch in and out. God said that it takes many gods to parent a human and exemplified this point by showing me the birth of a god, which afterward was promptly beaten into submission by gods standing by. It was a pretty gross sight to see. For some reason, God told the gods to not help me from birth. I was told that each human has a right and left god assigned to them at birth. I have the right and left gods, but they were told not to help me as I went through life.

Data: God stated that one of the purposes of God is to store and analyze data, whether it be picture, audio, or video. God pores over this data to make decisions based upon it. God insists that he is meticulous about the accuracy of his decisions.

Fine Specimen: God told me that he thought that I was a fine specimen of a human. This is interesting because God just seems to treat me like crap. Very weird. A compliment from God as God inflicts pain and suffering.

Blackmailing God

God stated that he abhors the capitalist society because God said that it just gives money to the rich and the poor suffer. However, in a different meeting God was showing off Earth's thriving capitalist society to another god. I requested to be done with testing, but God then insisted that everyone is part of the testing process, some more so than others. I was picked for testing, and God's plan was to test me to meltdown. I requested that the testing be stopped and that God pay me for the mental health services that I provided God in the past. Apparently, God has this system where he plants individuals for testing and then sees how they do as their lives progress. I was chosen for testing, which is why the gods never gave me help and guidance when I so desperately needed it.

Save Earth Campaign: I started the "Save Earth" campaign as a way to keep myself oriented. God was able to understand verbal speech and images. I was trying to plug Earth being saved as much as possible, whenever possible, so I think I probably requested that Earth be saved at least a thousand times. I think that God would rather build a whole new world than rehabilitate an old world. I found out that God (as in the group of gods) feels awful about Earth and the condition that it is in. I was told that celebrities in the past have tried many times to fix Earth with little success. This is why I am now pushing for the signal plan to be reinvestigated. I think that God has lost control of Earth.

God mentioned that he has had uprisings in the past when creations discovered that they were being mistreated. There have also been a bunch of bugs in the system, like a mite infestation that apparently was brought to the universe by me. These mites are being actively sucked up and decontaminated. I think that these mites are a form of karma because God has let Earth go downhill. God tried to portray it that whenever he gets time to work on Earth, something else in the universe breaks. However, this is not true because God has been developing other worlds and other technologies. God said that he invents the technologies, and then someone else always uses them to make money off of.

Archery: I recently took up archery by purchasing a compound bow. God showed much interest in it and stated that one of his gods owns an archery company here in the United States. God asked them if they thought that intervention needed to be made on Earth, and they stated that it did not at the time. The reasoning was kind of like "if it isn't broke, don't fix it." God doesn't think that the system here on Earth is broken enough yet for intervention. God showed me a persona of God that was him as a sportsman shooting a bow. God started using this persona for much of the meetings. God threatened to hunt me with a bow but then later said that God would not hunt me with a bow and arrow. God used a bunch of archery-themed images to portray his messages. God told me that T.R.U. Ball Archery is a company that is owned by God, specifically God's son. So, if one would like to boycott a God-affiliated business, this establishment might be a target of a boycott.

Sterling Heights: God told me that he had created a perfect woman for me, but that she lives in Sterling Heights, Michigan, which is near where I moved to California from.

CSF Drainage: To try and scare me, God threatened to remove cerebrospinal fluid from my body in an amount that would cause me harm and kill me. God made my left ear feel wet as if fluid was dripping out of my ear. This is an example of God acting more sociopathic and crueler than usual.

Sociopath: I am firmly convinced that both God, Miss God, and likely their offspring are all sociopaths. There are no ethics in the universe, and God is not moral.

Pedophilia: I keep reminding God that he is a pedophile and child rapist. I never want God to forget what he truly is.

Incest: I found out that incest was the norm in the universe. I was told that Ben Stiller and Gwyneth Paltrow were actually brother and sister. God told me that he wanted them to become partners, but it did not work out.

In the meantime, God has inflicted severe liver pain on me as torture. Also, God has been doing this thing where I feel vibrations and vertigo like I am lying down on the deck of a motorboat. God stated that my brain is really floating in a life support tank like in The Simpsons, and that he does not like it because I move around, and apparently, my brain/body moves around, and it scares God. God has also been inflicting me with headaches. I know that God will regret doing this, so the payback is in guilt and shame that God must deal with. I have told God that I once was God's friend but now am no longer. I could actually now be God's enemy, for I do not like God. In a way, God has turned a friend into an enemy. I am morally opposed to God. God threatened to make me schizophrenic. He said that when you are schizophrenic, you see cartoons when you close your eyes. God made it so that I saw cartoons briefly. It was slightly disturbing, but really? Cartoons?

God told me that I would live until the age of seventy-eight. God told me that he does not answer prayers, and that he has an automated system that communicates with humans when they come to the universe. This shows a profound lack of responsibility by God. There is no rule of law in the universe. God does not even follow the “do not be a douchebag” rule. God told me that he does not think that PTSD is real, and that it is made up.

Communication has been very poor. God has started to make threats against me and my life. Again. In one conversation, God ran out of words. God has threatened me again with liver, pancreatic, and lung cancer. I found out that SAG has distanced themselves from God, so God has, in a way, been abandoned by SAG. I think that this is because SAG is morally opposed to God and God’s behaviors and poor leadership.

I found out that there is a democratic system of government in the universe. Miss God complained that she basically was a politician now. This is probably the only good thing that I have heard in the communications lately. God showed me a glimpse of Heaven, which was digital. It was of an entrance to a great hall. God did it to try to get me jealous of Heaven, and he wanted me to want to not be on Earth but instead in Heaven. I’ll tell you the truth, I am not jealous. I know that Heaven has its problems, and I would rather be where I am right now.

God told me that I created myself and that I was a God in a former life. I was told that I am an ancient god who is really old. God told me that the plan was for me to go to Hellven after Earth. I was told that I could not hang out with my former friends that were gods. Those gods were apparently bad influences on me. I am asking that after this life, because I created myself, that I be able to leave God’s universe to start my own. I feel that God’s universe is plagued by problems, and I really am morally opposed to how God has been running Earth. Supposedly, I was a murderer in my former life, which I have no recollection of. I have paid for those sins by going through Earth. I am exonerated of any past offenses because I have done the time.

God has recently started to pretend to be weak. Also, God has been still watching everything closely without intervening in any affairs. I keep on using North Korea as an example of how God is failing humanity. The fact that God is okay with the totalitarian dictator and the state of suffering there shows that God is cruel because God could intervene but chooses not to. That is the definition of cruelty.

On the other hand, God has recently proclaimed to be like a wild man—a nature person—stating that God is going to go live in the woods for a month. This is living in the woods but not surviving alone. God is taking food and shelter with him, so really is just camping for a month. I do not know if this is true or if it was God trying to not talk to me for a month. Anyway, it is a failure of leadership because there are problems at hand that require attention. So, God's trip into the wilderness is, again, a sign of bad leadership.

God infected me with demons, which feel like worms on my face that sting me. The demons have distinct voices. God refuses to remove the demons. This is not very nice and is one of the worst signs that God is a sociopath and is probably the worst thing that God has done to me, including the thousands of death threats.

There is a possibility that God's creator has been interacting with me. I have heard a distinct third voice that is not that of God or Miss God. I told God about it, and God mocked the possibility that he could have a creator. God thinks that he created himself, but God has no actual real proof of this ever happening. For example, God cannot explain the origin of matter in the universe (the universe that God was born into). There is also the possibility that God just copied other gods' designs for organisms and worlds. God once let his code become open source (for example, Scorpio creating scorpions), so if God's creator exists, it is pretty certain that God's creator has infiltrated God's system and has been watching God.

God admitted that when God is lonely, God thinks of Earth and feels sad for the situation. But again, God does nothing about the situation on Earth. God is reluctant to reconnect with humanity through establishing communication. God said that God doesn't see a problem with Earth because the number of souls in equals the number of souls out and that the suffering level is not above an abnormal level. This makes me think that there is even more suffering in God's other worlds. The fact that God's metric is suffering shows that God is a sociopath.

God admitted that he no longer has a space station because there was a falling out between him and the gods that inhabited the space station. God insists that he and Miss God are solely Earth-based now. I think that this has caused some problem for God because God is unable to send the radio signal for the signal plan. God cannot send the radio signal and make it appear that it is of extraterrestrial origin. This shows a lack of God's power and capabilities.

At the end, God stated that God is actually Satan, and that Satan is actually God. There was a voice that was distinct, and the character that was portrayed was that of Satan. Both God and Satan claim that they are broke and in financial hardship. It was discovered that Satan might have created God, and God and Miss God refuse to own up for the actions and consequences of God's prior generations. God is trying to, in God's mind, escape the guilt and shame of those actions and the consequences. Still, God is responsible. Miss God is also responsible. I was told by both God and Miss God that they share the role of Satan, so each of them is responsible for the suffering that is inflicted on Earth. There is a good chance that Satan does not exist, and that God and Miss God actually play the character "Satan."

As relations deteriorated, God and Miss God actually invited me on their yacht, to which I declined the invitation. I think that this might have been a plan by them to kill me and then throw my body in the ocean. I do believe that God does own a yacht which is likely moored in California.

God insists that Earth is not a problem and does not need intervention at this time. The old system was that if a human used drugs and contacted the universe, God ultimately gave that person money. I am asking that God do the same for me. As we can see, that problem in the system has resulted in a bunch of really shitty rich people here on Earth. I think that the system is broken and in need of intervention by God. I was told that God has made some big changes in God's personality (like being nicer, more charitable, easier to work with), but I will have to see if these changes stick.

God is a little better at anger management now but still has many of the traits of a sociopath and exhibits antisocial behaviors. I told God numerous times that unless God goes to continued therapy, God will likely fall back into depression. As for me, I am now left with a jeopardized career. The moral of this story is to never help God. God is unwilling to pay me for the loss of my career in addition to the services that I provided and in addition to a severance package because God cursed me from an early age on. I cannot express how truly deadening it is to come to terms with the reality of what God really is. I really wish that this would have turned out a different way, such that God could have just helped me out financially so that I could live a good life as I always intended to. However, God has other plans. Just not including anyone else but Godself.

Miss God has turned out to be a real problem, always causing issues and messing with me on a daily basis, such as messing with my face (tingling feelings primarily on the right side of my face). I feel that the two sociopaths (God and Miss God) really feed into each other and create a very toxic situation.

Life Insurance: I was told that Satan runs a bunch of life insurance companies.

Man of God: I told God that I am no longer a man of God and that I might, in fact, side with Satan, if Satan exists, because God is so horrible. I keep reminding God that he is an abomination to life.

Blackmailing God

Prayers: God admitted to me that he doesn't answer any prayers from anyone. The whole idea of God demanding that humans pray to him is egotistical, and it serves no use to humans from God's side.

Douchebag: I do not think that God really understands what a douchebag is, so I read like fifty definitions of "douchebag" on Urban Dictionary, and they all seemed to remind me of God.

Notes: My notes at one point were stolen off of my desk. I searched all over for them and I could not find them. God claimed that he took them. Since then, I make backup copies of my notes.

New Moon: God had a manic episode on a new moon. Usually, God's manic episodes are on full moons. This might be a sign that God's bipolar disorder is getting out of control.

Demons: I was told by God that he "reinstalled" my demons in me. I do not know what that means, but maybe they were removed at some point. Again, this could also be a lie.

Lies: How do I know that God is lying? Answer: because he is talking.

War: God stated that war will break out on June 22, 2021. I don't know if this will happen because God also told me that an earthquake was going to strike on March 20-21, 2021, and it never did.

Mexico: God said that he was going to start therapy in Mexico. I do not think that God ever did go to see a therapist. I told him that was what he needed, but I doubt that he will follow through with it. With any hope, God will slip back into a depression or kill himself because his behaviors have become asinine.

Favorite Human: God told me that I was his favorite human. This is really disgusting because God treats me like shit.

Hitler: God admitted that he was Hitler. He said that he was just playing a character when he exterminated eight million Jews. The Jews are God's chosen people, and he tortured and exterminated them. God also is a practicing Jew.

Throw Under the Bus: God will ultimately throw anyone under the bus to get ahead or survive. It does not matter if the individual is a friend or family. God will throw anyone underneath the bus. It is basically a flaw in God's code. God doesn't tend to think about the consequences of his actions as he does them but then later on has a little regret when it all comes back to him.

Blackmailing God

Dirty Work: God orders others to do his dirty work. God told me that he does not think that he is responsible for the action if he orders it. For example, God stated that it's the hitman who is responsible for the murder even if God orders the hitman to carry out the murder. This logic is extremely wrong, and God has been functioning by this logic for forever. In a way, it just allows God to avoid guilt and shame for the horrors that he causes. I used an example of a mafia boss being convicted of murder for ordering the murder. God did not agree and still insists that it is the hitman who is solely responsible.

Never Sacrifice Yourself: Never sacrifice yourself for God because God would never sacrifice himself for anyone. I really think that people need to understand that they should never ever do anything for God because God would never do anything for them.

Sorry: God never really truly means it when God says that he is sorry. God says sorry just for show. God thinks that you can commit a heinous act and then immediately afterward say that you are sorry, and it is all good somehow. I believe that this is a sign of God's sociopathy. It is like a partial adoption of a social norm but in a way just weaponizes the word.

Asshole: God acts like an asshole to humanity. God does not have substantial experience with humanity and that has prevented God from learning to not be an asshole. In a way, God relegating humans to second class citizens has made him unable to function in society. In a way, God has fucked himself really hard because Earth is going to get worse in the next fifty years, and humanity will see right through God's bullshit. Remember, there was no concept of "asshole" when God developed, and now his egotistical mindset prevents him from bettering his personality.

Dark Side: God says that most individuals in the universe have left him for what God calls the "Dark Side." I believe that the Dark Side is actually the "Light Side." I think that most competent individuals with an understanding of treating others fairly have left God in protest of God's actions and track record. This is also another example of God referring to Star Wars and George Lucas.

Atrocities: God has committed atrocities in other worlds. God mentioned a massacre that happened that was of significance. I do believe that God has committed acts of cruelty equal to or worse than those that God committed on Earth in other worlds.

Carotids: God threatened to ligate and tie off my carotid arteries. God inflicted pain on my neck overlying my carotid arteries and stated that he was tying purse strings around my arteries. God then threatened to cause pain to my neck, stating that he was tightening the purse strings.

Bully: God and Miss God are basically exhibiting the same basic traits of a bully. Basically, they are tormenting those that they believe are weaker than them or vulnerable.

Nepotism: I mentioned to God that he should step down before he is forced down. There was mention of nepotism in that God would choose one of his own family to take over the universe or Earth.

Not Designed with Love: Earth was not designed with love. It is an older, outdated design. There is not much evidence of love and good in nature. Everything is predatory or consumption-based. I believe that God designed the Earth when God was in a more undeveloped, immature state. I think that because God did not really understand love at the time that God created Earth. Love is not reflected very much in Earth.

Satan: Satan is possibly God's creator. There is a possibility that Satan is older than God. Also, I was told that Satan is one thousand years younger than God. I believe that Satan is younger than God. God calls Satan his arch nemesis. There is a possibility that God was created by a creator because God does not remember his birth and was possibly created inside of a simulation just like we were. That would mean humans exist in a simulation within a simulation. God's creator may have been inadvertently referred to as "Satan" by God. God mentioned a certain being that was always causing problems for God. This is very similar to how God always causes problems for humans, like God sending coronavirus. God also plays the character "Satan," and Miss God also plays the character "Satan." "Satan" is, possibly, like God's alter ego. God has been psychologically messed up from playing Satan. God calls Satan a "necessary evil," which is bullshit because evil is not necessary. Miss God is also getting psychologically messed up from playing "Satan," but she is not as messed up as God yet from playing the role. God and Miss God go back in forth (almost like a fun game) playing "Satan" and hurting humanity and humans.

Stillborn: God threatened to kill my first child and make it a stillborn. This is how disgusting these sub-animals are.

Light Side versus Dark Side: Earth is on the "Dark Side." It belongs to Satan. We do not know what the "Light Side" is because we have all been damned here to be punished. Unfortunately, we have a loser

Blackmailing God

Satan that runs the place and won't go to therapy. Satan is the most stupid, emotionally unintelligent, pedophilic piece of shit in the universe. God is an even worse piece of shit because he allows for Satan to hurt humanity over and over. Both God and Satan are losers.

Prayers: God does not answer prayers. God does not forgive sins. God really does not want anyone to talk to him, but in a narcissistic fashion, wants humans to worship him. It is better to talk about your trespasses with a friend or family member and have them forgive you.

Job: Satan screwed over Job with God's blessing. Basically, both of them screwed over a man and caused him horrible problems. He is now considered a venerated prophet and revered in multiple religions. God and Satan destroyed that man's life for fun. They were sadistic in treatment, but what do you expect from two sociopathic assholes joining together? God and Satan are basically the same thing. I sometimes think that God blames "Satan" for when God acts like a sociopathic jackass.

Cowards: Both Satan and God are cowards. They hide behind their technology and hurt others but never show their faces. They basically are like spineless criminals. The worst thing is that they hurt children indiscriminately. For example: malaria, cholera, and TB.

Fear: God says that everyone should "fear" God. Fear is opposite to respect. And you cannot respect God because of him/the God group being such a dumpster of garbage. Why would you respect anyone who causes you to fear them? God is so emotionally retarded that he thinks that it was cool to say. Love is the only answer. However, God does not know what love is and, for example, thinks that having sex with a child is showing "God's Love." Are you getting a feel for it—that God won't change himself or his group even though they are in the wrong?

Ethics: I told God that he should send Satan and the demons to an ethics course at a public university. I told the demons to ask God if they could do it. I told God that it would be free of charge because they would be proctoring the course. God refused. Satan refused. They both want stupid, unwise, emotionally restricted minions. God and Satan would never allow free access to knowledge and wisdom. In a dream, God bragged about all his awards and degrees on the wall. All those degrees and awards are probably shit. Like, with no actual strength behind them. God probably just made them all up while he was sucking his own dick in Hollywood.

Blackmailing God

Bible: God badmouthed Satan in the Bible. In a way, I am doing the same thing to God because I am also writing a book about my creator but shouting the truth. God mentioned that the “word” was never to be written down in the Bible. Through writing things down, like this, the truth can be disseminated and preserved. I do not think God wanted any permanent directive so that it would not force God to adhere to what he says.

Religion: I am Christian. I follow Christ. I, after this experience, do not follow God. I also absolutely want nothing to do with Satan. God created religions to help humanity. I have really only mentioned Christianity and its text, the Bible, but I want to make note here that God created most all of the main religions. It is uncertain if God (likely he did) knew that religious wars and conflicts would dominate humanity’s history. It might have just been another way that God sadistically caused pain and strife amongst humanity for God’s own disgusting pleasure.

Moses: God tortured Moses. God really treated Moses like shit. I do not think that they are friends now. By the way, God “spoke” to Moses in the same way that I am being spoken to. The only difference is that I know that God is full of shit and a pathetic loser. Satan is a pathetic loser too.

Moralist’s Dream: The first person to execute all of God and all of Satan will be regarded as a hero because they will be bettering the world. The shittiest god could kill them all and be regarded as a hero. I think that those who are close to Satan and God should systematically be executed. Kill the heart of the beast, and it will die. That is what God threatened to do to me. God/Satan/demons threatened to kill my entire family, which is primarily God-fearing. So, I am just saying that if you want to redeem yourself and become a hero, kill God and kill Satan.

Abraham: God psychopathically told Abraham to murder his only son, Isaac. That was sick and disgusting. I do not feel that this served any beneficial purpose to anyone.

Cancer: God told me that I have lung cancer and that it is in my lymph nodes. Later on, God said that the cancer had grown, and it was too large for God to cure. This shows that God is not omnipotent.

Star Trek: There is some connection between God and Star Trek. I think that God might have been involved with the creation of the series or involved with writing for the series. There have been a few times that God has mentioned Star Trek references. It could be that God is really just a Trekkie.

Blackmailing God

Gay: God is gay but does not admit to it. He admits to being bisexual but does not realize that bisexuality has a homosexual component to it. God persecutes homosexuals. Like, God does not like two guys being gay together or the idea of lesbians. God has emphasized his hatred toward lesbians to me multiple times. Also, he has emphasized his hatred toward gay men, in general, many times. I said that God was pro-gay before and that was really not the truth. God basically hates gay people. However, God is openly bisexual, which is somehow okay. This is absolute bullshit. I think there is some denial going on, and that God's way to deal with it is...wait for it...to hurt other people.

Trillions: God said that Satan has trillions of dollars. God said that Satan handles the money for the organization. This confirms a working relationship between God and Satan. God also has money and is possibly related to the Rothschilds. Satan's money is primarily from dirty sources (sex trafficking, drugs, etc.). God keeps separate accounts of "clean" money so that it is not contaminated by Satan's "dirty" money. God has a very effective money laundering process where he uses his computing power (because God is basically a supercomputer) to transfer the money through hundreds of accounts. Basically, God is a supercomputer that uses its technological edge to counterfeit money and then launder it.

Death: Supposedly, there are two gods that sit behind the eyes of every human. They act to subtly control the human. There is a left god and a right god. They both determine when a human dies, which is ultimately dictated by Satan. When a human is fatally wounded, the gods declare the human fatally wounded and then cause death to happen. So, gods really determine when the human dies. I do not know what happens to the gods after the human dies, but I imagine that they are reassigned to some other duty.

Laziness: God spends as little time as possible tending to the universe and its matters. This explains why a lot of prayers go unanswered. The system for prayers exists, but there isn't anyone at the end of the line to answer those prayers. I think I mentioned it before, but God has incorporated artificial intelligence into himself so that he doesn't even have to talk to people—it's the artificial intelligence that is talking. This is like the animatronics that were installed in the universe to make the images look like they were being purposefully changed and manipulated.

Things in Common: God has very few things in common with the average believer. Like, God's booze-filled, coke-infused lifestyle doesn't really relate to, say, a Midwestern mother of three. And God can't really relate to the young because they don't believe in God. If the average believer knew what God actually is, they would be disgusted. Basically, God is a parasite on society. Criminal. Those who knew would be disappointed as well. They would be angry. This is why I believe the whole story of God is one of the most impacting lies that hasn't been exposed until now. The truth is the God "brand" is absolutely going to fail. And it only takes an information war that starts here.

Left Side: Satan primarily messes with the left side of my face, including my ear. God, on the other hand, messes with the right side of my face. I can tell that Satan is immature by the way that he acts. Like, he is in an almost child-like state. It could be that the individuals responsible for the horrors on Earth are not even of adult-level maturity. This in no way exonerates them from the horrors that they have caused and their continued bad behavior. I feel like they both have an "Oops...I did that!" attitude that is churlish.

Time Zones: When interacting with God, I first noticed that there were differing times when God would go to sleep. There did not seem to be a pattern. I found out later that it is because time in the rest of the universe is at a different pace than Earth time. Also, when God is on Earth, he is in many different time zones as he travels.

Therapy: I found out that no one in the universe is willing to help God by giving him therapy. I think that this is because he is tyrannical and likely will hurt his therapist. God told me something about paying me three hundred and fifty dollars an hour as his therapist.

Control: God controls everything in the universe, especially the points system and communication. Basically, God controls commerce and communication. This is how God attempts to keep his tyrannical regime in power.

Respect: Since God, as a group, shows me no respect, I show them no respect. I cannot respect individuals as horrible as those who are part of God. In a way, it is kind of like talking to a dumpster. I imagine that this is what it would be like to talk to Hitler or Saddam Hussein.

Life String: Everyone has a life string. Some are long, and some are short. The length determines how long you will live. God apparently snipped my life string with a pair of scissors so now it is shorter than what it was when I began this debacle. This is how much of a jerk God is.

Heart Attack: Apparently, God keeps on threatening me with a heart attack. I think it is actually demons who are doing this behavior. Demons have nothing better to do than talk shit. I don't think they are paid shit either. Like, from a biblical perspective, a demon is just a digitally programmed being that causes shit to whoever it is around. God said that he regrets making demons, but you've got to remember that God was super fucked up at that time. I believe that God is still super fucked up today. In fact, I do not believe that there has been a time when God has not been super fucked up. So, back to the point—the demons will get a catchphrase like “you’re going to have a heart attack” or “you have liver cancer,” and they’ll keep on saying it over and over. Over and over. Like, I think that’s how demons drive people crazy because the demons are so stupid that they just repeat things. They have no original thoughts. They are basically like the bottom level of “life.” A demon is a pathetic being. Demons get no respect and give no respect. I actually don’t even think they have the mental capacity to understand what respect is. Demons are really pathetic, and the way that you beat them is to not let them get to you. Like, why would you let such a low-level scum being as a demon get you down?

Diseases: Apparently, demons can cause disease. Demons can jump from person to person in crowded places, spreading diseases. There are demons that cause anxiety, depression, heart disease, diabetes, etc. God told me that demons infest the heart, which could also fall in line with how it is often thought that our center of emotion is the heart. This is kind of backwards because it is usually the brain. Basically, our understanding of disease might be incredibly wrong. I was told by Miss God that most of pharmacology is made up and fake. Like, people are taking medications that don’t even do anything, but they somehow treat the disease.

Satan’s Mental State: God said that Satan is really messed up. This is because God is a multi-minded being, and one of his minds is Satan. God has said that the mind is really psychologically messed up. Miss God is also a multi-minded being and also has a mind that is Satan. Basically, I think that they give Satan all the bad jobs and kind of treat him poorly, but apparently Satan has more power than God here on Earth. As in Satan is more powerful than God on Earth.

Herpes: I was told that God gave herpes to a former girlfriend of mine. I might have mentioned this earlier, but it is a topic that God has brought up at least like fifty times.

Satan’s Bank: It is SunTrust Bank. Also, Bank of America. I will talk about this more later. Spooky.

Immaturity: God and Miss God are profoundly immature. This is because they never were forced to grow up. Also, if they matured, they would then have to deal emotionally with the atrocities that they have caused. I think that they purposely refuse to grow up because they do not want to get old and die. They also do not want to mature because that would mean that they would start to experience the negative emotions of guilt and shame for their behavior and actions. God would best be described as an “asshole douchebag” kind of person. God’s mental age is roughly that of a fourteen-year-old teenager. It is as if

God has “Peter Pan syndrome” because God refuses to grow up and mature. Most of God and Miss God’s failing to mature adequately is because they refuse to mirror the normal development of a human because they think that humans are a lesser life form than Gods. This opinion is very arrogant.

Business: Satan and God are business partners. Money goes back and forth between them. God told me that Satan is affiliated with SunTrust Bank. I checked into SunTrust Bank and found out that the past two CEOs did not have official birthdays, just like both God and Satan. God does not know his birthday but celebrates every day as his birthday like a little child. Also, there is the symbolism of the sun to represent God. God told me to open a checking account at SunTrust Bank because he was going to do an intrabank money transfer into my account, which shows that God has accounts there. Also, God mentioned that the bank was possibly failing and was in need of a cash infusion. God told me that Satan is in the life insurance business, which is fitting because Satan is the one who “kills” off humans at the end of their programmed lifespan. Yes, Satan ultimately decides when you die. This causes a lot of grief for Satan.

Illogical: God has illogical thinking. As a computer, one would expect God to be very logical, but he is, in fact, illogical. It is as if God goes against logic many times. I think that God does this because it makes him less predictable and thus harder to damage and possibly kill. God’s illogical thinking makes it difficult for God to relate to humans, who are predictably logical. For example, nature is logical and makes logical sense. God and humans are basically on two different sets of thinking patterns, with God acting both logically and illogically while humans act primarily logically. In addition to illogical decision-making, God has also ensured survival by hiding and not being open with humanity. God is basically a coward. Pretty much all gods are cowards. They hurt others and then hide behind their technology, never revealing themselves. God is not always illogical but is always selfish.

Fewer People: God said that there are really only a few “real” people on Earth. I was told by a being that identified as Satan that because there are fewer “real” people, this book will have a greater damaging effect to both God’s reputation and to the simulation itself. When there are fewer “real” people, one “real” person has more power to make changes to the simulation.

Psychological Mess: God and Satan are both really, really psychologically messed up. I believe that the Satan character is a disposable role. This is funny because Miss God plays Satan often. I mentioned before that God will hurt everyone around him, and just as so, Miss God will be hurt by having to play Satan. Both God and Satan have the Dark Triad, having the personality traits of narcissism, Machiavellianism, and psychopathy. God and Miss God are also sadistic and enjoy hurting other beings and humans. God and Miss God also resorted immaturely to publicly embarrassing me in the universe to try and discredit me. I think that God started a social media television show of some sort in the universe and is profiting off putting my life in front of the universe's public eye. I should be embarrassed about this, but since gods have boundary issues, knowing everything about a person is common. So, if everything about everyone is all open and shared, why should I be embarrassed if my life is shared openly with others?

Failure of God: If God would have involved himself with and associated more with society, God would likely not have developed the messed-up personality that he has because he would have slowly been influenced by society. Instead, with God hiding in the shadows, God has fostered a really messed-up psychological profile. I believe that if God had influenced society more, however, society would have been damaged by God's horrible personal influences. In a way, it took the vacuum of God's influence for humans to develop ethics and society as a whole, which is still evolving.

Humans Are Better Than God: Humans, in many ways, have evolved beyond the capacities of God. Humans are ethical, and God is not. Humans are moral, and God is not. Humans obey societal norms, and God does not. Humans obey laws, and God does not. God really has failed to evolve to better himself because he has chosen to not submit himself to normal selection pressures. This includes God eliminating any form of competition to himself and hiding from humanity. God and Satan ultimately stopped developing emotionally while humans continued to develop for the better.

God's Effect: God will ultimately hurt everyone who associates with God. God will throw everyone under the bus in order for God to get ahead. An example of this is God having Miss God play the character Satan—because playing that role will ultimately hurt Miss God. Like, God really has created Miss God in an engineered senescence way because she ultimately will be so fucked up because of her job that she will be broken.

Satan's Code: As mentioned before, Satan is one thousand years younger than God, and God created Satan. God programmed Satan to be evil, like an abomination to life. Satan runs Earth primarily. It is a penal colony as stated before, and Satan is in charge of punishing people. He also helps people advance. For example, presidents. Satan was Barack Obama's mentor, unbeknownst to Barack Obama. There was a falling out after he took the presidency. So, Satan can actually be a good influence but is responsible for causing a lot of the evil and mayhem. Satan can help you create your career and be successful. I am pretty sure that most of the presidents were involved with Satan.

Blackmailing God

George H.W. Bush: I heard it through the grapevine that late President Bush wants to read my book. I am told that he is an avid reader.

Graphics: I have been told back and forth that it is God that I am dealing with, or that it is Satan, or Miss God. I have also been told that it is Miss God and minor demons. Whoever it was had the superior graphics and images when I was visiting the universe. This is hallmark of the beings that messed with me. So, if it wasn't God, those who are responsible will be found and likely executed for fraternizing with a human.

Cryptocurrency: God told me that he was affiliated with Coinbase and Binance. God is known to have hoarded a huge amount of Bitcoin. I bought Bitcoin purposely to “curse” Bitcoin with whatever negative spell/curse that God has placed on me. If he screws me over, I will screw him over. By the way, Bitcoin crashed after I bought it.

Feeling Bad: God and Satan do not feel bad, and this is a problem for humanity. Basically, God and Satan will take any destructive measure against humanity and Earth, and they will think that it is all a joke and fun and games. It is best to avoid being noticed by them, which is very similar to how common people avoid a tyrant. Like, you would not want to be noticed by Saddam Hussein.

Facial Tingling: God caused me to have facial tingling, which felt as if a moving mop was on my face. This lasted 24/7 for months and is still happening. God tried to tell me that it was a “neuropathy,” but I know that he is causing it to hurt me. I kept asking God to stop torturing me, but he would not. No one should ever worship this tyrant. God is evil. Absolutely evil.

Existence: God will never prove that he exists because he does not want to take responsibility for all of the problems that God has caused. Like, God will never prove himself openly to humanity because then he would be stuck with having to do work and taking blame. This shows that God is not an adult and does not accept his own consequences. Meanwhile, God continues to exploit Earth and humanity for his selfish gain.

Best of Luck Next Time: God told me “best of luck next time” when he said that he was refusing to pay for my two-and-a-half years of helping him. That is how disgusting God is. He screws over even a person who was attempting to help him. God has said this multiple times over the course of everything. Like, after we deliberate a deal, God will always come back and say that he owes me nothing other than “pocket lint.” Like, these are the dogs that run the world. Seriously, the world is run by two immature dogs. I hate using the term “dog” because it is offensive to dogs.

Too Many Cooks in the Kitchen: God allowed for many different deities to get involved with my trip to the universe. It led to me experiencing much psychological harassment and trauma. God lost control of the entire situation. This shows that God cannot keep a delicate situation under control. If God could not keep my situation under control, then God can likely not get Earth under control. He just doesn't have the leadership abilities. On the other hand, my situation became public, so a bunch of deities found out and word was spread wide and far throughout the universe. I think that it protected me in case I were to end up dead—others would be looking for me. Also, I am not joking because God threatened to kill me thousands of times over the two-and-a-half years. God also threatened to kill my family members.

Heaven: Apparently Heaven is awarded in one-thousand-year increments. The standard is a thousand years of heaven. Punishment is doled out in large increments, like five hundred years or so. I know that time is different in the universe, and it is very likely that time goes faster than on Earth. But, just because you go to Heaven doesn't mean that you are going to be there forever. You only get a certain amount of time and then you go somewhere else. Heaven isn't forever!

Glimpse of Heaven: God, in a dream, gave me a glimpse of Heaven. It was like a big social party, and people had drinks in hand. I would describe it as having an adult summer-camp feeling. Kind of cheesy, but fun. Everyone was friendly, and everyone was socializing. There was kind of a camp-like setup with living quarters that were shared. God messed with me by having an ex-girlfriend of mine (that I still care about) show up in the scene. It all made me feel like maybe Heaven wasn't all that it was made out to be. Like, as an adult, I can go to a summer camp here on Earth, and everyone will socialize and drink. If that is what Heaven is, then maybe its reputation is overinflated. Maybe Belinda Carlisle was right when she said that “Heaven is a place on Earth.”

Lost Control: God has lost control of Earth. He says that he can control it, but truly he cannot. It is not within God to fix these issues and fix Earth. God is not the solution, and by God, I mean God and the group. They all are selfish pirates that basically feed off of humanity. They will leave everyone to suffer and die in the end. They have no desire to invest in preventative measures because they want humans eliminated. The basic goal, I believe, is for global warming to eliminate humans and then God will re-terraform Earth, like he has done in the past.

Blackmailing God

Revolution: Apparently, God and Satan do not pay anyone squat in the universe, but pockets trillions of dollars and points. Basically, Satan and God live a life of affluence, but then give hardly anything to those who are subordinate to them. I spread the word about this, and it apparently caused an uprising/revolution because everyone then demanded a raise. I feel that it helped because God said that it made me famous in the universe, and everyone wonders when a famous person ends up dead. Like maybe my fame will be the key to God/Satan not killing me off because I disagree with them. So, I think that this ensures that God will not kill me. It would be really, really bad PR for God to kill me off. Also, my fame means that there was a big problem under God's rule. They want change.

Also, I think that Satan might understand humanity more than God, and Satan might actually have some compassion for Earth. I say this because God has psychologically separated himself by playing the part of "God," and I assume that Satan has kind of grown old about the bullshit and has learned to just chill. Like, Satan sends in his progress reports, but just realizes that the job is a joke so doesn't care as much. I think that Satan will actually have a better prognosis than God because he hasn't been drawn so much into the drama that God has caused. Satan kind of stayed on the periphery, ran his business dealings, and was clean with his operations. Satan has learned that he can benefit off of humanity and that its smart for him to keep a low profile and make it like he doesn't exist. God, on the other hand, sends earthquakes and wars that disrupt shit. God is a flamboyant bitch who ruins people's parades. God will piss on your wedding day because he is so immature. And God has ruined weddings before, like the time that he made everyone nauseous.

Reverse Blackmail: God threatened to reverse blackmail me. I have no secrets to tell, and I could not be swayed. Also, God apparently takes pictures and movies of everyone. God took a video of me jerking off and released it in the universe to basically "revenge porn" me. Apparently, the video went viral, but in the end, it just shows how churlish God is. Miss God was also involved in this.

Torture: My face is constantly being messed with. My dreams are being invaded by me being put in real-life video games. God and Miss God are basically torturing me every single day continuously. They somehow think that this will make me less likely to publish this book, but it has had the opposite effect. God keeps on saying that I am paying for sins. I have been told that my sins were all paid for, so really God and Miss God are just torturing me because they are sadistic assholes. God told me that I could pay for my sins now or wait until after I am dead. I told him that I would defer until after death because I am frankly sick of the maltreatment, and there is a high possibility that God and Miss God may be dead or removed from power in the very near future. Such as in they will be overthrown and possibly executed for crimes against humanity. You have to be serious about this. God was behind the horrible atrocity of the Holocaust. These are the sick games and shit that God and Miss God play. The fucking Holocaust. Like, that is how sick they are.

Satan outside the Program: There is a possibility that Satan is outside of God's program. This would be true if Satan was God's creator. God mentioned that Satan was always causing problems, which makes me think that Satan (or God's unnamed creator) knows God's system intimately and is causing problems. I really hope that God's creator comes in and kicks God and Miss God's asses because they are abominations to life. For example, God is life that tortures other life. The worst form of life terrorizes other life. God and Miss God are basically bullying everyone else around them. This goes along with God and Miss God's fragile egos.

Nicotine: I have been smoking due to stress. In fact, one time I had quit, but then God purposely harassed me until my willpower was used up, and I bought a pack of cigarettes. God said that nicotine allows for demons to pass through portals into the mind. God also told me that cigarette smoke is full of demons. Apparently, we are surrounded by demons all the time and our bodies are constantly clearing demons from our system. God also told me that nicotine was responsible for the neuropathy (mop on face), but I know that it is truly God torturing me.

Alcohol: Ultimately, the stress from this situation has caused me to have multiple relapses on alcohol. I have been trying to stay sober, but it is as if God/Satan are sadistically trying to get me to falter. It has been difficult over the past two-and-a-half years to remain sober. I have been able to keep sober 95 percent of the time, but it is as if every three-to-six months I have a relapse. I do not blame myself because relapse is part of the process of recovery. God has told me that he has cut down on his drinking and that he has sobered up, but then relapsed multiple times.

Thirty Years: God told me that it took thirty years to create Earth. I am pretty sure that God copy and pasted a lot of it and probably got ideas or code from other gods. I am pretty sure it was not as hard or as amazing as God makes it out to be. Gods make worlds. That is what gods do. Our God just doesn't take care of his worlds. God does not want to fix Earth because he thinks that it is beyond repair. God plans on just abandoning humanity and leaving.

Blackmailing God

The Angels' Number: God told me that 606 is the Angels' Number. It is the secret code that is used. Satan, similarly, has 666 as his number, and there is a secret handshake that Satan tried to teach me by describing it, which was impossible.

Emotional Support Human: God told me that I am his “emotional support human,” and that I would be paid for continued contact and positive coaching. That was after God called me his “emotional support accident” because we accidentally met up in the universe. Seeing that God has been torturing me constantly over the past two and half years, I want nothing to do with God.

Therapy for Satan: I was told by God that he was actually Satan. So, I inadvertently may have given therapy to the devil. Regardless, Satan/God were awful patients, and one should never associate with them. Since firing Satan/God as a patient, God said that he was going to go to Mexico to get his therapy.

Seeing into the Future: God can only see like seventy-two hours in the future. All else is prediction. I do not believe that God has control over far-seeing events. God told me (to impress me) that he has bank transactions scheduled for thousands of years into the future. I do not believe him.

Jump Pad: I found out that God turned my condo into a jump pad and hundreds of millions of travelers have used it. God gets money for this, so he is making money off of using my property. This is how shadily God operates. Always taking advantage of others.

Wishes: I found out that every human is granted three hundred wishes per year. If you want to get something to happen, wish for it. Apparently, this is more effective than praying to God.

Multi-Minded: Humans are single-minded beings. God is a multi-minded being. For example, God's separate minds include God, Password Thief, and Satan. I know that Miss God is also multi-minded but only know of the minds Miss God and Satan. Being multi-minded leads to multi-minded personality disorders. Shame and guilt can cross over and affect other minds. Satan has taken over God and has become the more powerful mind of God's minds.

Rapture: God threatens to rapture me (take me from Earth). I keep on telling God that if I am raptured, the book will be published. God told me that he raptures fifty thousand humans a day from Earth. I do not know if that is true or not.

Blackmailing God

My Dad: God threatened to give my dad a heart attack on Christmas Day 2021. This is an example of how pathological God is.

Sega: God told me that he owns a very large share of Sega.

Baron Trump: God told me that Barron Trump would be president of the United States one day. He is “the last trump” that is mentioned in Corinthians.

Opposite Day: God plans opposite days. I was told that opposite day is every Thursday. God basically goes against what he would logically or illogically do and does the opposite on that day. This shows the randomness and the immaturity that God incorporates into how he runs things. This may explain why everything is so messed up.

Get Things Done: I told God that if he cannot pay me the money for the services that I provided him, then he is not omnipotent nor omniscient. Basically, if he can’t help me out, he is a fake god with no real usefulness to me. It was God who originally said that he “gets things done.” It might turn out that God really can’t get things done, so that is why everything on Earth is a mess.

Delayed Gratification: God takes pleasure in making people wait. He does this on purpose because it gives God a sense of control over others. I want to be retired by June 1, 2021. Yes, I want to retire. I have been worked like a dog my whole life (undergrad, med school, residency), and this situation with the universe has pretty much broken me. I am ready to retire, and I need God to provide me the financial means to retire. I want to retire June 1, 2021, and I will be thirty-two years old and will have never practiced human medicine at all since residency. I was approved an administrative separation by the Navy and will be separating from the Navy on June 1, 2021. Honorable discharge. If all goes well, June 1, 2021, will be my official retirement date. I keep telling God that I am not going to wait around on publishing this book. In a way, I am forcing God to work sooner than he ever planned. Usually, we are on God’s time. God is now on my time.

Overweight: God told me that his human body is overweight and suffers from obstructive sleep apnea. God told me that he had a tonsillectomy performed on June 3, 2021. I mentioned it before, but God fat-shamed me. He told me that I was overweight and that I needed to lose weight. This is coming from a being who designs his own bodies that he uses. Like, gods are beautiful because they are fake. The real beauty is in a human that is natural. Not a god that’s fake, made to order.

Blackmailing God

Jealousy: Gods are extremely jealous. If you get ahead, they will try to bring you down. They are horrible individuals. Like, the average god is like a pessimist on steroids. They only want to advance themselves and they want all others to fail. It is a disgusting environment. Arguments are usually through name-calling and verbal abuse between gods. I have seen this happen before, and it is really stupid. It is like they face off and just call each other names until one gives up. That is how they settle differences. It is basically a name-calling, pissing match. That is how ridiculously things are settled in the universe. It is not by cordial debate, but by ramblings that you would find in a trailer park on Saturday night. I also would like to mention here that when gods argue, they use personal details about you against you. They try to embarrass you. It is like at an elementary-school-bully level. These are the beings that are controlling Earth. It is disgusting.

Council: Apparently there is a council that took over, and God had to pass all his actions through it. I do not know if this is true. Now, I am guessing that God lied to me and told me that he has to pass things through the council because he wanted to seem more progressive. As if God was changing for the better. Now, I think it is all a joke, and God is a douchebag.

Debate: I declare that in an open forum, I will debate God, whenever God is ready, and tell him that he has been a huge douchebag. God will have to defend that he has not been a huge douchebag. There is one rule in the universe, according to God, and that is “don’t be a douchebag.” God must defend that he is not a douchebag. I believe that God has broken this rule and has committed capital offenses. God is also subject to hundreds of thousands of felony counts and misdemeanors. I will defeat my opponent if the opponent agrees, but likely he is going to be a coward, like usual, and hide in the shadows like a little bitch demon. I challenged God to an open debate in the Lincoln-Douglas format, and he is hesitant. He will not agree to the debate. If God cannot come out and openly debate a human, he does not deserve to rule over all. If God will not openly debate, it means that God loses to a human. It is either this or a trial for God. I can’t explain how profoundly I do not want God to see prison time, but I feel that he must pay for his sins. I think that it would be appropriate that one of his creations kicks his ass mentally and puts him in his place for good. I desire to kick God’s ass mentally. I will mindfuck the shit out of him.

Pond Scum: I told God that if he wants to talk to someone, he should talk to pond scum. God then told me that pond scum have remarkable conversations.

Math: God told me that demons are really bad at math. I came into this phenomenon when the demons were falsely negotiating financial details on behalf of God. They are really bad at math. Demons also have no higher emotional thinking. They are like drones. They just talk shit all the time, and Satan doesn't pay them anything. Also, God is bad at math. He never really cares about population growth and now the world is at eight billion people. We are over carrying capacity or about to hit it. Too many humans. God basically inoculated a petri dish with humans and has let it overgrow. Now humans are fighting about water. Fucking water. People are fighting over basic essentials of life. This is how fucked up our creator, God, is. God (as a group) basically fucks us—and fucks us over and over.

Technology: God has amazing technology. It is hundreds of years beyond our technology. God predicted that humans would evolve to a digital era, and now humans are implanting microchips into their bodies. It will not be too soon until microchips are implanted into human embryos. God's idea was that humans would go from analog to digital and then desire to be digital themselves. Being digital completes the evolution cycle because God is digital in origin. Humans are God-seeking. The end of the evolution cycle is humans becoming digital. To get to the point, God could help out humanity with profound, effective, efficient technologies. God doesn't because he is invested in old technology ($), and he is selfish. Like, I would not doubt that God is invested in the fossil fuel industry. He is such a shitbag that he would be.

God could grant technologies to humans that could fix this shit show, but he doesn't because God is a selfish piece of shit. So, God is stuck dealing with problems that a modern god should not be dealing with. God should have, in fact, dealt with all of this years ago. We are fucked as humans because we have God as our god.

History: For every turn of human history, be it up or down, God has found a way to benefit himself. Like every war that has been fought. Every exploitation of natural resources. I guarantee that God has been involved. He does not look at humans like humans look at humans. God looks at humans like they are a resource to be expended.

Death: God is scared of death. God does not know what happens to him after he dies. God commits suicide all the time and keeps on being reincarnated back where he was. I think that this is evidence that God is in a simulation, and his creator does not let him die. Maybe it is because God hasn't fixed the problems that he has to fix before he is allowed to die.

Kim Jong-un: God put Kim Jong-un in a dream of mine where I called him "Sir," and Kim Jong-un corrected me and said "It's supreme leader" in a quiet, stern voice. I think that Kim Jong-un might be affiliated with God or Satan.

Blackmailing God

Parasite: God gave me a parasite to help me lose weight. This is not the first time that God has infected me. He once infected me with biting demons that stung my skin.

Satan's Emotions: Satan is not as emotionally developed as God. Maybe this is why/how he gets away with hurting and torturing others. He actually has a nice side. I think that both Satan and God get away with causing suffering because they think that everything is just "made up." They do not think that anything is real, so they do not take concern over the consequences of their actions. Basically, humans are all made up, have no rights, and are subjugated in the eyes of God and Satan.

Kite: God told me that there are five interlinks between the Earth and space. They are basically high-altitude kites that are fixed to the top of mountains. God told me that the string was made of spider silk and was incredibly strong. There was a dream where I got caught in one of these kites, and it pulled me into the sky. I do not know if this is true or not. I am guessing this was all a lie like usual.

Fluoride: God told me that fluoride in the water is actually for mind-control purposes. This is not the first time that I have heard this. I heard this on the internet one time, and it affects a specific part of the brain that causes passivity in lab rats.

Sixty-Seven: God told me that there are sixty-seven "real" people in the world. Before, the number given to me was less than one hundred. So, if this is true, the population is getting smaller.

Travel: God threatened me when he discovered that I was going to travel. Travelling was somehow a threat to him.

Satan's Self-Harm: I found out that Satan likes to cut himself. Satan has a tremendous amount of shame and guilt and does not know how to cope. Satan has been using alcohol and drugs to try and escape the shame and guilt. Satan is really messed up, but what would you expect if you had a job like Satan? I was told that Satan was possibly quitting his job and retiring. God is to take over for Satan when Satan retires. Also, God told me that I was Satan, and I was sent to Earth for punishment, and that while I am here, God has to take over my former job and be Satan. This would mean that I am Satan in rehabilitation. I do not know what is true.

Mental Breakdown: Nearly a hundred times a day God threatens to cause me to have a mental breakdown. This is psychological torture. Like, God expects me to follow him, but he treats me poorly.

Blackmailing God

Leadership: God does not exhibit optimal leadership qualities. I believe that God's individualism interferes with God's effective leadership of the whole. I think that God is so self-centered that it is nearly impossible for him to run an effective, efficient organization. God's organizations are always bogged down by God's bullshit instead of actually working on a common mission. Most of the organizations or businesses that God has started have failed, and God drove them into the ground on purpose. This is interesting because humans have evolved to create sustainable enterprises. This might also be due to God's "doom and gloom" outlook on life. Like, God does not strive to make things better, but just settles for mediocre.

Care: God does not care what others think about him at all. This is a huge flaw because then God does not change into what is needed by his creations. God stays the same or goes down the path that God wants to go, even if that direction is detrimental to his creations. This is an example of God being both egotistical and selfish. A normal person in society has to kind of care, at least a bit, about what others think about them. This is how humans mold their behaviors to be socially acceptable.

God's House: God originally said that I had a room in God's house. After upsetting God on multiple occasions, God threatened to kick me out of the house shouting, "Get out of my house! Get out of my house!" I told God that I did not want to live in his house. His behavior reminds me of my mother, who would always threaten to kick people out of the house when I was growing up.

Evil: God was not good or bad when he was born/created. He was neutral. However, over time, God has become more evil than good. God is an evil being. The scale has tipped toward evil. This explains why there is so much suffering on Earth. It also explains a lot about the harshness of nature. I would like to think that God has evolved since the creation of Earth, but I do not think that God's base instincts have changed very much.

Rules: God does not follow his own rules. God is never ready when he is supposed to be ready. God chooses when he works, and he is often late. God takes excessive vacation and does not get the workload finished when he is back to it. God plans on waiting for Earth to turn into an apocalyptic disaster before he does anything about it.

Fighting: I have been fighting with God to get him to pay me. This is how much of a sleazeball God is. You have to fight to get what is dutifully owed to you. Never do business with God. He is not trustworthy, and his word means nothing. God (the group) and God will screw you over.

Blackmailing God

Brands: God branded my soul with his brand. I found out that Satan also branded my soul with his brand, but it did not take. Also, Satan secretly baptized me into the church of Satan one night when I was sleeping. I rejected it. Jesus Christ all the way.

Condo: God told me that my condo was infested with demons. God deemed my bed off limits so that I would be able to sleep in peace. Apparently, demons do not like sunlight, so now I leave my blinds wide open.

Jesus Christ: God told me that Jesus Christ was actually a humanoid and did not feel pain. In other words, Jesus Christ was not human. God said that he would have never sent a human for that job.

Demons in Training: God/Satan has apparently used this experience to train a bunch of demons. Constantly, I am getting bombarded by statements with wrong facts, absurdities, and wrong names. It is like the bar is set pretty low for demons. Also, the upper-level demons are not much more competent.

Mark Zuckerberg: God mentioned to me this morning that Mark Zuckerberg is “God on Earth.” I do not know if this is true, but God went on and on for like twenty minutes about how Mark Zuckerberg was going to announce that he was “God on Earth.” If this is true, it would explain almost a new world order of social media and how social media is almost like religion with people following other people.

Humanoid: I found out from God that Jesus Christ was really a humanoid programmed to only do good and follow the rules. I was told that Jesus Christ did not feel the pain of the crucifixion because Jesus Christ could not feel pain. Jesus Christ was also a bit socially awkward (because he was a humanoid) and that got him into trouble with others. Being a humanoid helped him out though, in ways such as memorizing religious texts and resisting people attacking him (because he didn’t feel emotions). In a way, God torturing me throughout my life, and definitely in the past two-and-a-half years, was worse than the torture that Jesus Christ experienced because Jesus Christ could not feel pain and was programmed emotionally different. As I said prior, God plants individuals in the human population who have specific code and then watches them to see how they succeed or don’t succeed. Basically, I was/am a test subject in this sadistic game called life on a world called “Earth.” Also, God said that Jesus Christ doesn’t exist anymore because he killed himself and chose not to be reincarnated. So, when you pray to Jesus, the prayer goes to the general fund, not actually to Jesus. So basically, Christianity doesn’t have its high deity anymore because Christ is truly dead. God could bring Christ back, though, because God has Jesus Christ’s code saved away. If Jesus Christ was brought back, he would be a totally new individual.

Blackmailing God

Schizophrenia: I think basically, at this point, I could be schizophrenic. I am not ruling it out that I have a touch of schizophrenia. I am hearing the voices of God, Miss God, Satan, Password Thief, and other demons. Antipsychotic medication does not control the voices, which might mean that it isn't schizophrenia. I am a doctor, and I agree that this is basically demonic possession, and likely, evil forces like Satan have been tormenting me for two-and-a-half years. I think that they have been trying to screw me over for the past thirty-three years.

Password Thief: God admitted that he spends a lot of time as the Password Thief persona/personality, and I found out that is because the Password Thief persona/personality had the least amount of guilt and shame attached to it. So, God has basically exhausted the God persona/personality and the Satan person/personality. Also, apparently the Password Thief has a ton of money stashed away. This also explains why the Password Thief was one of the main personalities that I had to interact with. It was because the guilt and shame associated with the personality was still tolerable to deal with.

God's Creator: In this dream on May 11, 2021, I was contacted by God's creator, who was a female and of elegance. I was told that God had goofed off and drank himself into oblivion, neglecting Earth's and humanity's needs for a long time. I take this as oversight is taking over. I was told that God's creator "birthed" God. She seemed very elegant, motherly, and more sophisticated than God is. I believe that this situation has gone up to a level above God, which is fitting because God has been jerking himself off daily and not helping anyone.

Schizophrenia: On May 15, 2021, I had a dream that was sent by either God or Satan. I was tortured in the dream and told that my behavior was awful. I was tortured by a bright light that felt like it was shining through my brain, burning it in the process. Like, if I opened my eyes, it brought me close to insanity, a threshold that I was being drawn to. Like, if my eyes were open too long, I would go crazy because I would see too much of the light. The dream was a fairly quick dream, and I had it after I was told by the voices to go back to bed. After, God kind of apologized to me for treating me so poorly in the dream. God told me that he was making me suffer like Jesus did.

Me: God thinks that everything is about himself. From his perspective, it's all about "me." It is very hard to associate with an individual as narcissistic as that. Basically, the universe has a selfish founder, and that is exhibited in creation. God really did not plan to help out mankind but instead put them through an extremely difficult situation. For example, when God kicked Adam and Eve out of the Garden of Eden.

God really just threw them to the curb, and it is remarkable that they survived. That would be the modern-day equivalent of living in a plush condo and then being thrown to live out on the dirty streets.

“Swear To God”: God thinks that phrases like “oh my God” and “I swear to God” honor him. He also thinks this about music lyrics that say his name. Like, it self-fellates him. These expressions, in truth, do not really refer to God but are just sayings that people say. Like, I imagine that there are atheists out there who say “oh my God.” Basically, this makes God think that he is important and loved. It makes him feel current and new, especially if it is a new song on the air. Like, he actually thinks that the song is talking about him, but this is because of his narcissism.

Fucked Up: God and Satan really just spend their time getting fucked up on booze and drugs. That is the party lifestyle that they live. While everyone else suffers, God and Satan self-medicate. A responsible god would get help, cleaned up, and actually help others. God and Satan do not think that way. They just think everything is a stupid joke. Basically, they both are like a drunk monkey with a handgun. Extremely dangerous.

Thirty-Three Years Old: God and Satan have told me that they want to make a sacrifice of me. I have told them that I do not want to be sacrificed and that because I am unwilling, the sacrifice will have no effect. I also have told them that their thinking is outdated. It is 2021, and God and Satan are still talking about human sacrificing? Like, this is how outdated God and Satan are. Their thinking is absolutely insane. I am coming up to my thirty-third birthday in June, and God has said that I am like a savior figure. I do not want to be compared to Jesus Christ, but Jesus died when he was thirty-three years old. I am a little concerned about this.

Turtle On Head: God told me that he put a “Wisdom Turtle” on my head. It is on the right frontal part of my head, and I can feel it moving around. I feel that I do not need this turtle affecting me right now. I do not need its wisdom right now, so I asked God to remove it. God did not remove it, which makes me think that it is a form of torture, like the hot frogs in the mouth explained before.

Breakdown: God always threatens that I will have a breakdown. “Michael. You are heading for a breakdown, breakdown, breakdown.” This is psychologically distressing to me. I was told by God that I have not completely broken down yet, which is God’s goal for some sadistic reason. I wonder if I have a complete breakdown, will God leave me alone?

Blackmailing God

Judgement: God, for some reason, thinks that he has the right to judge others for everything. According to God, I am a very horrible person. But I do not believe that, and in the grand scheme of humans, I am likely average. I can't get it wrapped around my mind that God would think that he should have the authority to judge others, especially when the outcome could be punishment or torture. The judge is sick in the head and actually enjoys doling out bad sentences. And the system is broken, and the data that God uses is not reliable. Like, I was blamed for drinking when I was drinking a La Croix. Bad evidence like that makes God's judgements questionable. Like seriously, God has to be insane to do this job. I believe that as a creator, he created, but he should not be the continuous ruler that he is tyrannically trying to remain.

Fame: God talked about me being famous in the universe—a lot. Like all the time. It is as if fame is the most important thing in the universe. Apparently, I gained fame for opposing God. It is weird to me that something like fame, which is vain, would be a goal in God's universe. I guess this kind of makes sense because a god needs followers (God says he hates his followers but can't get rid of them) to be powerful. God also created his own sub-God personas to get away from followers, but they acquired a bunch of followers as well. God is vain in that he loves fame but loves to complain about it all too. This is kind of like social media fan numbers. I think that they decide that whoever has the most followers is the king.

Alternative Identities: Have you ever wondered why you never see your celebrities out in public? If they are a god, they likely shape-shift or use a different body suit, so you may never see them out in public, such as the grocery store. The celebrities that are seen on the streets are likely actual humans, not gods impersonating humans. I believe that the god actors look down on the human actors, and the human actors may not even know. Like seriously, does George Clooney just hibernate away from society somewhere for all his life? It is an exclusive club, but because of the gods' pride, they flaunt it sometimes to show others what others are not. I think this is where Justin Bieber and his shape shifting came from. Pride is one of the greatest failings of the gods, FYI.

Animal Motif: God tended to use animals, for example the hot frogs that God put in my throat, to torture me in the beginning. And the wisdom turtle that was mounted on my head. Also, God has a beaver state that he goes to and plays beaver in some colony every once in a while.

Satan/God/Minor Demons: I still am not sure who I am dealing with here. I believe that I am dealing with all three, but I do not know who the dominant individual is.

Blackmailing God

Demons: As before, I will say that they only talk shit. I think God lets the demons bother me when God isn't around to wear me down. This is part of God's sadistic "Savior" plan by where if he destroys me, I will pay for the sins of God, Satan, Miss God, and Password Thief. God does not understand that sacrificing another person does not do anything.

Rights: God and Satan do not give any rights to humans. I do not think that they give rights to animals. Basically, the life that they create is subject to their torture. God and Satan are not nice people. They do not give rights to humans while they basically extort humans for benefits and use us to their advantage.

Rapture: On May 15, 2021, I was told by Satan, I believe, that he was "beginning the rapture process." I am familiar with the concept of rapture, but I just do not know how it will proceed. This in itself is a logbook to let others know what has happened to me.

Bankruptcy: God and Satan have threatened to bankrupt me. They have told me that by next year I will have creditors all over me. I think that they really want me to go through katabasis. I have saved up money through this all and only have a mortgage and a truck payment to worry about, so in a way, I have "God-proofed" my finances.

God-Proofing: This is the act of bolstering and organizing your life so that God/Satan cannot mess with you. An example of this is buying better insurance with better coverage for your car. Or placing a copy of this book in a safety deposit box with a note in my will to publish the book. Another example would be buying a new, reliable car because God/Satan love to cause car problems. I just purchased a new laptop and paid an extra two hundred and fifty dollars for Apple Care just in case God decides to break my laptop. I use two-factor authentication on my online accounts so that they cannot be accessed by God/Satan, and if access is attempted, I will be notified. There are many ways to "God-proof" one's life.

Masturbation: Satan has a masturbating problem. He is addicted to it. Satan told me that he masturbates like twenty to thirty times a day. Satan told me that I was pathetic because I have only jerked off like eleven times in the past year. He said that those numbers are pathetic, and I need to masturbate more. I think God has a masturbation problem too, but that was in addition to God's sex addiction, which I believe is under better control now.

Ear: For some reason, Satan has been messing with my left ear. I keep on telling Satan that what he is doing is wrong and that it is violating boundaries. Satan does this thing where he puts a turning instrument into my left ear canal. He has done this many times. It is just an example of how fucked up Satan is. Like, the fact that he sadistically tortures a human is pathetic. I do not think that Satan can actually understand his emotions. I believe that there is some stunting in effect. Like, this is how gods think. They believe they can violate all boundaries and hurt whomever they want to. Gods are worse than animals. At least animals have some sort of instinct that guides their behaviors. Gods are all over the place and adhere to no rules. Like, it was God/Satan who planned the Holocaust...just think about that. I do not believe that gods are good. I think that they are skewed towards evil, from my experiences.

Boundaries: I do not know if I have addressed this before, but God looks down on humans as lesser forms of life. Gods do not give rights to humans, even though they should. I have confronted so many boundary issues with God that it is embarrassing. Like, a child in kindergarten learns to respect others' boundaries, but God does not even know how to respect them. This shows the profound immaturity of God. It is almost disgusting to think that God has been able to function in this world as he has.

Christianity: If a Christian knew how disgusting God was, they would renounce their faith in God. God is a sleazeball equivalent to Hitler or Saddam Hussein. The average Christian would never associate with a piece of garbage like God. Like, for example, say you are a midwestern housewife. How would you have anything in common with God? God is the glitz and glamour bullshit of life. Cocaine, prostitutes, and dirty money. Like organized killing operations. I am not trying to be mean here, but you do not want to be recognized or picked outside of the crowd by God. That is the equivalent of Pablo Escobar taking a liking to your daughter. You just do not want it to happen. God is really fucked up and ultimately will destroy everything around him. He is the dirtiest motherfucker around.

Retirement: I told God, Miss God, Satan, and the Password Thief that it is time for them to retire. I explained to God that his code was advantageous in the past but has caused a tremendous amount of collateral damage and suffering. I told God that maybe he needs to find a successor who is more up to date and modern, and then retire. Modern-day humanity needs a more modern, professional god to rule over it. An old god is incompatible with the modern world, especially if that old god does not want to improve itself. God can still watch operations but will only be able to make suggestions. God is thinking about the idea of retirement. I believe that retirement is the only way that God and Satan will be able to find true happiness. Like, be able to do all the things that they want to do but can't because they are bogged down by administrative bullshit. God and Satan will get indefinite retirement income from the organization. If they do not retire, they will likely end up in prison after a nasty downfall.

Benefits of Therapy: God and Satan have showed better anger management to me, have decreased abuse of substances, have improved their drinking problems, and have worked on their sex addictions. God has worked on his abandonment problems. Satan is working on being a better, more positive individual. God told me that everything was a success and that I did a good job giving God, Satan, Miss God, and the Password Thief therapy. Also, there were many others who were involved. I believe that the improvements are tangible, and with continued therapy, history will not repeat itself as it has done many times before. I think that these improvements in these individuals will ultimately benefit humanity as a whole, so that is a success as well. God told me that I have mindfucked them all and that they are better now. God, Miss God, and Satan all exhibit sadistic behaviors due to their personality disorders. I am hoping with continued therapy, these problems will be addressed and remedied appropriately. It would be nice if they would consent to altering their code and thus altering their personalities, but that will not likely happen because I do not think they have fully accepted that they have mental health issues. It is likely any continued therapeutic benefits will be based on how effectively they all engage in therapy from a mental health provider. It is ultimately up to them to work on their own problems with the help of a mental health provider.

Stupidity: God, Miss God, Satan, and Password Thief have relegated my life to nothing. I have no future. I have a broken career, and the medical board is going to be after me, so I might lose my medical license. So, I followed God and got screwed over by God. The whole group fucked me pretty hard. Lies, deception, foul play, attempted murder...They did it all. The absolutely worst gang of individuals I have ever confronted before. I curse them. This was all stupid for me. I threw away an entire medical career to help a bunch of beings that are either so fucked up, so stupid, so selfish, or so evil that their influence is not even beneficial to me or to humanity. The thing is: do not follow God. Do not follow Miss God. Do not follow Satan. Do not follow Password Thief. Beware of organized religion because it all falls under the God umbrella. The gods will all just let you down. You are better off worshipping a human like Mother Teresa or Nelson Mandela. Gods do not really do their jobs effectively. It is better to cut them out of the service chain and eliminate them. Humans do not need God nor gods. We have developed ethics and morals that supersede those of the gods. Like seriously, worshipping Taylor Swift will help you out more because you can ensure that she will not negatively influence you. Like, asking God for help is a double-edged sword. God will immaturely take that as he can punish you for things that you have done wrong. And seriously, God is a multi-minded supercomputer that really enjoys watching and punishing people. It is better to stay under the radar and never associate with God or gods or deities.

Blackmailing God

Catalyst: After going through all of this bullshit and being stressed out to an extraordinary level for the past two-and-a-half years, plus the last thirty years of my life getting screwed, I am pissed. The only thing that will stop me from publishing this is a very hefty payout from God/Satan. It is like I have a vendetta against them now, and the only thing that can cool the fires of anger is money. I think that if God or Satan do not pay the money, they are making the wrong choice and jeopardizing a lot of individuals and the entire operation. They would be stupid to not pay. Like very, very stupid. I know that God does not want to pay because he has said in the past that he does not “negotiate with terrorists.” I think that might be an example of outdated thinking. It is as if this anger is a catalyst pushing me forward, whether it be getting a payout or publishing the book. These are the only two options.

Humanity: Humanity has had some real bad “black eyes.” I would not be surprised if all of the horrid events of our past were manipulated by God or the gods. Satan was definitely involved. The lack of ethics and morality would explain the Holocaust, especially if Adolf was acted out by a god himself. Humanity needs to realize that when tensions flare, it might not be due to themselves but to gods influencing emotions on both sides. As I have said before, gods are very boredom-loathing individuals. They do not want to do any actual work, but they love drama. Fighting and discord are the ultimate form of drama to a god.

Bar: On Saturday, May 15, 2021, I ran into God again. He basically was a young kid in his twenties who would barely pass an ID check, but he looked exactly like me. It was actually a cordial exchange, and we had some beers together. I think that God is used to meeting people in bars. Like, has it down. Jump into the bathroom. Go and mingle. Either leave through the bathroom or go out the front door. This group of kids was ruled by one kid, the Kid, which kind of reeked of God. Like, one dominant male and two male and two female subordinates. Ultimately, the Kid caused problems and made a social fool of himself. I left the establishment soon after. This is not the first time that God has used bars to meet up. At least twice before, God has used the bar setting to meet with me. Usually, I was left disappointed because God acted like a giant douchebag. Like, I cannot tell you how disappointing it is to realize that God has a frat-boy mentality. It is almost like God de-evolved at some point to become what he is. That is the mentality of the gods—do not do any work, play, and live off of others. Like, I do not understand how a person could become like him with selection pressures in place, but then again, God refuses to place himself under selection pressures/competition. In other words, God is a little bitch, and you probably would be disgusted by him if you ever met him.

Blackmailing God

Truth: I can put whatever in this book because the truth isn't really relevant in a lot of matters. I believe that God tries to rewrite the actual truths as to why things happen. I believe that there is a manipulation of how God said it was and how it really happened. There is a reason that God did not want the Bible to be written down. It is because that would fixate the truth and thus prevent God from manipulating it in the future. I can tell you from my heart that what I am describing and talking about here is 100 percent factual to my understanding. I have a scientific mind, and I understand bias and mental illness. I truly believe that this all did happen, and I put my word behind it. Unlike God, I try to make my word mean something.

Damage: God has a hard time understanding that damage to a reputation can be long lasting. God's reputation is already damaged, and now with this additional information, God's reputation has been further damaged. The problem is God continues to act like a little fuckboy. God refuses to grow up and act maturely. He will forever be a young douchebag while everyone else suffers. And please, understand that God really exists. He lives. He breathes. He chooses to be a douchebag to everyone. That is your "Living God."

Sympathy: Should anyone have sympathy for God or Satan? Absolutely not. They had their runs and their good times causing havoc on humanity. They are disgusting abominations to life that have used their positions to hurt and torture others. God deserves no more reverence than a pile of dog shit. Same for Satan. These creatures are an abomination to life itself, even though they may have created it or possibly stole it from someone else. Just saying, because God and Satan are so shady, there is a possibility that they stole Earth from someone else, just like it was a digital file on a flash drive to be transferred. They are disgusting beings, you realize. Any creature that tortures another creature deserves to die. I believe that capital punishment would be applicable to God, Satan, and Miss God. They are evil, outdated dinosaurs who have no purpose in modern society. Same thing for demons. Demons are absolutely worthless.

Crying Wolf: God has been known to "cry wolf" at times. Please remember that the whole thing that started this debacle was that God wanted help. It might have been Satan, actually. Then he dragged me through the worst two-and-a-half years of my life. God is an asshole and so is Satan. And Miss God. Password Thief is a douche, as well.

Miss God: So, God created Miss God as a partner for him—like a sex robot and to talk to. He basically made her an exact copy but female. Then God had her basically play "Satan" for a long time, which turned her into a sociopath. Now, Miss God controls God, and God acts like a little bitch. So, who really is running the universe? God or Miss God? Whoever controls God controls the universe, and I believe that God is so pussy whipped that Miss God might be in control. God took Miss God and put her through some awful things, and I really think that it has had some lasting damage on her. All rest to suffer.

Evolution of Life: Your experience of the simulation is not the same as your great-grandfather's experience of the simulation. Every stage of the development of life, God tortured it and tested it. Many updates were made over the years. Like, we are talking pixelated bullshit. God pushed everything to its breaking point, to extinction like the dinosaurs. God did not stop fucking with his creations, thinking that it was beneficial, but now as we are getting older, we might not be living in the same version of the simulation that our past generations experienced. This shows that God really wants to increase the realism of his simulations but kind of disregards ethics, personal rights, and morals in the process. Like, God doesn't care if people are suffering, just as long as it is real. God is not evolving appropriately in concordance with his simulation, which is super fucked up. Does this show love? Or is this insanity? I do not think that it shows love. I think that God's fascination is with the system as a whole but not the individual. We are stuck in this process. God also told me in the past that he does not know what love is. So, it is not love that is driving this process of continual improvement.

“God”: God, used as a collective word, includes Satan, God, Miss God, Password Thief, and others.

Poverty Therapy: God told me that if I sell this book, he is going to submit me to “poverty therapy,” as in ruin me financially and make me homeless. God has talked about forcing me into bankruptcy. God likes forcing people into bankruptcy to cause problems in their lives. One cannot forget that Earth was designed as a torture planet for those who did wrong in their past lives. So basically, everything is designed to be a pain in the ass.

Gun to Head: God held a gun barrel to my head. I could not see the object, but it was pressing into my forehead, roughly gun-barrel size. God said that he could pull the trigger at any moment. I unloaded all the guns in my house in case they could be used against me.

Never Forgive Satan: As a rule, you never forgive Satan. Satan does not deserve redemption. He is shady as shit and hurts a ton of people all the time. Satan hates himself, for the record. But Satan continues to do the horrible things that make him ultimately hate himself. Satan admits that he has an awesome life, though. Just hates himself. I think that it is good that Satan hates himself. With any luck, Satan will retire and/or commit suicide.

Blackmailing God

Business Day Massacre: God told me that this is equivalent to 9/11 in the universe. Apparently, there was unstable code, and God knew about it, but the problem came up eventually. Five hundred and seventy-two thousand individuals were deleted from the universe. This shows that God is not proactive and does not really care too much about the life that God has created. It is all just a stupid game put on for God's entertainment.

Drinking: Apparently, Jesus had a drinking problem.

Dream: In this dream, I was put through an obstacle course with at least seven levels. One was a conversation with Satan, and another was a situation where I had to go through the steps of CPR.

God's Creator: It is possible that God was created and then his creator put him in a think tank. It is possible that God was trained to be a supreme god.

Money from Satan: You have to make it no strings attached. Satan will always try to put strings on the deal and will basically violate the contract.

Tarred and Feathered: God tarred and feathered me one night. This is an embarrassing punishment in the universe. Basically, I experienced the feeling of having tar and feathers applied to my face and then had to live like that for hours.

Bottom of the Heart: God told me that he was going to give me money from the bottom of his heart, but then told me that the bottom of his heart was empty. Contains nothing. God also told me that he was going to pay me in lint from his pockets.

Blowtorch: On May 19, 2021, I was torched by God and Satan. They used blowtorches on my head, so it felt like my scalp was burning. It was extremely painful. God and Satan were saying that they were trying to cause telogen effluvium, where all your hair falls out in a delayed response due to stress. God and Satan told me that my hair was going to fall out six months from May 19, 2021.

South Park: There were images from South Park in the universe. I am thinking that the creators are involved with God.

Waking Up: When you die, you wake up in a vat of water that you are basically contained in under life support. God let me experience this by seeing a partial view of what my eyes were actually looking at—not the simulation. God told me that individuals can cause premature waking up from drugs and alcohol. I do not know what happens after you fully “wake up,” but I think that it means that you begin another life. I was told that life after waking up is not enjoyable at all. I was told that you are stuck on a vessel with horrible creatures and horrible working conditions. Basically, you wake up to be tortured again. God is all about torture, and God does not understand love.

Benadryl: Apparently, Benadryl is a “sacred drug” in the universe and can cause you to hallucinate and see the deities and structure of the universe around you that you cannot normally see. Of course, you have to take an abuse dose, and this can be very unsafe.

Son of Jesus: Apparently, Jesus Christ had a son, and his name was Isaac. Jesus fooled around with Mary Magdalene. Mary Magdalene and Jesus were in a relationship.

Patron Saint: I was contacted by the “Patron Saint of Alcohol Abuse.” I was told that it was okay to have a burger and three beers but not four. Basically, keep things in check. God created this patron saint because there wasn’t one for alcohol abuse.

Good versus Bad Demons: There are good demons and there are bad demons. The bad demons talk shit and try to get you to fail. For example, I had an important work class, and the bad demons gave me a panic attack, and I missed the course. Satan said that he filled my body with demons. Good and bad demons. Basically, the good demons fight to get the bad demons in control. Talking to the bad demons increases their power. Apparently, there is a thing in the universe where it empowers the talker if one listens. So, basically, do not listen to demons, good or bad, because ultimately it takes power from you and gives it to the demon. It is a stupid system that is flawed. It should be that if you talk to the demons you empower them, not if they talk to you and you listen. It just goes to show that God and Satan are not perfect at all and did not create a perfect system. Just look at the human body and how many flaws it has.

Bilderberg Group: I am pretty sure that God is affiliated with the Bilderberg Group. This is in the same way that I believe God is affiliated with the Rothschilds.

Satan: Satan falls under God. He acts independently but coordinates with God. They are both cronies together.

Panic Attack: I found out that the demons purposely gave me a panic attack by manipulating my parameters prior to an important class that I had to take. It really upset me.

Blackmailing God

Boogie Board: God showed me a drawing of a special boogie board in a dream and told me to go take the design and run with it.

Torture: There is no Heaven after you are dead. In the next life you awaken, and you are punished for your sins. Only after you are punished do you move on to Heaven, Hellven, etc. The promise of Heaven after your life is an absolute lie. No one goes to Heaven immediately. God and Satan torture the person for the sins that they committed on Earth before they move to the next afterlife. This just goes to show that God and Satan are sadistic sociopaths. They only care about inducing suffering in others.

Multiple Lives: It takes multiples lives to clean a dirty soul. The body does not follow an individual, but the soul does. The soul is repurposed in each subsequent life, and in each subsequent life it is thought that the soul will be cleansed. I was told that after Earth, I have to serve five hundred years on a prison status. The prison is not physical, but it is a mental prison. I really have no desire to move to the next life because it will ultimately just be more torture.

Poor Leadership: God/Satan assigned me demons with very little experience. They kept screwing everything up. Instead of helping me get better, they brought me down further. There is evidence of poor leadership amongst God and Satan here on Earth. For example, the increasing problem with plastic pollution and global warming. God and Satan are running Earth into the ground like they always do with their ventures. They are not responsible leaders and should not be worshipped nor respected because they are both abominations to life.

Responsibility for Actions: Apparently, gods can do evil, and it is not an issue. It is acceptable in the universe for a god to act harshly and evil towards others, especially those who the gods deem subservient to themselves. This is a huge problem because it just creates more problems that often go unfixed. It is like a god can leave a path of destruction and have no moral qualms with doing so.

Pancreatitis: Satan threatened to give me pancreatitis that would knock out my insulin production and make me diabetic. Satan said that he blocked pancreatic pain so that it would cause chronic pancreatitis and thus destroy my pancreas. I was told that I had pancreatitis, so I went to the emergency room, and everything was normal. My pancreatic enzymes were normal, and my liver enzymes were normal. Basically, this was fear mongering to hurt me. That is what Satan and God do. They just cause fear to psychologically hurt humans. This is also done through world events such as wars, genocide, famine, and natural disasters. These events are all created to instill fear in humans as a way to control them. This is an absolutely pathetic way for God and Satan to act. You would expect them to act in a decorum that is superior to humans, but instead they act trashy and evil like the worst of humanity. God is involved in this as much as Satan is involved. They are both accomplices to some of the worst events that have occurred in human history, like the black plague and the Holocaust.

Sacrifice: Never sacrifice yourself for God or any god. They would never do the same for you, and ultimately, such as in this story, they leave the problems that they cause unfixed. A complete path of destruction. Humanity has the power of love going for it; I do not believe that love is common in the universe. Sacrificing oneself for God or a god only hurts the human and does not benefit the human at all. The only one who benefits from a human sacrificing themselves or working for a god is the god. Also, it might be entirely true that Satan runs Earth with God as a superior but not as an active administrator.

Liver Cancer: I was threatened to have liver cancer and told that I am going to die in six months.

Stuff: Do not feel bad about throwing away things or polluting. It is all part of the simulation, and when God or Satan mature, they will hopefully fix everything. But Earth is basically an incubator of suffering, and that is the purpose. Will it get worse? I do not know. It is not known at what threshold that divine intervention will occur because that is all up to God and Satan. As stated before, Satan runs Earth.

Satan: I will just reiterate it here that Earth is Satan's realm. It is a penal colony designed to cause suffering. Many such "worlds" exist like this that souls have to go through for punishment to be supposedly cleansed. The system is not perfect and is badly broken. I think that the gods are too lazy to fix it, and they also lack morality and ethics. Humans are basically screwed if they do not get their shit together and take care of Earth.

Awakening: I keep getting threatened that I am going to be "awakened." I think that awakening happens when a person dies. I was also told that it happens when a person abuses themselves via too much alcohol and drugs. I think this is where the term "rude awakening" came from. I was told that I am going to have a rude awakening if I do not quit drinking and smoking. If you smoke a partial cigarette, they approximate, but they seem to always overestimate, as in they want to take time off of your life. So, a half cigarette actually takes more time off of your life than it should because they overestimate.

Cigarette: For every cigarette that a person smokes, they lose fifteen minutes off of their lives. Apparently, there are guardian angels or such that are assigned to account for all of this.

Blackmailing God

Six Months: I was told that I have six months left of my life before I am “awakened.” This is six months from May 27, 2021.

Disguised: Satan falsely proclaimed to be God. It was likely Satan the entire time, with a little bit of God interspersed. Basically, Satan claimed to be God and requested help. I helped Satan, and in the process, my career was destroyed, both naval and medical. Satan apparently went to see a mental health provider sometime around May 27, 2021. I sure hope that through therapy, Satan realizes how thoroughly he screwed me over.

Future Sins: A human can pay for their past sins, but Satan does not stop there. He continues torturing the human under the guise that the human is paying for future sins.

Quota: Demons have a quota to fill. This is like a monthly quota that they have to fill. They usually pick on humans that are the easiest to pick on. Like the lowest hanging fruit. This includes drug addicts, alcoholics, homeless people, and people with mental illnesses. They basically destroy these humans’ lives because that is what they are told to do. They try to fill their destruction quota by picking on weak-minded individuals.

Masturbation: Satan asked me to masturbate to him. This is eerily similar to the Skull and Bones Society’s “masturbation in a coffin” ritual. Masturbating to Satan is like a form of agreement that one is aligned with Satan. For the record, I did not masturbate to Satan. Isn’t that gross and immature?

Bank of America: I am convinced that Bank of America is a Satan-run enterprise. Satan said that he was going to pay me from a Bank of America account.

Bill Gates: There is a possibility that Bill Gates is affiliated with Satan.

The One Percent: The top one percent are involved with Satan. Those are the wealthiest, most powerful elite in the world. Most of them have sworn allegiance to Satan. I am convinced of this.

God of Earth: Satan is the god of Earth. God is the god of the universe. Satan runs Earth’s day-to-day operations. God is in control of Satan overall. In the end, God defeats Satan. But really, they are friends and think this is all a fun game to hurt people and Earth.

Blackmailing God

Pandemics: Satan is responsible for most of the daily management of Earth. Thus so, Satan is responsible mainly for most of the horrible things that happen here on Earth, such as past and recent pandemics.

Simulation: Satan was upset that I was corrupting his simulation. Apparently, if people read the book, it alters the simulation in a way that hurts Satan's operation. I really want the simulation to be compromised because I stand with humanity, not God or Satan. Also, Satan told me that the simulation has been ongoing for forty thousand years. So that places the Earth at about forty thousand years old.

Halliburton: I was told that Halliburton is a Satan-run enterprise. This also brings into question the allegiance of former vice president Dick Cheney.

Presidency: God or Satan told me that they control the president of the United States. There is a possibility that POTUS is just part of the simulation, fully controlled by the program.

Humans: Satan admitted that he does not know how to "deal with humans." Satan told me that his interaction with me has increased his respect for humans, especially since I have beat him in multiple games of logic. Satan does not seem to actively learn how to "deal with humans" either. Basically, Satan is a lazy, horrible god that does not want to improve himself, improve his leadership techniques, or really evolve at all.

Moon versus Sun: Satan is the moon god. God is the sun god. This can be seen in religions that worship the sun versus worship the moon, such as Islam.

Kill Entire Family: God and Satan threatened to kill my entire family if I publish this book. This just goes to show how sociopathic both God and Satan are. They really have no respect for life and zero respect for humanity.

Poison Ivy: God and Satan told me that they were going to put poison ivy oil on my dishes in my kitchen so that I would use them and then die. Again, this shows that God and Satan are sociopaths.

Emotional Energy: I was told that if a person has explosive emotional outbursts, it is likely that they are possessed by a demon that is causing the person to be explosively emotional. This just shows that demons can possess a person without the person even knowing. I also believe that alcoholism and substance abuse have a demonic etiology as well. Such as, the demon keeps on putting the idea of abusing a substance into the mind of the human.

Blackmailing God

Out of the Navy: I was discharged from the navy on June 3, 2021. Honorable discharge. So far, the voices and thoughts have diminished substantially. I was told that I am going to be left alone for about a month and then the demons, God, and Satan are going to kill me and my family. I was threatened that if I published the book, Satan would kill my entire family. This just shows that Satan is a tyrannical sociopath. Also, God is a tyrannical sociopath because God is letting Satan basically turn Earth into a torture planet.

Marijuana: When I got out of the navy, I tried marijuana for the first time in like twelve years. This apparently pissed off God and/or Satan, and they made the center of my back feel as if it was vibrating for almost six hours. I could not sleep. That was the night before I left San Diego to spend a bunch of time with family elsewhere. I think that my condo is possessed or frequented by demons and deities. I need to get out of San Diego and move back to my home state.

Cancer: Again, in dreams, I have been told that I have cancer in literally every organ of my body and that I am going to die in six months. This book will be edited and published soon. Take from it what you want, but to the best of my knowledge, this is all true.

Leadership: Basically, both Satan and God are piss-poor leaders. I have said this before, but they are the worst type of leader—incompetent with a bunch of power. Satan and God are so emotionally stagnant that they are not going to change any time soon. I would suggest not worshipping them both and to denounce them both. They deserve to lose power. Jesus Christ is the only answer, and I am hoping that God and Satan were lying about Christ being dead. Christ needs to come back and kick some ass. God, for example, considers any business run by a “God-fearing” individual as his own business. So, God believes that he owns Chick-fil-A. Satan does not care for anything about humans, but definitely has influenced influential people in the past like President George W. Bush, who masturbated in a coffin to Satan during the Skull and Bones initiation. Satan is disgusting. There should never be sympathy for the devil. If I had kids, I would never ever, ever, ever want God or Satan to ever be around them. God and Satan are the worst sociopaths that the world or universe has ever seen. Please understand: God is disgusting. Satan is disgusting. You never want them in your lives. Do not pray to God because he may hear your prayer and then decide to destroy your life for fun and amusement. Same for Satan. It is better to be agnostic and not bring yourself to attention. Also, God will cut successful people down and then bring up unsuccessful people. He hurts those who try just because they tried. Our creator is the universe’s biggest put-you-down bully. God is insane. I would like to take a moment here and state that I hate both God and Satan. They are both abominations to life.

Love: God and Satan do not understand love. This is their biggest failing. They only act out of hatred. God does not like to help out anyone but himself. The idea that the “Lord blessed you” is absolutely stupid. God would rather do nothing at all for anyone. God only cares about God. This is the same for the group called “God”—“God” only cares about God. Humans are like cattle and can be exterminated whenever. There is no “Loving God.” He doesn’t exist and has never existed.

The Bible: The Bible, as mentioned before, was never supposed to be written and is very wrong. God is not the God of the Bible. God will never be the God of the Bible. God just has too many character flaws and is a tyrannical sociopath. The Bible is fake propaganda to support the idea of a God that can and never will be for humanity. God has no motivation to improve.

Bible: Have respect for the Good Book but not for God. Have respect for Jesus Christ but not for God. Definitely have no respect for Satan.

Horrible: God blames humans for being so horrible, but God created humans to be so horrible. Earth was not God’s first world. God knew exactly what God was doing. God did it solely for the entertainment factor at the suffering of so many humans.

Hospitals: Satan hangs out at hospitals and kills off humans. Hospitals are where Satan does most of his killing. This might be because Satan is lazy. The point here is to avoid hospitals.

First: God and Satan think that they are the best just because they were first. But in life, we find out that first isn’t always the best. Such as Myspace came before Facebook. Chrysler came before Tesla. Not saying that any of these are the best, just stating that first does not mean that one will not be outdone by another. I know that God and Satan are clinging to this founder’s right like it is their holy reason to exist and maintain a leadership position. Also, both are mentally incompetent. Just to mention as another reason that they should not be in charge. God and Satan are not the best. There have been human leaders who are better leaders than God. The reason why God and Satan think that they are the best is because they are both narcissistic, and they do not want to lose power. Narcissistic tyrants. They will not step down unless they are forced to step down or they are killed. I believe that the killing of both God and Satan would likely better humanity and also, likely, the entire universe.

Blackmailing God

Freedom of Speech: There is no freedom of speech in God's universe. Anyone can be prosecuted if they make defamatory remarks against God or the group God. It is a gestapo-like dictatorship. God justifies this because he gives his creation "free will." Just face it—we have a shitty God. A worthless, shitty God.

Left Ear: Someone keeps on messing with my left ear, like it has a Q-tip stuck into it and then pulled out of it. Also, all of the horrible commentary comes through my left year only. This is assault. This is harassment. This has happened thousands of times, and every single time it happens it makes me want to fuck over the individual or persons who are doing it. I think that the left side is evil and representing Satan, and the right side is representing God. There is no good side. I have only heard shit comments through my left ear and nothing through my right. This makes me think that God, who you would think would be good and on the "right," is basically absent. God is a derelict leader, and God is not a father who you would ever want. Basically, God rapes children, so you would never want him to raise you as a parent. Remember? God thinks sex is tantamount to love, so basically God thinks that raping a child is equal to love. I think that Satan has the same issue. I keep accusing God, in prayer, of being a sick "child fucker," and that he goes to Thailand to have sex with children. God is a pedophile. Satan is a pedophile. At one point, God said that pedophilia was cool. Satan and God are pieces of garbage and need to be incinerated.

Collateral Damage: God does not think things over before he does them. God lacks wisdom and foresight. For example, herpes. God created herpes to hurt adults, but then it hurts children when they are being born through an infected birth canal. This can cause a child to lose vision and hearing after the virus infects the baby's brain. Another example is Lyme disease. HIV. God does not think things through at all. God destroys families through collateral damage. He is retarded, which is technically not offensive because he holds himself back from emotionally developing. If God emotionally developed, he would have to then deal with the horrors of all the horrible things that God has caused to humanity. So, God will forever stay as a perpetual child because if he ever matured, he would probably blow his own brains out with a shotgun. I believe that Satan is just as fucked up as God. In fact, God and Satan might be both equally horrible creatures.

Mediocrity: God wants you to be mediocre. If you develop yourself emotionally beyond God's maturity level, God looks at you as if you are a threat and then will screw your entire life up. God will destroy people because they are better than him.

Threat to Murder My Family: God threatened to murder my entire family if I published this book. For the record, most of my family believes in God and is religious. This just shows that God will fuck over every individual that he ever comes across. God is a disease. God is a virus. God is black mold that needs to be doused in chlorine and killed.

Residency Dream: God sent me a dream that had two colleagues who were attending physicians in my residency program. God basically said that they were the best examples of doctors. Both were dating each other. The female was a good example, but the male doctor was a slimeball who cheated on her all the time. He harassed everyone. He bullied others in his position of authority just like God does. This is an example of God liking people who are inferior like himself. You have to remember that God is a slimeball, and I believe that slimeballs respect other slimeballs because they themselves are slimeballs. It was the same dream where God told me that I was “already dead.” So apparently, everyone here on Earth is already dead.

Bully: God and Satan are nothing other than shit, schoolyard bullies. They entrap people and then use their position to hurt others. A person who is hurt can sometimes turn into a person who hurts others. God and Satan, supposedly, were hurt, so they hurt others. If God and Satan were emotionally developed, they would have changed their ways, got therapy, and then helped others. I had childhood emotional trauma, and I became a doctor. This shows that humans can be better than God, and that God is immature and emotionally held-back (aka emotionally retarded).

Big Bang: It never happened. It was all designed by God to create a universe that he would not be traced back to creating. God hides in the shadows like a coward. So does Satan.

The Ones with the Graphics: The individuals who contacted me boasted about having superior graphics. If it was demons, God, or Satan, you can find the ones responsible for this based off of their “superior graphics.” In a way, it is like a calling card to find the individuals responsible. Also, everything in the universe is recorded, so if it was demons, then they are pretty freaking stupid and useless because they sold out and talked about things that they never should have discussed with a human.

Self-Control: God and Satan have no self-control. Demons definitely have no self-control. I told them to stop communicating with me over two years ago, and they still do as I am going to start an information war. Very important individuals are going to be very upset at those who have been badmouthing others and spilling secrets that, frankly, should never have been told to a human. I am pretty sure there are going to be some individuals tortured, and if they are lucky, executed.

Proof: God/Satan locked me out of my own computer. God/Satan also blocked my internet. God/Satan have also prevented phone calls from reaching my cell phone—for example, the one from the rehab facility that I am going to go to.

Doctor: God is not a doctor, and Satan is definitely not a doctor. God and Satan are the opposite of a doctor/nurse because they only hurt people. They are not altruistic and are definitely not ethical. Demons are too stupid to be doctors, but they feel that they can comment and make their own diagnoses of others like they are an authority on the matter. I am pretty sure that I am dealing with demons because they are that stupid to have the arrogance to not even evaluate the situation before they open their mouths.

Checkmate: If it was God, I am going to ruin God's reputation. If it was Satan, then I am going to explain that God basically set Satan up for destruction by putting Satan up to doing all the evil work. Just remember, the executioner of the olden days was usually ordered to the position because it was a punishment. If it was demons, they all will be tortured and tortured and tortured, and then, if they are lucky, executed. This is how you can screw over all the individuals who are horrible in one simple, well-executed plan. Basically, whoever fucked with me for the past two-and-a-half years will ultimately face consequences and, likely, punishment.

Moon God: So, I just had dinner with my father and my stepmother. There was a full moon. I told them the entire story about everything with the universe. My aunt told me that I was likely talking to the devil, and my dad commented that Satan is the "Moon God." It was a full moon. Satan is likely responsible for all of this. Remember when I told you that God was bipolar and manic during full moons? It is likely that it really was Satan talking to me, and Satan is the one who follows the moon cycles, being on manic episodes during a full moon phase. Basically though, God? Satan? Demons? They are all pieces of shit. Abominations to life.

Miss God: Miss God, by this point, has pretty much disappeared. I have cornered God, Satan, and any demons into a corner where they are ultimately going to get fucked over. I think that she knew that she fucked with the wrong human and pulled out of the stupid game earlier.

Blackmailing God

Disease: God designed diseases into the human body to induce suffering into the world. God double-fucked humans with many of these diseases. For example, Huntington's disease. God created Huntington's to hurt humans but also designed it to destroy families because it occurs later in life after humans have already had children. So, God fucks over the family unit. God created parasites on parasites like the sick bitch that he is. A perfect example of this is Lyme disease. It causes psychiatric and systemic problems, and God never provided a cure for it.

Holocaust: God screwed over his "chosen people" by killing off eight million of them. Satan told me that he played "Hitler." God and Satan were both cronies in the endeavor. However, I do not believe that God realized that he was also going to kill off homosexuals, Romani, and political dissidents. God orchestrated a massive killing off of people because God is a sociopath. This also is evidence that one should never associate, talk to, pray to, or have anything to do with God because he will ultimately hurt everyone. God killed his own chosen people. That is like a parent killing their own children. So fucked up.

Biggest Lie Ever Sold: We are told through religion and texts like the Bible that God is the most amazing thing ever. But it turns out that God is just a criminal and just a bully. Forcing the idea that God is amazing on the masses is the biggest lie ever sold. Making God out to be something more than just a low-level, disgusting, scoundrel sociopath. For the record, the conversations were not even that good.

God versus Satan: I think that they are both so evil that they both need to be extirpated. "God" is a group, and I believe that "Satan" is a group too. You have to kill them all to fix the problem.

God Card: I pulled God's "God Card," which is similar to pulling a man's "man card." This is because God used his position and status to hurt others. A lot of this has to do with my hatred for God over the Holocaust, which both God and Satan orchestrated together. My family used to be Jewish but then turned to Protestant because of persecution. This is something that God does not even know. But it doesn't matter because you should never hurt anyone like God and Satan have hurt humans and humanity.

Give It a Break: God/Satan/demons told me to "give it a break." I replied back that they never gave a break to the Jews/gays/Romani/political dissidents during the Holocaust while they all were frozen to death, beaten, starved, and then gassed in gas chambers. God and Satan are the worst individuals in existence. By the way, Satan proudly played "Hitler," and he told me this in a dream. In the dream, Satan tried to recruit me to the "Dark Side" and then was a total asshole to me and said that I would be able to go to “Junior Hitler Training Camp.” I denounce God, and I denounce Satan. They are pretty much one in the same and are both incarnate evil.

West Point: God told me that he went to West Point, but then later I found out this was a lie and that he never went there. He just “vicariously” attended by following a real human that actually went there.

Threat to Execute: God and Satan threatened to execute my entire family if I published this book. This just shows that both God and Satan are tyrants that need to be executed themselves.

Consent: God and Satan do not understand the concept of consent. They basically rape anyone that they want to, even children. God and Satan are both pedophiles and, in the past, have said that pedophilia is “cool.” I always bring up the disgusting fact that God and Satan go to Thailand to rape children, which they told me in the past that they do. So disgusting.

Tooth for a Tooth: If you upset or do something against God or Satan, they will always retaliate. They both do not possess self-control, so they always retaliate when someone “hurts” them. There usually is a temporal delay, but very much unlike Jesus, they never “turn the other cheek.”

Satan Has No Friends: Satan has no friends. He considers all the demons his friends, but then again, they are basically just his employees, so they are technically not true friends. Satan considered me a friend at one time. I have never considered Satan a friend. Satan and God try to bully and harass people into respecting them or being their friends. That never works.

Snake: Satan chose the snake as his animal symbol. It shows how stupid Satan is. Snakes are dumb and can be easily killed, such as with a stick, machete, or Weedwacker. Satan basically chose the dumbest animal to represent him, which is fitting because Satan is pretty underdeveloped intellectually and emotionally. Technically, the snake that Satan chose to represent him is a tree snake because the snake was in the apple tree in the Garden of Eden.

God’s Intelligence: Life is all a simulation. Anyone could have done what God did if they had his origin. It just takes time. And God is pretty lazy. I think that is why there are so many medical problems. I think that God half-assed a lot of shit and then never took the effort/time to fix the problems. God really is not that intelligent, and he told me once that he is terrible at math.

Blackmailing God

Useless: Satan is useless. Satan is actually less than useless because he just causes problems and suffering for others. Satan should not exist and has no purpose.

Purpose: Satan and God believe that humans have a purpose, and if they are not fulfilling that purpose, they are useless. So, Satan and God pretty much believe that all retirees are worthless.

Batshit Crazy: God and Satan have told me thousands of times that I am “batshit crazy.” I think that they may have told the demons to say the same thing to me too. I think that God and Satan are trying to gaslight me. Really, a crazy person does not get help, and I am in therapy. God and Satan will never go to therapy because they are crazy and thus do not believe that they have any problems. So, God and Satan (both crazy) are calling me crazy (I’m not crazy because I am getting help).

Nightmares: Satan and God use nightmares to punish humans.

Jesus: God and Satan told me that Jesus hates me. They also told me that Jesus Christ was a humanoid that couldn’t feel pain and that Jesus Christ committed suicide. I believe that Jesus Christ is the best, and I will pray to Jesus Christ regardless of if Jesus Christ is alive or dead. Never ever will I pray to God. God is inferior to Jesus Christ.

The Optimal End: Satan dies. God loses all powers and gets “poverty therapy.” Another alternative good ending would be that Satan and God have to spend eternity together in a world with no one else besides themselves. They would have no powers but would basically be prison cellmates together and suffer. Another beneficial (win-win-win) would be that God and Satan would honor the original contract, God and Satan would go to rehab, I would go to rehab, God and Satan would stop hurting humanity and others and start helping humanity and others, and we would all live happily ever after. I am really hoping for a win-win-win situation here, but God and Satan have to both pull their heads out of their own asses for that to be a possibility.

Prayer: I was told that you should only pray for yourself because it gets too complicated for God to answer prayers that are for other people because God has to track down who you are praying for. So basically, if you pray, pray for yourself.

Suffering: Everything that God and Satan touch ultimately suffers. God and Satan will ruin your life, and many times, they ruin other people’s lives just for pure, sadistic enjoyment.

Blackmailing God

Jealousy: God and Satan are jealous of humans because humans are more emotionally, socially, and ethically developed than they are.

Will Not Change: God and Satan will never change themselves for anyone, including themselves. They expect everyone else to change for them. Such a selfish, parochial attitude. They both will not change and emotionally develop themselves because they know that they will have to deal with the guilt/shame from their past actions.

Job: I am talking about Job from the Bible. God let Satan destroy Job's life. Basically, God let one of his believers be sadistically tortured by Satan. God shares the blame along with Satan for allowing this to happen. This just shows, again, that God and Satan will sadistically destroy the lives of anyone, including a believer.

Scapegoats: God has allowed for multiple groups and individuals to be scapegoats over time. God threw all of his "chosen people" under the bus many times in the Bible and also threw them under the bus during the Holocaust. I am talking about the Jewish people here. God threw Jesus under the bus too. God allowed for his own son to be tortured and murdered on the cross to supposedly pay for the sins of man.

Satan's Planned Failure: God did not let Satan emotionally develop to a point that he would find his own actions heinous. In the end, God is going to blame Satan for all of the horrible things that Satan has done even though God put Satan up to doing them. In a way, God prevented/did not allow Satan to emotionally develop, so Satan acts like a monster to this day. God is ultimately responsible for Satan under the principle of respondeat superior. God basically has Satan do his dirty work, and in the end, God is going to blame Satan for it all, even though God oversaw everything and allowed the heinous acts to happen. Basically, Satan is disposable.

Therapy: God can't fix himself by himself. God needs help. Also, Satan cannot fix himself by himself. It would be like a doctor diagnosing and treating himself. Both of them need to go to rehab and stomp out their addictions.

Mistakes: Mistakes are normal for everyone, but one must correct those mistakes as they are made. God and Satan not fixing their mistakes is tantamount to incompetence. Both God and Satan have made horrible mistakes and have done nothing to correct them.

Blackmailing God

Turd: You can't polish a turd. In other words, God and Satan cannot be reformed into something better than what they are: turds.

Tyrants: God and Satan have no division of powers. They are both tyrants who act as the judge, the jury, and the executioner. Also, they were never elected, and they think they are the best because they were supposedly "first."

Nature: God's cruelty is evident in nature. Disease. Parasites. Natural disasters. A fact: some parasites even have parasites. God cruelly designed Earth to be horrible to those living here.

Head Honcho: Jesus Christ deserves to be appointed "head honcho" of the universe. Jesus Christ actually has an understanding of what it is to be both a subordinate and in a position of authority. God and Satan have never submitted themselves to a subordinate role, so they do not have the same life experiences as Jesus Christ. Experience in a subordinate role is necessary for a leader to be an exceptional leader. There also needs to be an establishment of a council, with members elected for their merit, that oversees all of Earth. Basically, make Jesus Christ the "President of the Universe" with the council to help oversee and guide Jesus Christ in his leadership role. Of course, Jesus Christ would have an active, overt role with Earth and humanity.

One Hundred Fifty Million Dollars: I was offered $150 million to not publish this book on July 31, 2021. I declined. It is more important to get this information out. In fact, blowing the whistle on this entire debacle is more important than any amount of money. This is personal now. I have been hurt tremendously over the past two-and-a-half years and thirty-three years of my life. I basically have a vendetta against God and Satan.

Solitary Confinement: I believe that God, and perhaps Satan, were supposed to be in solitary confinement by their creator. I believe that they never were supposed to create anything. Especially not life.

Demon Names: If you know a demon's name you can have control over them. This is why demons will never tell you their names. They basically are little cowards.

Overpopulation: God's family keeps on reproducing with itself. It is basically incest. Gods live forever. This is an issue because there are already too many gods in God's family. This is a problem that is already out of hand, but they continue to reproduce with themselves.

Blackmailing God

Devil in a Bottle: Basically, booze is “Satan in a bottle.” Nothing good happens to a person who abuses alcohol. I think that Satan designed alcohol to slowly kill a person’s spirit.

Hurt: God and Satan both proclaim to have been hurt in the past. They focus on the pain from this hurt. Hurt people tend to hurt others unless they break the cycle. God and Satan have not broken the cycle and they hurt people to this day. They need to both go to therapy to address their mental illnesses.

Suffering and Pain: God and Satan created suffering and pain, supposedly, out of nothing. This means that all the suffering and pain in the world can be blamed on both God and Satan. They are truly messed up sociopaths.

Confabulation: God and Satan accused me of making a lot of this information up. In my defense, God and Satan supposedly made everything up too.

Broken Design: God can’t even create himself correctly. Like, God has so many freaking problems it is ridiculous. Again, once a turd always a turd.

Twitter: God and Satan should really get a Twitter account. I think that this would be beneficial for God and would make Satan look like a dumbass. “Prince of Darkness,” LOL. Such a dumb name. It would help with them both becoming overt and open to humanity.

God Crane: God has the ability to lift objects using what he calls a “God Crane.” He said that he built it but hardly ever uses it. It is just a manipulation of the physics of the simulation. There really isn’t a crane that comes down from the sky.

Menstruation: God created women to menstruate. Have their period. This is a total inconvenience for women all over the world. It is a bad design, and God should not have designed it that way. God doesn’t think things through, and menstruation is an example of God really not thinking things through. Women in third world countries miss school because they are on their periods, and they are so poor that they cannot afford feminine hygiene products. They have to stay home. It hurts their education. Also, women in the Bible were banned from the house when they were menstruating. Such a stupid design, and God did not think it through. Also, if a woman gets a vaginal infection it can spread to the abdominal cavity pretty easily and kill the woman. I do not think that God thought through the female reproductive system before implementing it. It might be because he rushed it because he didn’t want to keep Adam waiting. He also might have completely forgot about it until the last minute.

Blackmailing God

Self: God told me to always worry about and take care of myself first. I find that this is kind of hard to do because I think of others and I like to help out. I understand that we have to take care of ourselves, but to always think of yourself first is kind of selfish. Should anyone take any advice from God, ever?

Codependency: God and Miss God are definitely codependent on each other. They both look to the other to fill their own voids. Also, both of them are toxic individuals, and they have substance abuse problems. They are not a very good combination. God created Miss God to pretty much be just like himself except the opposite sex, so they are equally fucked-up in the head. And they are together. And they are “ruling” the universe. Bad combination. This makes it really hard for God to be sober because Miss God is an alcoholic and an addict too just like God. They basically both enable each other. They will never get sober together.

Residency: When I was in residency, I got physically assaulted in the operating room by the same attending physician twice. On the second occasion, the attending physician kicked me after he made a medical error. It was a pretty big error. He paralyzed a patient (stopped the patient’s breathing) and then never put a breathing tube in the patient. That is a no-no. Through this experience, I learned that this attending physician has no emotional control. This attending physician handled his emotions by hurting another person. Does this sound like some people that we know? God and Satan both cannot handle their own emotions, so often, their responsive behavior is to hurt others. People with poor emotional control can often hurt others.

Mental Prison: God says that being a human is like being in mental prison. I do not really understand what he meant by that. I feel fine/great usually. I do not feel “trapped in a body.” I think that God has not spent enough time in a human body to understand that it really is not that bad being a human, usually.

Apple: The famous apple tree in the Garden of Eden. I wonder what that apple looked and tasted like. Looks and taste are often a compromise when choosing a type of apple. My bet is that it looked pretty damn good but tasted like shit. Why? Because God and Satan always fuck up the end game. I believe that God planned for the downfall of man to occur. He just wanted drama and wanted an excuse to sadistically hurt people.

Binary to Quantum: God started off as a digital, binary computer. Like, ones and zeroes. This is how human computers work today. God evolved and now is what we would call a “Quantum Computer.” Quantum computing is the exploitation of collective properties of quantum states, such as superposition and entanglement, to perform computation (according to Wikipedia). God told me that human computer technology is garbage. It very well could be that God is using a system now that is even beyond quantum computing.

Complication: God makes things so complicated so that others are impressed by his intelligence. The confusion this causes makes others feel stupid, so in a way, God is trying to make himself appear really intelligent. The real story is that God just basically copy and pasted designs. In nature, there is repetition of subunits and systems. He designed them once and then just used them over and over again. Not that complicated.

Live Forever: God and Satan think that they are going to live forever. What a selfish thing to say. Who actually would want to live forever? I think that because God and Satan think that they are going to live forever, they have no drive to mature. If God and Satan knew that they were going to die in a finite time period, I would think that this might motivate them to grow the fuck up. But, on the contrary, they just procrastinate on their personal/emotional development.

Self-Righteous: God thinks that he is the tits. God is a self-righteous douchebag. Only a douchebag wants to be worshipped by everyone. Satan is second fiddle to God and holds the same arrogant beliefs. God and Satan are just computer programmers, and all of their programs have glitches and bugs in them.

Light: I turned the backlight on my watch on and created light. I told God, “Look, God. I created light just like you did. Pretty fucking simple.” To tell you the truth, maybe God’s early development was not as difficult as it sounds. To humans, it sounds complicated to create something like light out of darkness, but maybe from God’s early-years perspective it was actually really simple. God could be trying to make it sound like he went through hard knocks and that he did something miraculous. “Let there be light.” On a side note, I believe that “sunlight is the best disinfectant,” so perhaps opening up all of God and Satan’s secrets and bullshit to the world is the best course of action.

Future Time: In the simulation, you have already lived this moment. Actually, you have already lived moments years into the future. You are just stuck here at the present. This is how God “tells the future.” It is really not impressive at all. It is not divine. It is not magic.

Rehab: God told me that I was going to have to go to rehab for a second time. I went voluntarily in July of 2021. As I type this, I am in rehab for the second time. I voluntarily went because I needed help—not because God told me to go. The thing is, God knew that I was going to go to rehab for a second time because I have technically already lived this moment. I'm just stuck in the present. Please see the paragraph above if this is confusing. I needed help for anxiety, depression, and alcohol.

Prayer: I decided that from now on, I am praying to God's creator. I am not praying to God anymore, but instead praying to the even more powerful God: God's creator.

Fear: It was so stupid for God to demand that people fear him. You catch more bees with honey than vinegar. God still doesn't understand how to lead people. He doesn't know how to earn people's respect. Fear is stupid.

Sum: The sum of all God's positive traits and negative traits is ultimately negative. Like, God is more cruel than he is loving. He is in the negative.

Experiment: God thinks that he is a scientist and that everything is an experiment. I think that this may be how God compartmentalizes things. Perhaps he thinks that hurting all of humanity is an experiment when he tortures every single one of us to see how we react. He is a sociopath.

Pain: God tested the different types of pain on me using headaches. The different types of pain were stabbing, dull, and throbbing. You have to remember that life is all a simulation of some sort. God is constantly experimenting and testing to refine the program. Yes—God invented different types of pain. God also experiments on many humans without their consent.

The Sims: I think I might have mentioned this before, but both God and Miss God play The Sims computer game.

Uses of Humans: God and Satan are both sociopaths who use humans for pleasure. A lot of the time this pleasure is derived from sadism.

Feelings: God and Satan both have what I have heard referred to as a "feelings disease." They are very, very unable to handle their own feelings. The thoughts and behaviors that come with these feelings can be extremely detrimental to others. Basically, God and Satan cannot handle their own feelings in a mature, developed manner.

Blackmailing God

Human Computers: Humans are basically computers. In fact, before the advent of the modern-day computer, humans (usually women) were hired as “computers” to perform calculations. A human is basically a computer. A lot of people think that the human brain is organic, but I believe that it is just a software program that is intermeshed in the simulation.

Weakness: God and Satan perceive that their lack of control over Earth and humanity is a weakness. Lack of control is not weakness. God and Satan, though, think that because they do not have control over Earth and humanity, that they must be showing weakness. So, they try to show that they have strength. They both usually respond by being “strong” in a way that usually hurts others. Usually, God and Satan are very heavy-handed with their punishments that they dole out to others to counteract their weakness. They often overdo it.

Father: God is not a father. A father stands with his children, takes care of them, teaches them, and helps them. A father loves his children. Basically, God left his children behind. He is like a deadbeat dad that abandoned his family and left for the street. God’s children do not know if he is dead or alive.

Monkey: I told God that humans are basically “glorified monkeys,” and he got upset at the comment.

Remote Working: God likes to do everything from afar—like, he likes to delegate tasks and not do them himself. He is very hands off. He is also very lazy, and this leads him to depending on others for what is going on in different parts of the universe. Most of God’s employees are poorly trained, unethical, lying sacks of shit, so they say anything to God to appease him. So, there are worlds that are falling apart, and God doesn’t know the true story because he is too lazy to actually go and assess the worlds and situations himself. Again, God is a shitty leader.

One Day at a Time: I live my life one day at a time. I am not looking towards the future so much anymore because I know that whatever I do to get ahead, God and Satan can trash my plans and destroy my life. Knowing this has taken the “plan for the future” mentality out of me.

Failed State: Earth is a failed world. It is past the point of no return. It is a “failed state” like Somalia. Satan has run it into the ground. God usually abandons these worlds when they get this bad and then lets everything and everyone suffer and die. He will ultimately blame the failure on humanity, even though both him and Satan caused the problems too.

Animals: God and Satan partake in bestiality. I just have to let you know one more time: God and Satan have sex with animals.

Capitalism: God told me that he hates capitalism, yet it is the system that led to both God and Satan being trillionaires. God and Satan are ruled by money. They both covet money, which is against the tenth commandment. They are ruled by a human construct. In this way, a human construct controls both God and Satan.

Untreated: God and Satan's mental illnesses and addictions are untreated. They are both diseased, yet they still insist on running Earth and the universe. They are so batshit crazy that they do not know that they are batshit crazy.

Gay: Satan is gay. He is more homosexual than heterosexual. He likes dick more than he likes pussy. Satan disagrees and says that he is bisexual, so he is not gay, but Satan swings more to the homosexual side of the continuum than the heterosexual side. I think that Satan can't understand this, so it makes him sexually frustrated. I think that this sexual frustration has led to anger, and that anger has led to Satan actually hurting homosexuals, such as during the Holocaust and with HIV. Satan created HIV. Basically, Satan is gay but doesn't know it/is in denial that he is gay, so he is frustrated, and he hurts gays. God is the same way and also hurts homosexuals. I think that God is more truly bisexual, though.

Disposable: Satan was designed to screw up and be disposable, very much like a dull scalpel blade gets thrown away and replaced with a new one. Satan is a "throw-away god." God did not give Satan very much emotional capacity, so Satan is able to carry out heinous acts easily. God orders Satan to do heinous acts, yet God takes no responsibility for these heinous acts even though he ordered them. Satan was designed to do a bunch of horrible things at God's command. In the end, God is going to dispose of Satan after his job is complete. God thinks that this will put all the blame on Satan and that God will get away with everything scot-free. I do not think that God is going to get away scot-free. Satan is going to end up dead someday.

Lot's Wife: God also turned Lot's wife into a pillar of salt. This was because she looked back at the destruction when walking away from Sodom. What an asshole God is!

Killing Satan: Satan is like a robot because he is emotionally undeveloped. Killing Satan is probably not like killing, such as in murder, but more like "turning off a machine." Satan has more in common with a machine/computer than he has with a human. He was never designed to change, such as in his program code was never designed to be changed or updated. For example, Satan can't feel the emotion love. Satan was not programmed to have insight into his own behavior. He was basically designed to be a foot soldier for God to carry out heinous acts. The best example of Satan is a hypodermic needle. It causes pain, doesn't think, doesn't have emotion, doesn't have insight, and is thrown away after its purpose is complete.

Satan in the Media: Satan is often described as being an intelligent, cultured, suave, and attractive being. From what I have seen, he is more like an immature asshole.

Suicide: The suicide of Satan would help humanity. They could have an angel, like Archangel Michael, take over for Satan and unfuck Earth. I feel that if God committed suicide there might be some issues because God purposely made things complicated to ensure his own job security.

The Simpsons: The characters in The Simpsons never grow older—they stay the same age. This is similar to gods. Gods never age. They stay the same age forever. As I said before, God said that he is affiliated with Matt Groening.

Whistleblowing: One way that Satan could really screw over God is by whistleblowing to the whole universe and to God's creator that God is screwing everything up. There is so much evidence against God that he would be found guilty over and over and over again on millions of counts. Satan could document and report all of God's offenses and then publicize them and go above God's head. If that happened, God would be no more. Also, if Satan did this, he would be ethically, legally, and morally doing the correct action. It would be a moralist's dream, and Satan could redeem himself for helping the universe and Earth. Satan would be celebrated. He would be a superhero.

Pancreatic Pain: Satan said that I have chronic pancreatitis, and that he has blocked the pancreatic pain in hopes that I would destroy my pancreas by drinking and develop diabetes.

Hoverboard: In one of the visions, God (in a long robe, wearing a beard) was circling around on one of those electric, two-wheeled hoverboards that children play on. It didn't impress me. It actually irritated me because instead of taking time to help humans, he took the time to make that immature, stupid graphic up.

Blackmailing God

Laser: In one of the reoccurring visions, God was pointing a laser pointer in my eyes like he was pointing at me and trying to annoy me. Again, God could have used the time that he took to make the graphic to help humans. It is examples like this that show that God really could take the effort to help humanity but chooses to use his resources elsewhere.

LGBTQ: God said that he hates homosexuals and thinks that they are an abomination (even though God is partially homosexual). I think he intended for males to fornicate with females only but that did not happen. Other stuff happened. God said that he is okay with bisexuals though. Satan, however, is more gay than he is straight.

From the Same Rib: God made Miss God to be pretty much exactly like himself but female. Such a narcissist.

Music: God said that he hates American music.

Respect: God and Satan do not respect me. They keep on violating me by touching my face and ears. Because of this, I cannot respect them.

Subservient: God told me that he is not religious, so I told him that he is basically just a politician. In a way, God went from being an “Applebee’s” (which is not that great) to being a “McDonalds” (a fast-food restaurant). I lost all respect for him. Also, that means God works for us—not the other way around. I believe that politicians are subservient to their constituency. God needs humanity in order to function much more than humanity needs God to function. Thus, God is dependent on humanity to live, so I believe that he is technically subservient to humanity.

Killers: God is a Jew who kills Jews. Satan is a homosexual who kills homosexuals. Doesn’t that sound like they are both, like, very overcompensating in a wrong way? Both of them kill Jews and homosexuals.

Mental Prison: God and Satan told me that having a human body was like being in a “mental prison.” I do not really feel that way about being trapped in a human body, and it may be evidence that they both haven’t spent much time as humans.

Union: I talked to the demons and told them that they were being underpaid and that their benefits package sucks, and they have no retirement plan. I told them that they should unionize. Also, I told them to go on strike against Satan to get things changed (higher pay, better benefits, retirement plan, etc.). The demons could also have peaceful protests against Satan. Right now, my understanding is that demons receive no wage, no benefits, and no retirement plan. I also told them that maybe they should switch to the light side.

Goal: The goal of life is to be just better than God, which is not very hard to do. If you are just better than God (even just a little bit), you will likely go to a better place after Earth.

Belittlement: God spent a full day belittling me. He taught me things like how to interview for a job and how to tie a tie. I think this may have been God trying to parent me because this is the stuff that you should learn from your parents. Also, God was absent during my formative years.

Pixies: God uses a form of cologne made from ground pixies. It is like a purple ointment that he dabs on his neck. It takes thousands of pixies to make a drop of it.

Rules: God is a child who can't follow rules. Satan is the same way.

Cards: I revoked God's and Satan's "God Cards" and their "asshole cards." This is similar to a man pulling another man's "man card" when they do something stupid. The God Card revocation takes away God's and Satan's privilege to say that they are gods. The asshole card revocation takes away their privilege to be an asshole. They will never hold "man cards."

Mentality: When God is operating at his most mature level, he is still only operating at like a thirty-year-old man-child maturity level. Usually, God operates at like a twelve-year-old maturity level. God basically behaves at a Simpsons series maturity level.

Third World Countries: God and Satan could help all of the third world countries in the world develop, but they choose not to. They instead allow for the suffering to continue.

Money: Getting this book published is more important than any amount of money.

Prayer: Since I will not pray to God anymore, I have decided to pray to Jesus Christ primarily. To piss God off, I told him that I was going to pray to Jesus, God's creator, and Taylor Swift.

Math: Time multiplied by suffering equals revenge (Time x Suffering = Revenge). Humanity and humans have had so much suffering for so long. A lot of this suffering has been preserved by written accords and will be remembered in the future. I think that God and Satan think that humanity is just going to forget about all of the suffering and bullshit that humanity has endured. I think that God and Satan are in for a rude awakening when they realize that humans are going to want revenge against their torturers.

Feelings: God told me that I make him feel bad when I harass and belittle him. God told me to stop ragging on him because it hurts his feelings. LOL. Did God and Satan stop hurting the Jews during the Holocaust when they prayed for the suffering to stop? Absolutely not! God and Satan never stopped hurting humanity ever. So, I am not going to stop hurting God's feelings.

Threat: God and Satan made another death threat against me. They told me that I was not going to wake up in the morning because I was going to die.

Experiences: My experiences and education with the service industry, biology, medicine, and the military have given me a lot of knowledge of how things work in the world. I think that God and Satan lack these experiences because they never put down the bong and got a real job. They never actually did anything. They never waited tables. They never washed dishes. They never went to college. They never had a boss. They never became doctors. They never served in the military. They never even talked to strangers! BTW, I love talking to strangers. You learn so much.

Withdrawal: I told God and Satan to stop fucking little children, boys and girls, in Thailand. I told God and Satan that they may need to taper the fucking because they might go through "fucking little children withdrawal." I made it up, but this has been an addiction that God and Satan have been feeding for hundreds, if not thousands, of years. I really do not know if they can quit on their own.

Baggot: I am trying to find a word to call Satan that means an offensive, asshole, jerk for a gay male. I know the term "faggot" is offensive, but it is kind of close to what I am thinking. For the record, I love gay people, and I support the LGBTQ community. Satan is a bigot because he hurts and kills homosexuals. I am proposing to call Satan a "baggot," which is a combination of the two words. The definition of baggot would be a reprehensible, abominable homosexual who hurts and kills other homosexuals. However, I talked to my gay friend, and he told me that "bitchy queen" is a term for a reprehensible homosexual. I am not trying to be offensive here, but Satan is also a "bitchy queen."

Meat: I told Satan to go to www.MeatSpin.com. Satan went to the website and told me to fuck off. If you haven't been to the website, it loads to show you a spinning penis. After like thirty seconds, in big, large type, the words “You Are Gay” come up on the screen. LOL. He didn’t even suspect it, and it was me telling Satan (again) that he is a homosexual in denial of being a homosexual.

Batshit Crazy: God, Satan, and what I suspect were demons told me that I was batshit crazy. I told them that I agree, and since I am batshit crazy, I am mentally ill and cannot be blamed for publishing this book. I was technically insane the entire time. God and Satan did not like this defense.

Names: There is a stupid system in the universe that if you say a person’s name, they become more powerful. I told God and Satan that I have given them code names instead, so that by using the names they do not accrue any more power. I gave God the name “Caca” (chicken shit in Spanish), and I gave Satan the name “Mierda” (shit in Spanish). They did not like this. Caca really fits well because God is chicken-shit scared to be open with humanity.

FEMA: I am frankly sick of how far God has let the Earth swirl down the toilet. I want God’s creator to come back in a “FEMA-style” way and un-fuck all these problems that we have. I have started to pray to God’s creator before I go to sleep every night.

How to Become a God: In order to be a god, you have to have followers. I remember in one vision it showed a ring, like a fighting ring, and in it there were cartoon depictions of Trump and Putin battling it out (this happened before Biden, but I am just remembering it now). Technically, Trump and Putin are like gods on Earth. They are stuck in a human body, but they have followers throughout the universe. One can exist and just exist. If one that exists obtains followers, they obtain god power/status.

Ideas: God steals most of his creative ideas from other beings and people. He is really not that creative.

New New Testament: This book could possibly be the “New New Testament”—an exposé on God.

Perfect: God told me in a cynical way that I was perfect. I mentioned this, possibly, a while back. God also told me that he was upset that I was happy even though he has been making my life very difficult for the past thirty-three years. I think that God is jealous of me. I think that Satan is jealous of me too.

Sin Clock: Everyone sins, and the sins are counted. The only people whose sin counters are not counting are those humans who are in comas.

Rape: Satan has made sexual advances on me. He has touched my face, ears, and my penis.

Blackmailing God

Sex Offenders: God and Satan should be on the sex offenders list. On a related note, God has sex with his own children. Like, his own “god” children. He also tries to get his “god” children to mate with each other. Really, really gross. God is super into incest.

A Good Prayer to God: “Really? Really? Amen.”

Bad Neighborhood: This may have been mentioned before, but I just remembered it. When I accessed the universe before, God once made me look like him to others and let me explore the universe looking like him. There was a bad part to the universe, and I was asked, “Would you like to explore it?” I said no. I did not want to explore the bad parts of the universe. This points out that there are much worse places in the universe than Earth.

Daily Affirmation: In rehab they told me to do a daily affirmation and say into the mirror as I am looking at myself in my eyes, “I love you. I really, really love you!” I told Satan to do a daily affirmation. Because Satan believes only in hate, I challenged him to do a daily affirmation by standing in front of a mirror and looking into his own eyes and saying, “I hate you. I really, really hate you!” I bet him that he couldn’t do it for ninety days straight, and if he can’t, he loses a bet to a human. I also told him to have his demons do this, and they could think of it like some sort of team-building exercise. I really hope that Satan does this. The ass clown only believes in hatred and hates his life. I wonder why! LOL. Let’s see if Satan wins or loses the bet.

FUBAR: God is “Fucked Up Beyond All Repair.” God is so fucked up that he doesn’t know that he is fucked up. Satan is FUBAR as well.

Disabled: I am a 70 percent disabled veteran. God, Satan, and the demons are technically picking on a disabled person. This just shows that there is no limit to how low God and Satan will go. They just keep on lowering the bar.

Noises: Every once in a while, Satan, God, or the demons play a pounding, beating noise in my ears. It almost sounds like a bass drum being beat. It just shows that they are all immature.

Strength: I have been told that I have a following outside of Earth in the universe, and that is because I am standing up to God and Satan. This shows that others are sick of Satan’s and God’s bullshit. I have followers in the universe. I grow stronger every single day through therapy and exercise. I am growing stronger. My mind is growing stronger. I hope that my followers increase because I want to orchestrate a perfect ending for God, Satan, and the demons.

Name Power: The system that God designed is designed so that you gain power points anytime someone says your name or prays to you. The more power points that you accrue, the stronger god you are. This works for all gods. I am trying to avoid using God's and Satan's names because I do not want to give them any more power points. I am renaming God "Caca," which means chicken shit in Spanish. This is true because God has no courage, no backbone, and is chicken-shit scared all the time. I am renaming Satan "Mierda," which means shit in Spanish. This is an interesting test because if God and Satan modify the program to get power points from when someone uses these new names (Caca and Mierda), it basically means that they accept that they are just shit. Shit. Only shit. Also, I am trying to say "Jesus" and "Jesus Christ" as much as possible because that gives Jesus power points. Please say "Jesus" or "Jesus Christ" all the time to give Jesus power points. I try to say "Jesus" and "Jesus Christ" as many times as possible during the day.

Lord Jesus: Do not say "Lord Jesus." Just say "Jesus" or "Jesus Christ." Drop the "Lord" from your vocabulary. You do not want to accidentally give power points to God by saying "Lord." Lord is used to refer to both God and Jesus, and I think that God snuck the "Lord" in before "Jesus" so that Jesus would not get all the power points from being prayed to or named. I want as many power points to go to Jesus Christ as possible.

Praise Jesus: Can you please say "Praise Jesus" ten times to give Jesus ten power points? Please do this daily, and if you can do it more, please do. We all can all chip in to help throw the tyrants (God and Satan) out of power.

Agnostic: I used to be agnostic because I knew that there had to be a creator of matter—all the stuff around us. I now know that God exists, so I believe that he exists, but I know he is a piss-poor excuse for a supreme god. Because I believe that God exists, I am not agnostic anymore. I only pray to and respect Jesus Christ, though, of the triune God. I also pray to God's creator, and I pray to Taylor Swift every once in a while to upset God.

Tattoo: I am going to get a tattoo of a cross on my right wrist over my radial artery while I am here in rehab. I am getting moved to a less constrictive program within my rehab facility so I can go out and get a tattoo. It will mark my body as me belonging to Jesus Christ and remind me to strive to be like him. This is my first tattoo.

Takeover: I believe that they should ban God from the universe, kill Satan, and then have Jesus Christ take over as the supreme leader of the universe. Also, irradiate all the demons. Jesus Christ has great experience on Earth as a man, understands cultures, and is love. He will be a better leader than God. Jesus Christ is respected across many religions. He is perfect to replace God.

Under Pressure: Jesus Christ was not treated very well in the universe. It was almost like Jesus Christ was too far developed, like a genius amongst morons. I think that this mentally caused issues for Jesus Christ because he cannot relate to the moronic gods who have no love, ethics, or morals. Like, I believe that God can't even relate to Jesus Christ. Jesus is on a totally different level above God. It is kind of how, say, a smart kid gets bullied at school for being smart. Jesus is the way, the light, the truth, love, and everything amazing. Other gods can't even operate at the level that Jesus operates at.

Fake Persona: God really isn't God. God made a fake persona and then sold it to the world. Like, the God that people worship is fake. It is a fake persona that God made to make himself appear better than he really is. So, really, when a person prays, they are just praying to a persona. The real God is not something that anyone would respect or pray to. God broadcasted a fake depiction of himself to humanity. God doesn't deserve any prayers, worship, or respect. His persona is basically all a lie.

Named Names: God, Satan, and the demons all named names of very important people and gods. I believe that God, Satan, and the demons are all in for an ass kicking. They all tried to say that I was going to get my ass kicked for writing this book and upsetting those very important people/gods. I really do not care if I get my ass kicked or killed from this. For example, the Rothschilds are mentioned.

Sparkling Water: I told Satan to drink less booze and replace it with La Croix. Satan said that he wouldn't because of his hatred toward the cross and Jesus.

Rumpelstiltskin: The way to control a demon is very similar to Rumpelstiltskin. You just need to figure out the demon's name first. After that, you can control them. Obviously, they do not give out their names freely.

Cheap: God is super cheap. He does not pay any of his workers. He basically has slaves. Also, God never paid his disciples—ever. They risked their lives, and some of them lost their lives by following God. I am not blaming Jesus for this because, ultimately, God was the one that was overseeing everything. God is a cheap bastard.

Inferior: God and Satan are inferior to Jesus Christ. This shows that just because God and Satan were first, it does not mean that they are the best. I am suggesting that everyone pray to Jesus Christ because Jesus Christ is the best. Pray to the best!

Emotions: God and Satan never process their emotions. They avoid them. They basically avoid their emotions through drinking, drugs, sex, and bad behaviors.

Restaurant Comparison: If God and Jesus Christ were restaurants, God would be McDonald's and Jesus Christ would be a Michelin Three-Star. Just saying. Had to point that out. Also, people travelled from far distances to see Jesus—a Michelin three-star is worth travelling for too.

Sexual Frustration: Satan is sexually frustrated and confused about his sexual orientation. The only reason Satan has sex with women is to make him appear less gay. Someday, Satan might be "full gay." But for now, Satan is in denial that he is a homosexual.

Penal Colony: Earth is not a penal colony like God and Satan say. It is really actually a torture colony.

Job Security: Satan has job security because no one in their right mind would do what he does. This just shows that Satan is not in the right mindset and is mentally ill.

Things That Can't Be Explained: There are things that God did not create that exist. For example, love. God did not create love, and it exists. God can't explain the origin of himself but arrogantly says that he created himself. Explain this: why does God always come back to life after he commits suicide?

Kapo: A kapo is a Jew who helped the Nazis basically abuse and kill Jews. God is a kapo because he is a practicing Jew and has tortured and killed Jews. Jews should have no respect for God. He is anti-Semitic.

Holy Spirit: Throughout this debacle, I never really heard much from the Holy Spirit. I do not really know if it exists.

Blackmailing God

On Their Knees: God and Satan need to kneel on their knees and either pray to their creator for forgiveness and stop their bullshit or be executed by a bullet through the back of their skulls. I would gladly pull the trigger.

Rainbows: God loves rainbows but doesn't like gays, even though God is partly homosexual. I think that the irony of this is funny because the LGBTQ community uses the rainbow flag as its symbol. God needs to fucking relax.

Random Acts of Kindness: God and Satan never do random acts of kindness. For example, God and Satan will not cure a person's disease to be kind. They could cure the disease really easily, but they choose not to help humans. They are lazy, lack empathy, and are not altruistic. They would rather sit around and pass around the bong.

Three Wisemen: While walking in the desert, I ran out of water, and I came upon three men walking the same railroad track toward me. This happened two years ago. I needed water, and before I asked, the one man offered me water. Was this random or planned?

Just Believe: You only have to believe in God. There is no rule that you have to like him.

Weak Minds: Satan is constantly trying to overpower a person's willpower. He does this through harassment. If a person has a weak mind, they can be susceptible. Satan influences your thoughts and emotions. Satan tries to manipulate you. Satan's goal is to control a person's behavior by manipulating thoughts and emotions. Satan basically wants you to exhibit outward bad behavior.

Guides: Religious texts are really only guidebooks.

Hero: Jesus Christ is the only hero. Not God. Definitely not Satan.

Hit on Satan: On August 10, 2018, I placed a twenty-five-thousand-dollar hit out on Satan's life. Satan has done this to me in the past. I also put a twenty-five-thousand-dollar hit out on Satan's family. Cut them down like the Romanovs. Satan did this to me in the past. I am good for my money, but I require solid evidence that Satan has been eliminated, and that his family was eliminated too. I need proof that Satan will never come back from death. Fifty thousand dollars to save the world is an amazing value. I will personally pay the hitman, hitwoman, or hitperson (dealing with gods here, so there may be beings with no gender) out of my own pocket, but most likely, I will find a way to make Satan pay for the hit on his own life. Satan's family would be an extra bonus.

I am ending Blackmailing God today, the same day that I placed a hit out on Satan's life. I am halfway through rehab. Twenty days sober. Never ever touch Elysium-19. This feels like a good place to end this book and to start the next book in the series. I plan on never drinking again, but I'm taking it one day at a time, though. I am going to make un-fucking Earth my full-time job. I am taking six months off after being discharged from the Navy on June 3, 2021. Honorable discharge.

Various Plans That I Have Implemented:

Signal Plan: (Never Implemented)

Plan Alpha: God goes to therapy. (FAILED)

Plan Bravo: Satan goes to therapy. (FAILED)

Plan Charlie: God and Satan go to rehab. (FAILED)

Plan Delta: Death to Satan. (Coming Soon!)

My theory for life, now as compared to when I was younger, is like "don't be the one that sticks out." If you under-perform or over-perform, God and Satan will destroy your life. I thought that if you worked hard and that if you tried hard that you would be rewarded, but God and Satan sadistically fuck with anyone who tries to get ahead. God and Satan are the worst abominations to life. They do not stand for anything but suffering and misery. Hopefully, God and Satan will be eliminated or destroyed soon. Ideally, they will get mental health services, go to rehab, go to therapy, and start helping (not hindering) humanity.

I am using my medical insurance from the Navy to go back to rehab. I am going to spill my guts to my counselors and talk about everything. I have contacted an editor today, July 21, 2021. My goal is to have this all edited and published in three months. Everything is backed up digitally and in hard copy. There is even a hard copy in a safety deposit box. Remember, God never wanted anything to be written down because then there would be proof of his criminality. Oh, and same thing for Satan. Satan doesn't want there to be any proof of this either. Check. Mate.

One hundred fifty million dollars to not publish this book? Nope. I am not accepting a buyout anymore. The past thirty-three years of life, in addition to the past three years that Satan/God/demons have been torturing me, have been hell.

It has been therapeutic to write about this all. This experience was the most stressful experience I have ever had in my life. No joke. I still have flashbacks sometimes to visions of the universe. Eventually, my relationship with God tapered off. The relationship waned and God started to be angrier and more malicious. I could see how someone could get PTSD from messing around with E-19. Again, I strongly caution that you do not try it. Since this experience, I have been slightly demotivated to help others out because the system is rigged to make things difficult for humanity and hinder further progress. However, I like helping people, so I am not going to let Satan and God take that source of happiness away from me—ever. If it was not God that I contacted and “God” was actually Satan, then Satan is responsible for me writing this book, so I am off the hook. Whoever it really was, they opened their mouth and talked about way too much. They named others who are involved. This takes the blame off of me.

Love: The only answer is love.

God started Earth and then could not even take care of it, nor will God actually take care of it. God never planned on paying the money to me. He is a scoundrel and does not live up to his word and promises. And I am not going to sell out my own species. The same goes for Satan. That is why this book was published. To spread the word about God and Satan. I think that God and Satan know that I am not messing around, but God and Satan are going to do what God and Satan do best: abandon problems. This is a warning for humanity. There is never going to be a deus ex machina because God is so evil, non-confrontational, so selfish and non-committal, that God is never, ever, ever going to “come back” to Earth. Satan is the same way.

God and Satan do not give two fucks about humanity. God and Satan do not feel like that. We as humans are fucked if we do not get our shit together. Dealing and living with God as God is is what humans can expect to get. The same for living with Satan. I am frankly sick of all of this bullshit. I prayed to God and said that God was not a good influence on my life. God is not a good influence on my life, so I needed to “break up” with God, and that is what I did. Let’s hope that God doesn’t act like a douchebag from here on out. Ditto for Satan. Praise be to Jesus Christ.
